HIV/AIDS and Food and Nutrition Security Stuart Gillespie, Suneetha Kadiyala, 2005
 The HIV/AIDS pandemic is a global crisis with consequences that will be felt for decades to come. Thirty nine million people are currently infected with the virus, including more than 25 million from Sub-Saharan Africa. Many millions more are affected in different ways. The ability of households and communities to ensure their own food and nutrition security is increasingly being threatened. With the most detailed evidence base yet assembled, this review systematically maps our growing knowledge of the interactions between HIV/AIDS and food and nutrition security, pointing to where and how future policy needs to change to remain relevant and effective.

Biofuels, Land Grabbing and Food Security in Africa Atakilte Beyene, Prosper B. Matondi, Kjell Havnevik, 2011-06-09
 The issue of biofuels has already been much debated, but the focus to date has largely been on Latin America and deforestation. This highly original work breaks fresh ground in looking at the African perspective. Most African governments see biofuels as having the potential to increase agricultural productivity and export incomes and thus strengthen their national economies, improving energy balances and rural employment. At the same time, climate change may be addressed through reduction of greenhouse gas emissions. There are, however, a number of uncertainties mounting that challenge this scenario. Using cutting-edge empirical case studies, this knowledge gap is addressed in a variety of chapters examining the effects of large-scale biofuel production on African agriculture. In particular, land grabbing and food security issues are scrutinised, both of which have become vital topics in regard to the environmental and developmental governance of African countries. A revealing book for anyone wishing to understand the startling impact of biofuels and land grabbing on Africa.

Food Security: Sustainability and Accessibility Sumit Chakravarty, Arun Jyoti Nath, Gopal Shukla, 2024-01-17
 Food security satisfies people's dietary needs by ensuring physical, social, and economic access to sufficient, safe, and nutritious food. Nowadays, food security is of prime importance because not only does it overcome hunger, poverty, and malnutrition, but it also determines the national security and political and economic sovereignty of states. However, according to the FAO report 2021, 2.37 billion people, nearly one in three people in the world, did not have adequate food availability in 2020. The green revolution created an era of extraordinary food production worldwide, but agriculture-oriented developing countries face adverse impacts such as loss of ecosystem quality and biodiversity and environmental degradation. Besides several challenges such as population growth, pollution, natural resource depletion, agricultural land conversions, and climate change, are further developing concerns in achieving food security.

African Rural Livelihoods under Stress [?], 2008-12
 Presents the six villages where field work was conducted on the role of land and labour in forming the basis of the livelihoods of rural households. Considers the interrelationship among the indigenous land tenure systems, customary inheritance rules, increasing land scarcity, and people's strategies to obtain land rights. Discusses the types of agricultural labour, consisting of family workers and hired workers, and the significance of major crops grown, namely maize.

Carayannis,Evangelos Grigoroudis,Stelios Rozakis,2017-11-21 This volume presents a state of the art overview of the rapidly evolving field of agribusiness highlighting the most current issues concepts trends and themes in research practice and policy With a particular emphasis on technology product and process innovation the authors cover a wide array of topics relating to such issues as research and development technology transfer and patents and licensing with particular respect to the roles of academic institutions private organizations and public agencies in generating and disseminating knowledge Featuring case studies of innovative initiatives across the industry this book will appeal to researchers business leaders university administrators and policymakers concerned with the multi faceted implications of this dynamic and controversial sector Evaluation of the FAO response to the crisis in the Lake Chad Basin 2015–2018 Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations ,2021-01-28 Forty nine million people live in the Lake Chad region exploiting its rich natural resources and relatively constant supply of water fodder and fertile land all year round The area used to be a food production hub with local markets supplying produce to Cameroon Chad the Niger and Nigeria However poor natural resource management poor coordination across the different countries of the region and the widespread impact of climate change have contributed to the significant deterioration of the Lake's natural ecosystem capacity. Agricultural soils and pastures have been widely degraded leading to a huge reduction in food productivity and thus job opportunities especially for the youth living in rural areas who account for a high percentage of the population. Conflicts and tensions have created a conducive context for young people in search of income and opportunities to join the Boko Haram terrorist movement originated in Nigeria. This evaluation was conducted to address FAO's response to the Lake Chad Basin crisis including interventions conducted in 2015-2018 as FAO published the Lake Chad Basin Crisis Response Strategy 2017-2019 to address the needs of the identified 6.9 million people affected by soaring food insecurity in the Lake Chad Basin in early 2017. The objectives of this evaluation were to analyse FAO's responses to the crisis at operating level with a focus on efficiency, effectiveness and sustainability while assessing the relevance and consistency of the regional approach from a strategic perspective. The evaluation team visited many of the areas concerned and at the end of each visit they organized a debriefing session with the respective FAO country team to share information gathered and collect complementary data and analysis to inform its deliberations. This helped to ensure transparency in the data collection process and to maximize the learning process. For FAO to support the food security and nutrition of communities in the Lake Chad region effectively, a regional strategy focused on supporting the resilience of communities is relevant and appropriate. Complementary to FAO's country-based programmes, a regional strategy bears the potential to devise interventions that adapt to the cross-border nature of issues that each country faces and would allow supporting a more cohesive and collaborative way of working. Based on the Regional Response Strategy 2017-2019, FAO should revise its strategy and approach by incorporating governmental objectives and translate it into an operational action plan in line with other partners' strategies in the region.
