same generic title Biobanking of Human Biospecimens with different subtitles making clear that the two volumes are interrelated while highlighting their specificities in terms of what they actually cover As a result the two books are twins but can also be used independently of each other The overarching aim of the two volumes of Biobanking of Human Biospecimens is to provide a published one stop shop for state of the art information on what constitutes the field of human biobanking from conception of a biobank standard operating procedures ethical and societal aspects governance networking interoperability and economic sustainability This inclusive publication concept meets the needs of a vast readership including scientists doctors and technical staffs who are directly involved in biobanking operations scientists in other disciplines that heavily rely on biobanking such as genomics or proteomics stakeholders and policy makers and of course students for whom biobanking is becoming an important part of the training curriculum So far there has been a lack of major textbooks on biobanking Documentation for biobanking is widely available through numerous publications regulatory documents published by International or Governmental Agencies and sets of recommendations essentially accessible through the Internet However it is difficult to access a single top of the shelf reference that provides at a glance a large coverage of all aspects of human biobanking Fulfilling this need is the main origin of the concept for this back to back publication project To our knowledge there is currently no other publication project with the same breath and scope as this one in the field of biobanking
