Structured dialog The dialog between the consultant and the users should be based on the structure of this book The consultant would demonstrate a business transaction e g goods receipt in its simplest form He would then explain the data items on the screens their meaning and significance He would enquire whether the data item is relevant for the client company The data items that are not relevant can be hidden in the implementation and related configuration marked as not required When the consultant would come to a section explaining IMG node his questions to the user would be designed to collect the information required to configure that node

Prototyping As the structured dialog continues the consultant would go on doing the configuration By the end of the dialog the consultant would have built a company specific prototype

Training and trials The prototype would be a rough cut implementation of SAP for the company It would be used for training the users After training the users would try out the system They would perform routine transactions several times using real life data of their company They would try different scenarios and record their observations

Refinement After prototype trials the consultant and the users would sit together to discuss what the users required to do but could not do with the prototype The consultant would use this input to refine the prototype and to build new functionality if needed

Configuration manual The documentation of SAP implementation includes a configuration manual This configuration manual should be structured on the lines of this book as explained in Chapter 34 Such a configuration manual will be easy to understand as it groups logically related elements together
