Risk and Society: The Interaction of Science, Technology and Public Policy M Waterstone, 2012-12-06 Life in the last quarter of the twentieth century presents a baffling array of complex issues The benefits of technology are arrayed against the risks and hazards of those same technological marvels frequently though not always arising as side effects or by products This confrontation poses very difficult choices for individuals as well as for those charged with making public policy Some of the most challenging of these issues result because of the ability of technological innovation and deployment to outpace the capacity of institutions to assess and evaluate implications In many areas the rate of technological advance has now far outstripped the capabilities of institutional monitoring and control While there are many instances in which technological advance occurs without adverse consequences and in fact yields tremendous benefits frequently the advent of a major innovation brings a wide array of unforeseen and to some undesirable effects This problem is exacerbated as the interval between the initial development of a technology and its deployment is shortened since the opportunity for cautious appraisal is decreased

Michelson,2016-05-12 A growing problem of interest in the field of science and technology policy is that the next generation of innovations is arriving at an accelerating rate and the governance system is struggling to catch up Current approaches and institutions for effective technology assessment are ill suited and poorly designed to proactively address the multidimensional interconnected societal impacts of science and technology advancements that are already taking place and expected to continue over the course of the 21st century This book offers tangible insights into the strategies deployed by well known high profile organizations involved in anticipating the various societal and policy implications of nanotechnology and synthetic biology It focuses predominantly on an examination of the practices adopted by the often cited and uniquely positioned Project on Emerging Nanotechnologies in the United States as well as being informed by comparisons with a range of institutions also interested in embedding forward looking perspectives in their respective area of innovation The book lays out one of the first actionable roadmaps that other interested stakeholders can follow when working toward institutionalizing anticipatory governance practices throughout the policymaking process      Beyond One Health John A.
