

FRENCH FUTURE TENSE (LE FUTUR SIMPLE)

The future verb stem is in blue. For regular ER & IR verbs, it is simply the infinitive.

The future endings are in red. They are the same for every verb in the French language when conjugated in the futur simple.

je parlerai	I will speak
tu parleras	you will speak
il/elle parlera	he/she will speak nous parlerons	we will speak
vous parlerez	you will speak
ils/elles parleront	they will speak

Note also that the futur simple endings are the same as "avoir" (to have) in the present tense.

Text, Time, and Context Richard P. Meier, Helen Aristar-Dry, Emilie Destruel, 2009-10-20 Carlota S Smith was a key figure in linguistic research and a pioneering woman in generative linguistics This selection of papers focuses on the research into tense aspect and discourse that Smith completed while Professor of Linguistics at the University of Texas at Austin Smith's early work in English syntax is still cited today and her early career also yielded key research on language acquisition by young children Starting in the mid 1970s after her move to UT she embarked on her most important line of research In numerous papers the first of which was published in 1975 and in a very important 1991 book The Parameter of Aspect Smith analyzed how languages encode time and how they encode the ways events and situations occur over time Smith's work on the expression of time in language is notable because of its careful analyses of a number of quite different languages including not only English and French but also Russian Mandarin and Navajo Inspired by a year in France in the early 1970s Smith began to analyze the differing ways in which languages encode time and how they encode the ways events and situations occur over time In doing so she developed her signature two component theory of aspect This model of temporal aspect provided an excellent framework for graduate students seeking to analyze the temporal systems of an array of languages including under described languages that are so much the focus of research in UT's Linguistics Department Selected by Carlota Smith herself and by her longtime friends and colleagues this book contains her 1980 piece on temporal structures in discourse her 1986 comparison of the English and French aspectual systems a 1996 paper on the aspect system in Navajo an increasingly endangered language which Smith worked to preserve and her 1980 and 1993 papers on the child's acquisition of tense and aspect Smith who died in 2007 was a trailblazer in her field whose broad interests fed into her scholarly research She was an avid reader who sought to bring the analytic tools of linguistics to the humanistic study of literature by examining the syntactic and pragmatic principles which underlie literary effects Her research on rhetorical and temporal effects in context was integrated into her last book Modes of Discourse 2003 The current volume of articles covers much of her most fruitful work on the way in which language is used to express time and will be essential reading for many working and studying in linguistics generally and in semantics particularly

The Interface between Scientific and Technical Translation Studies and Cognitive Linguistics Ralph Krüger, 2015-04-17 Scientific and Technical Translation STT is a highly complex and knowledge intensive field of translation and cognitive linguistics is a usage based linguistic framework which provides powerful theoretical tools for modelling knowledge organisation and representation in discourse This book explores the interface between scientific and technical translation studies and cognitive linguistics by discussing the epistemological contextual textual and cross linguistic dimensions of scientific and technical translation from a cognitive linguistic perspective Particular emphasis is placed on explicitation and implicitation as indicators of the interaction between text and context in STT The corpusbased investigation of the two phenomena illustrates the complex knowledge requirements pertaining to scientific and technical translation and demonstrates the explanatory power of cognitive linguistics with regard to important textual and contextual aspects of STT

Manual of Romance Morphosyntax and Syntax Andreas Dufter, Elisabeth Stark, 2017-09-25 This volume offers theoretically informed surveys of topics that have figured prominently in morphosyntactic and syntactic research into Romance languages and dialects We define syntax as being the linguistic component that assembles linguistic units such as roots or functional morphemes into grammatical sentences and morphosyntax as being an umbrella term for all morphological relations between these linguistic units which either trigger morphological marking e.g. explicit case morphemes or are related to ordering issues e.g. subjects precede finite verbs whenever there is number agreement between them All 24 chapters adopt a comparative perspective on these two fields of research highlighting cross linguistic grammatical similarities and differences within the Romance language family In addition many chapters address issues related to variation observable within individual Romance languages and grammatical change from Latin to Romance

Future Tense Roxanne Panchasi, 2009 In the years between the world wars French intellectuals politicians and military leaders came to see certain encounters between human and machine organic and artificial national and international culture as premonitions of a future that was alternately unsettling and utopian Skyscrapers airplanes and gas masks were seen as traces in the present of a future world its technologies and its possible transformations In Future Tense Roxanne Panchasi illuminates both the anxieties and the hopes of a period when many French people traumatized by what their country had already suffered seemed determined to anticipate and shape the future Future Tense which features many compelling illustrations depicts experts proposing the prosthetic enhancement of the nation's bodies and homes architects discussing whether skyscrapers should be banned from Paris military strategists creating a massive fortification network the Maginot Line and French delegates to the League of Nations declaring their opposition to the artificial international language Esperanto Drawing on a wide range of sources Panchasi explores representations of the body the city and territorial security as well as changing understandings of a French civilization many believed to be threatened by Americanization Panchasi makes clear that memories of the past and even nostalgia for what might be lost in the future were crucial features of the culture of anticipation that emerged in the interwar period

Bridging Cultures Ciara, 2014-04-15 With the rapidly developing globalization of various sectors of modern life individuals organizations and nations are becoming increasingly aware of the ways in which cultural diversity may not only be a potential cause of conflict but also a source of growth creativity and inspiration If traditionally intercultural mediation has been understood as a conflict solving strategy or as a means to facilitate communication between individuals from different cultural backgrounds Bridging Culture aims at providing a framework and a set of theoretical reflections towards a larger vision of the field presenting mediation as a particular form of critical intervention within the different domains of the humanities The contributions in the present volume take intercultural mediation to be a multifaceted interdisciplinary phenomenon impacting upon the fields of linguistics and literature as well as translation and cultural studies where themes such as interculturality multilingualism and cultural transfer are continual and urgent features of contemporary discourse and debate

The French Atlantic Bill Marshall, 2009-01-01 The French Atlantic is a compelling and timely contribution to ongoing debates about nationhood culture and Frenchness that have come to define France and its diaspora in light of the diplomatic fracas surrounding the Iraq war and other mass cultural events With interdisciplinary navigation of fields nearly as diverse as the locations he explores Bill Marshall considers the cultural history of seven different French Atlantic spaces from Quebec to the southern Caribbean to North Atlantic territory and back to metropolitan France in this groundbreaking study of the Atlantic world

The Drama in the Text Enoch Brater, 1994 In this rich and perceptive study of some of the most haunting fiction written in the late twentieth century Beckett critic Enoch Brater continues his investigation of the tension between text and script silence and associational sound Brater argues with great learning that Beckett's fiction like his radio plays demands to be read aloud since much of the emotional meaning lodges in its tonality Here the rhythm of Beckett's labouring heart finds its performative voice as the reader now turned listener collaborates in the creation of a musical composition that must elucidate the stillness of the universe The Drama in the Text is a book about reciting and recounting about how we know and what we know when we read a lyrical text crafted in prose but sounding like something else instead Brater ranges across all of Beckett's work quoting from it liberally and makes connections mainly with other writers but also with details drawn from the whole Western cultural heritage The only book that deals thoroughly with Beckett's complete late fiction Brater's study opens to a wide literary audience the difficult and elliptical nature of Beckett's mature prose style For those readers who find Beckett's late fiction impossible to follow let alone describe this book will be an authoritative and persuasive guide providing recognition insight and accessibility
