Gershwin, Yehuda Shoenfeld, 2000-03-27 Of the two disciplines in parallel development for two decades tumor immunology and transplantation immunology the latter has thrived and has led to some of the most critical discoveries in immunobiology The former continues to thwart both scientists and clinicians alike The goal of immunologists in modern day research is to develop a simple and effective means to manipulate cancer in vivo possibly encompassing several venues identifying a phenotypic marker and the use of either active or passive immunization include the use of passive reagents carrying warheads to selectively destroy cancer cells or altering the basic process of cell survival This excellent multidiscipline authored volume presents a theme which has not been well described before The papers include both basic and clinical science and range from sophisticated molecular biology to little more than phenomenology e g the increased association of cancer in some autoimmune diseases and increased presentation of autoimmune phenomena in malignant condition This however is state of the art This collection of themes will be of use not only to bench scientists but also to clinicians who treat patients The book represents progress at the cutting edge of this discipline and points the way to further developments in the black box of immunology

Citizenship Education and Social Development in Zambia Ali A. Abdi, Edward Shizha, Lee Ellis, 2010-06-01 Zambia the butterfly shaped central African country has a population of about 11 million people and as other Sub Saharan African countries has been trying to democratize since the early 1990s Clearly though the promise of political reform did not fulfill the expectations of the public and with about 60 percent of the population living below the poverty line many Zambians are no longer confident that more open political systems can improve their lives But the problem may not be inherent in the political process itself and could be found more in the apparent disconnection between people's needs and the way the country's affairs are run It is with respect to these and related issues that this book emphasizes the crucial relationship between education and political participation and specifically highlights citizenship education as essential for Zambia's social development Social development which should comprise inter alia the economic political and cultural wellbeing of societies can be enhanced by citizenship education which focuses on elevating people's understanding of their rights and responsibilities vis vis government institutions structures and functions Indeed it is the centrality of the political component in people's lives especially its relationship with public policy and public programs that should underline the important role of citizenship education In describing these issues the book analyzes the role of the media women's groups and youth in enhancing the political educational and by extension the economic lives of the Zambian people The book should interest students and scholars of Zambian as well as African education politics and social development It should also be useful for policy makers institutional managers and both public and para public leaders in Zambia and elsewhere in the continent
