House Of Stairs William Sleator:

Cruel Children in Popular Texts and Cultures Monica Flegel, Christopher Parkes, 2018-04-19 This book explores how alarmist social discourses about cruel young people fail to recognize the complexity of cruelty and the role it plays in child agency Examining representations of cruel young people in popular texts and popular culture the collected essays demonstrate how gender race and class influence who gets labeled cruel and which actions are viewed as negative aggressive and disruptive It shows how representations of cruel young people negotiate the violence that shadows polite society and how narratives of cruelty and aggression are used to affirm or to deny young people s agency

House of Stairs William Sleator, 1974 Five fifteen year old orphans of widely varying personality characteristics are involuntarily placed in a house of endless stairs as subjects for a psychological experiment on conditioned human response

Disturbing the Universe Roberta S. Trites, 1998-04-01 The Young Adult novel is ordinarily characterized as a coming of age story in which the narrative revolves around the individual growth and maturation of a character but Roberta Trites expands this notion by chronicling the dynamics of power and repression that weave their way through YA books Characters in these novels must learn to negotiate the levels of power that exist in the myriad social institutions within which they function including family church government and school Trites argues that the development of the genre over the past thirty years is an outgrowth of postmodernism since YA novels are by definition texts that interrogate the social construction of individuals Drawing on such nineteenth century precursors as Little Women and Adventures of Huckleberry Finn Disturbing the Universe demonstrates how important it is to employ poststructuralist methodologies in analyzing adolescent literature both in critical studies and in the classroom Among the twentieth century authors discussed are Blume Hamilton Hinton Le Guin L Engle and Zindel Trites work has applications for a broad range of readers including scholars of children s literature and theorists of post modernity as well as librarians and secondary school teachers Disturbing the Universe Power and Repression in Adolescent Literature by Roberta Seelinger Trites is the winner of the 2002 Children s Literature Association s Book Award The award is given annually in order to promote and recognize outstanding contributions to children s literature history scholarship and criticism it is one of the highest academic honors that can accrue to an author of children s literary criticism

Representations of Technology in Science Fiction for Young People Noga Applebaum, 2009-09-10 In this new book Noga Applebaum surveys science fiction novels published for children and young adults from 1980 to the present exposing the anti technological bias existing within a genre often associated with the celebration of technology Applebaum argues that perceptions of technology as a corrupting force particularly in relation to its use by young people are a manifestation of the enduring allure of the myth of childhood innocence and result in young adult fiction that endorses a technophobic agenda This agenda is a form of resistance to the changing face of childhood and technology's contribution to this change Further Applebaum contends that technophobic literature disempowers its young readers by implying that the technologies of the future are inherently dangerous while it neglects to acknowledge children's complex yet pleasurable interactions with technology today The study looks at works by well known authors including M T Anderson Monica Hughes Lois Lowry Garth Nix and Philip Reeve and explores topics such as ecology cloning the impact of technology on narrative structure and the adult child hierarchy While focusing on the popular genre of science fiction as a useful case study Applebaum demonstrates that negative attitudes toward technology exist within children's literature in general making the book of considerable interest to scholars of both science fiction and children's literature

Representations of Technology in Science Fiction for Young People , Campbell's Scoop Patty Campbell, 2010-02-19 At the request of her many fans Patty Campbell editor of the Scarecrow Studies in Young Adult Literature series has selected some of her best essays articles columns and speeches in Campbell's Scoop These pieces define the boundaries between children's and adult literature and review the trends censorship problems and glories of the genre Other essays reflect on some concerns and interests of young adult literature as it has matured the verse novel ambivalent endings violence the sometimes dubious value of awards and honor lists the graphic novel and the difficulties of the genre's recent overwhelming success A section titled Inside ALA looks at the author's many years of service to that organization with among other pieces a firsthand look at the Best Books committee at work and a report of her attempt to unite booksellers and librarians in common cause Many of these selections show the idiosyncratic wit and passion that have made Campbell's column a favorite with Horn Book readers an exploration of the meaning of the glut of YA novels with death as a theme or character an indignant denunciation of the fictional abuse of animals a snarky analysis of chick lit and a technical review from the belly dancing critic of a YA novel featuring that ancient art On a more serious note Campbell pleads for what she calls Godsearch in books for teens and pays tribute to her late friend Robert Cormier Without question the essays in Campbell's Scoop provide readers with the unique insights of an advocate who is passionate about young adult literature and its future
