Design for the Changing Educational Landscape Andrew Harrison, Les Hutton, 2013-10-15. The whole landscape of space use is undergoing a radical transformation. In the workplace, a period of unprecedented change has created a mix of responses with one overriding outcome observable worldwide: the rise of distributed space. In the learning environment, the social, political, economic, and technological changes responsible for this shift have been further compounded by constantly developing theories of learning and teaching and a wide acceptance of the importance of learning as the core of the community, resulting in the blending of all aspects of learning into one seamless experience. This book attempts to look at all the forces driving the provision and pedagogic performance of the many spaces, real and virtual, that now accommodate the experience of learning and provide pointers towards the creation and design of learning-centred communities. Part 1 looks at the entire learning universe as it now stands, tracks the way in which its constituent parts came to occupy their role, assesses how they have responded to a complex of drivers, and gauges their success in dealing with renewed pressures to perform. It shows that what is required is innovation within the spaces and integration between them. Part 2 finds many examples of innovation in evidence across the world in schools the higher and further education campus and in business and cultural spaces but an almost total absence of integration Part 3 offers a model that redefines the learning landscape in terms of learning outcomes mapping spatial requirements and activities into a detailed mechanism that will achieve the best outcome at the most appropriate scale By encouraging stakeholders to creating an events based rather than space based identity the book hopes to point the way to a fully integrated learning landscape a learning community

Construction Detailing for Landscape and Garden Design Paul Hensey, 2016-05-12 Designs for gardens and landscapes need to contain accurate information to ensure that both the designer's intent is clear and to enable the highest quality constructions This book contains the elements most often used when detailing surfaces with key information on standards guidance and construction that the practitioner must be aware of Alongside the text are 2D and 3D images with suggestions of measurements design considerations and materials Key topics covered in this book are Vehicular paving Pedestrian paving and patios Steps and ramps Margins edges and kerbs Drainage channels To be used in conjunction with the book is an innovative online library of freely downloadable CAD SketchUp format details which link directly to those in the book These details are available for the reader to edit adapt and use in their own designs and make the task of detailing for projects that little bit easier

Landscape Architecture Jamie Liversedge, Robert Holden, 2014-03-03 Aimed at prospective and new students this book gives a comprehensive introduction to the nature and practice of landscape architecture the professional skills required and the latest developments After discussing the history of the profession the book explains the design process through principles such as hierarchy human scale unity harmony asymmetry colour form and texture It looks at how design is represented through both drawing and modelling and through digital techniques such as CAD and the use of GIS Geographic Information Systems This is followed by an examination of project management and landscape management techniques Finally the book explores educational and employment opportunities and the future of the profession in the context of climate change and sustainability Illustrated with international examples of completed projects Landscape Architecture provides an invaluable one stop resource for anyone considering studying or a career in this field
