National Plots Andrea Cabajsky,Brett Josef Grubisic,2010-10-04 Fiction that reconsiders challenges reshapes and or upholds national narratives of history has long been an integral aspect of Canadian literature Works by writers of historical fiction from early practitioners such as John Richardson to contemporary figures such as Alice Munro and George Elliott Clarke propose new views and understandings of Canadian history and individual relationships to it Critical evaluation of these works sheds light on the complexity of these depictions The contributors in National Plots Historical Fiction and Changing Ideas of Canada critically examine texts with subject matter ranging from George Vancouver s west coast explorations to the eradication of the Beothuk in Newfoundland Reflecting diverse methodologies and theoretical approaches the essays seek to explicate depictions of the historical in individual texts and to explore larger questions relating to historical fiction as a genre with complex and divergent political motivations and goals Although the topics of the essays vary widely as a whole the collection raises and answers questions about the significance of the roles historical fiction has played within Canadian culture for nearly two centuries

Global Realignments and the Canadian Nation in the Third Millennium Karin Ika,2010 With aggravating global realignments the dynamics and contradictions of a world risk society are looming ahead in the unfolding Third Millennium while globalization is gaining further steam To this bears witness a potpourri of often frightening geopolitical social cultural economic demographic ecological and other changes and challenges that gives substantial cause for concern about getting lost in a trans whatever sea of turmoil uncertainty and indeterminateness The resultant current backlash or rather renewed interest in the nation as a collective identity establishing category is an effort to gain some anchorage in ever more disintegrating times and proves especially those theoreticians wrong for whom the whole concept of the nation has worn off since long In 16 resourceful essays internationally distinguished Canadian and European experts from a variety of fields take a fresh look at these developments by focussing on one of the most fascinating multicultural and multifaceted nation state s in the world Canada in the Third Millennium The topics they discuss include among others Canada s difficult dissociation from Europe and the USA the reframing and reclaiming of the Canadian story the role of nations within the nation the efforts to transcend the nation pending geopolitical and geo ecological crises global issues and new wars Collectively the entries prove that Canada is a very progressive nation and opens up new perspectives for other collectives currently reassessing their national identities in a global environment Thus the book reaches well beyond the study of Canada and will be valuable to academics professionals teachers and students of various disciplines coping with the issue at stake as well as the general reader

Canadian Literary Landmarks John Robert Colombo,1984-01-01 Here is a list of three dozen of the top literary locales in the country The selection of sites is necessarily subjective yet it attempts to represent geographical historical social and cultural concerns as well as strictly literary interests Had this list been prepared by the editors of Michelin Guide they would have added asterisks or stars to the entries Interesting Worth a detour Worth a journey It is the opinion of the author of Canadian Literary Landmarks that all thirty six sites are Worth a journey It is recognized that the average person is unlikely to visit No 1 not to mention No 36 but as these sites happen to be the first and last entries in the book they mark a convenient and symbolic beginning and ending No 1 being L Anse aux Meadows Epaves Bay Nfld and No 36 being the North Pole NWT

Catching the Torch Neta Gordon,2014-03-25 Catching the Torch examines contemporary novels and plays written about Canada s participation in World War I Exploring such works as Jane Urquhart s The Underpainter and The Stone Carvers Jack Hodgins s Broken Ground Kevin Kerr s Unity 1918 Stephen Massicotte s Mary s Wedding and Frances Itani s Deafening the book considers how writers have dealt with the compelling myth that the Canadian nation was born in the trenches of the Great War In contrast to British and European remembrances of WWI which tend to regard it as a cataclysmic destroyer of innocence or Australian myths that promote an ideal of outsize masculinity physical bravery and white superiority contemporary Canadian texts conjure up notions of distinctively Canadian values tolerance of ethnic difference the ability to do one s duty without complaint or arrogance and the inclination to show moral as well as physical courage Paradoxically Canadians are shown to decry the horrors of war while making use of its productive cultural effects Through a close analysis of the way sacrifice service and the commemoration of war are represented in these literary works Catching the Torch argues that iterations of a secure mythic notion of national identity one that is articulated via the representation of straightforward civic and military participation work to counter current anxieties about the stability of the nation state in particular anxieties about the failure of the ideal of a national character Modern Realism in English-Canadian Fiction Colin Hill,2012-01-01 Much of the scholarship on twentieth century Canadian literature has argued that English Canadian fiction was plagued by backwardness and an inability to engage fully with the movement of modernism that was so prevalent in British and American fiction and poetry Modern Realism in English Canadian Fiction re evaluates Canadian literary culture to posit that it has been misunderstood because it is a distinct genre a regional form of the larger international modernist movement Examining literary magazines manifestos archival documents and major writers such as Frederick Philip Grove Morley Callaghan and Raymond Knister Colin Hill identifies a modern realism that crosses regions as well as urban and rural divides A bold reading of the modern realist aesthetic and an articulate challenge to several enduring and limiting myths about Canadian writing Modern Realism in English Canadian Fiction will stimulate important debate in literary circles everywhere

New Canadian Library Janet Beverly Friskney, 2007-01-01 In the mid 1950s much Canadian literature was out of print making it relatively inaccessible to readers including those studying the subject in schools and universities When English professor Malcolm Ross approached Toronto publisher Jack McClelland in 1952 to propose a Canadian literary reprint series it was still the accepted wisdom among publishers that Canadian literature was of insufficient interest to the educational market to merit any great publishing risks Eventually convinced by Ross that a latent market for Canadian literary reprints did indeed exist McClelland Stewart launched the New Canadian Library NCL series in 1958 with Ross as its general editor In 2008 the NCL will celebrate a half century of publication In New Canadian Library Janet B Friskney takes the reader through the early history of the NCL series focusing on the period up to 1978 when Malcolm Ross retired as general editor A wealth of archival resources published reviews and the NCL volumes themselves are used to survey the working relationship between Ross and McClelland as well as the collaborative participation of those who through the middle decades of the twentieth century were committed to studying and nurturing Canada s literary heritage To place the New Canadian Library in its proper historical context

Friskney examines the simultaneous development of Canadian literary studies as a legitimate area of research and teaching in academe and acknowledges the NCL as a milestone in Canadian publishing history Northern Spring George Woodcock, Canada. Embassy (U.S.), 1982
