Beginning

Any new beginning poses several important questions. Exactly what am I beginning, and what am I about to encounter? How shall I best proceed? Where might be the most appropriate position to start from? Beginnings are exciting things, inviting us to explore that which we may not have previously visited; but they also expose us to the unfamiliarity and inevitable disorientation of doing something new.

Beginning Postcolonialism is an attempt to help you to make your own beginnings in one of the most exciting and challenging fields of study that has emerged in recent years. It is a book primarily concerned with reading practices. It aims to introduce you to the various ways that we can approach, perhaps for the first time, literatures in English produced by writers who either come from, or have an ancestral purchase upon, countries with a history of colonialism. In addition, we will reconsider our approaches to older, more familiar literary works that seem to have little to do with the fortunes of Empire. By the end of this book you will have encountered many new concepts which will help you build and develop your readings of the range of literatures which preoccupy postcolonialism.

That said, we should also be clear what this book is not. It will not be attempting to offer a full history of the various literatures often considered 'postcolonial'. There already exists some excellent work which narrates the emergence and fortunes of postcolonial

Firefly Revisited Michael Goodrum, Philip Smith, 2015-02-02 According to Joss Whedon the creator of the short lived series Firefly 2002 the cult show is about nine people looking into the blackness of space and seeing nine different things The chronicles of crewmembers on a scruffy space freighter Firefly ran for only four months before its abrupt cancellation In that brief time however it established a reputation as one of the best science fiction programs of the new millennium sharply written superbly cast and set on an exotic multicultural frontier unlike anything ever seen on the small screen The show s large enthusiastic fan following supported a series of comics and a theatrical film Serenity 2005 that extended the story deepened the characters and revealed new wonders and dangers on the deep space frontier In Firefly Revisited Essays on Joss Whedon s Classic Series Michael Goodrum and Philip Smith present a collection that reflects on the program the characters and the post cancellation film and comics that grew out of the show The contributors to this volume offer fresh perspectives on familiar characters and blaze new trails into unexplored areas of the Firefly universe Individual essays explore the series place in the history of the space Western subgenre the political economy of the Alliance and the uses of music and language in the series to immerse audiences in a multicultural future These essays look at how the show offered viewers high adventure as well as engaged with a range of themes that still resonate today As such Firefly Revisited will intrigue the show s many fans as well as Whedon scholars and anyone interested in the twenty first century renaissance of science fiction television

The 1980s: A Decade of Contemporary British Fiction Philip Tew, Emily Horton, Leigh Wilson, 2014-02-27 How did social cultural and political events in Britain during the 1980s shape contemporary British fiction Setting the fiction squarely within the context of Conservative politics and questions about culture and national identity this volume reveals how the decade associated with Thatcherism frames the work of Kazuo Ishiguro Martin Amis and Graham Swift of Scottish novelists and new diasporic writers How and why 1980s fiction is a response to particular psychological social and economic pressures is explored in detail Drawing on the rise of individualism and the birth of neo liberalism contributors reflect on the tense relations between 1980s politics and realism and between elegy and satire Noting the creation of a heritage industry during the decade the rise of the historical novel is also considered against broader cultural changes Viewed from the perspective of more recent theorisations of crisis following both 9 11 and the 21st century financial crash this study makes sense of why and how writers of the 1980s constructed fictions in response to this decade s own set of fundamental crises

Writing the Earth, Darkly Isabel Hoving, 2017-02-08 Why do we find so many references to nature and the environment in the many Caribbean literary texts that try to come to terms with the contemporary age of globalization Even when these novels and poems do not seem to be concerned with environmental issues at all they abound with fragrant creepy or dark references to flowers insects trees gardens and mud This book discusses a range of Anglophone and Dutch language Caribbean literary texts to propose an answer It shows that some writers evoke nature to question oppressive notions of what is natural and what is not when it comes to race gender and desire Other writers choose to counter the destructive dichotomies of wildness order nature culture nature human that marked colonialism Instead they represent the environment as a field of interconnectedness marked by intense semiotic interaction in which human beings are also implicated But writing about nature can also be a means to reconnect with the very foundations of life itself In the most dramatic cases references to nature evoke an extra discursive space that then functions to subvert existing discourses That space may even mark the site of the annihilation of discourse or of the self These texts suggest that in times of globalization it is only the dark queer turn to matter that will free the path to imagining human existence in a new way The book s proposal to understand some of these fascinating texts as an effort to relate to the mind baffling explosive real is inspired by postcolonial trauma theory posthumanism and new materialism However Caribbean literature is a layered practice that does much more than merely explore the world s materiality It works simultaneously as cultural critique counter discourse and as the manipulation of affect This book therefore brings together ecocriticism with Caribbean and postcolonial studies the study of globalization trauma theory the study of gender and sexuality posthumanism and new materialism to bring out the full complexity of these wise texts Thus it hopes to show its readers their extraordinary innovative potential Representation

“Indians Wear Red” Elizabeth Comack, Lawrence Deane, Larry Morrisette, Jim Silver, 2020-11-26T00:00:00Z With the advent of Aboriginal street gangs such as Indian Posse Manitoba Warriors and Native Syndicate Winnipeg garnered a reputation as the gang capital of Canada Yet beyond the stereotypes of outsiders little is known about these street gangs and the factors and conditions that have produced them Indians Wear Red locates Aboriginal street gangs in the context of the racialized poverty that has become entrenched in the colonized space of Winnipeg s North End Drawing upon extensive interviews with Aboriginal street gang members as well as with Aboriginal women and elders the authors develop an understanding from inside the inner city and through the voices of Aboriginal people especially street gang members themselves While economic restructuring and neo liberal state responses can account for the global proliferation of street gangs the authors argue that colonialism is a crucial factor in the Canadian context particularly in western Canadian urban centres Young Aboriginal people have resisted their social and economic exclusion by acting collectively as Indians But just as colonialism is destructive so too are street gang activities including the illegal trade in drugs Solutions lie not in quick fixes or getting tough on crime but in decolonization re connecting Aboriginal people with their cultures and building communities in which they can safely live and work

Transpacific Cartographies Melody Yunzi Li, 2023-12-15 Transpacific Cartographies examines how contemporary Chinese diasporic narratives address the existential loss of home for immigrant communities at a time of global precarity and amid rising Sino US tensions Focusing on cultural productions of the Chinese diaspora from the 1990s to the present including novels by the Sinophone writers Yan Geling The Criminal Lu Yanshi Shi Yu New York Lover Chen Qian Listen to the Caged Bird Sing and Rong Rong Notes of a Couple as well as by the Anglophone writer Ha Jin A Free Life A Map of Betrayal selected TV shows Beijinger in New York The Way We Were and online literature Melody Yunzi Li argues that the characters in these stories create multilayered maps that transcend the territorial boundaries that make finding a home in a foreign land a seemingly impossible task In doing so these maps outline a transpacific landscape that reflects the psycho geography of homemaking for diasporic communities Intersecting with and bridging Sinophone studies Chinese American studies and diaspora studies and drawing on theories of literary cartography Transpacific Cartographies demonstrates how these maps offer their readers different paths for finding a sense of home no matter where they are
