minorities The Asian Canadian Studies Reader is the first interdisciplinary collection of essays intended for undergraduate use about Canada's largest racialized minority group Reframing Sex Stevie N. Berberick, 2020-11-02 This book is an exploration of both mainstream and independent media Grounded in qualitative methods this book explores three trans masculine run YouTube channels alongside the streaming productions The Chilling Adventures of Sabrina Orange is the New Black and Transparent Analyzing and contrasting these narratives illuminates how even the most progressive of pop culture productions fail to present multi dimensional transgender narratives thereby intensifying stigma and shame for those outside of the binary male or female man or woman gay or straight In contrast trans masculine produced YouTube vlogs such as those discussed in this book can help audience members unlearn the ways in which the continuum of sex gender and sexual orientation has been simplified and obscured through corporate media These vlogs thus exemplify the various ways in which independent media acts as an educational tool toward greater awareness and perhaps empathy of for the self and others in regards to sexual identity Global Mountain Regions Ann Kingsolver, Sasikumar Balasundaram, 2018-09-01 Works exploring the responses of global mountain communities to the shared challenges and opportunities their unique locations afford them No matter where they are located in the world communities living in mountain regions have shared experiences defined in large part by contradictions These communities often face social and economic marginalization despite providing the lumber coal minerals tea and tobacco that have fueled the growth of nations for centuries They are perceived as remote and socially inferior backwaters on one hand while simultaneously seen as culturally rich and spiritually sacred spaces on the other These contradictions become even more fraught as environmental changes and political strains place added pressure on these mountain communities Shifting national borders and changes to watersheds forests and natural resources play an increasingly important role as nations respond to the needs of a global economy The works in this volume consider multiple nations languages generations and religions in their exploration of upland communities responses to the unique challenges and opportunities they share From paintings to digital mapping environmental studies to poetry land reclamation efforts to song lyrics the collection provides a truly interdisciplinary and global study The editors and authors offer a cross cultural exploration of the many strategies that mountain communities are employing to face the concerns of the future Global Mountain Regions is an outstanding addition to the inventory of the interdisciplinary field of montology the study of mountains For any scholar or student interested in the human dimensions of mountain regions many if not all of the essays will be valuable references American Ethnologist Power, Powerlessness, and Globalization Opoku Agyeman, 2014-08-20 This book is about imperialism driven globalization its historic impact on Africa Latin America and Asia and over time the varied responses of the national political units and regional entities in these continents to the challenges of building countervailing power and laying foundations for independent development Where genuine recovery and empowerment have emerged this has been the result not only of the pursuit of dignitist political and economic values that emphasize robust and sustained productivity geared toward uplifting the living standards and dignity of all the members of the national society but also of the creation of indigenous institutions whose relations with the external world are defined by equality rather than dependence and subordination Opoku Agyeman argues that dignification is the fundamentally necessary response to imperialism s inevitable afflictions of national racial humiliation It is the most crucial ingredient in the complex of motivations that propel formerly weak nation states and regional communities to rise up and defend the honor of their people As Mao Zedong told the world in 1949 Ours will no longer be a nation subject to insult and humiliation We have stood up This study argues emphatically that it is a country s or region s developed or developing capabilities not its historic and continuing victimization or habitual dependence on charitable aid and other altruistic interventions from the international community that determines its success in escaping the scourge of powerlessness and underdevelopment It further maintains that a people who have been brought low through brutal dehumanizing imperialism cannot bypass the need for redemptive empowerment if they wish to regain honor and a proper place in the world Finally it takes issue with Joseph Stiglitz Jeffrey Sachs and others like them whose moralistic critiques of the rapacity of imperialistic globalization carry the unfortunate implication that it is possible for a fair and just world social order to come out of incremental reforms of philanthropically motivated developed powerful countries in the structure and operations of global capitalism Contesting Water Rights

Mangala Subramaniam,2018-04-21 As globalization processes and related neoliberal agendas promote privatization through state action people s struggles for rights to water have intensified In this context this book examines the role of the ambivalent state in local struggles for water which are deeply intertwined with global forums that support and or challenge the privatization of water resources These local global struggles have redefined the relationships between the state corporations and other social actors that impact the local politics of inequality and marginalization Human Rights and Social Justice in a Global Perspective

Tamara C. Ho, 2015-01-31 When the world thinks of Burma it is often in relation to Nobel laureate and icon Aung San Suu Kyi. But beyond her is another world, one that complicates the overdetermination of Burma as a pariah state and myths about the high status of Southeast Asian women. Highlighting and critiquing this fraught terrain, Tamara C. Ho's Romancing Human Rights maps Burmese women as real and imagined figures across the twentieth century and into the twenty-first century. More than a recitation of on-the-ground facts, Ho's groundbreaking scholarship, the first monograph to examine Anglophone literature and dynamics of gender and race in relation to Burma, brings a critical lens to contemporary literature, film, and politics through the use of an innovative feminist/queer methodology. She crosses intellectual boundaries to illustrate how literary and gender analysis can contribute to discourses surrounding and informing human rights, and in the process offers a new voice in the debates about representation, racialization, migration, and spirituality. Romancing Human Rights demonstrates how Burmese women break out of prisons, both real and discursive, by writing themselves into being. Ho assembles an eclectic archive that includes George Orwell, Aung San Suu Kyi, critically acclaimed authors Ma Ma Lay and Wendy Law Yone, and activist Zoya Phan. Her close readings of literature and politicized performances by women in Burma, the Burmese diaspora, and the United States illuminate their contributions as authors, cultural mediators, and practitioner-citizens. Using flexible polyglot rhetorical tactics and embodied performances, these authors creatively articulate alter-native epistemologies, regionally situated knowledges, and decolonizing viewpoints that interrogate and destabilize competing transnational hegemonies such as U.S. moral imperialism and Asian militarized dictatorship. Weaving together the fictional and non-fictional, Ho's gendered analysis makes Romancing Human Rights a unique cultural studies project that bridges postcolonial studies, area studies, and critical race/ethnic studies, a must-read for those with an interest in fields of literature, Asian and Asian American studies, history, politics, religion, and women's and gender studies. Manual for Developing Intercultural Competencies (Open Access) Darla K. Deardorff, 2019-08-16 This book presents a structured yet flexible methodology for developing intercultural competence in a variety of contexts, both formal and informal. Piloted around the world by UNESCO, this methodology has proven to be effective in a range of different contexts and focused on a variety of different issues. It therefore can be considered an important resource for anyone concerned with effectively managing the growing cultural diversity within our societies to ensure inclusive and sustainable development.
