This introduction to science, technology, and society answers these questions and more by exploring contemporary research on topics such as expertise, activism, science policy, and innovation. It offers a comprehensive resource for considering the place that science and technology have in contemporary societies and the roles that they can and should play. Accessible to a non-specialist audience, it draws on a rich range of cases and examples from nuclear activism in India to content moderation in Kenya. Framing science as always social and society as always shaped by science and technology, it asks what worlds do we want science and technology to bring into being.
