Human Geography Jerome Donald Fellmann, Arthur Getis, Judith Getis, 2003 Human Geography, 2010 Urban Geography in America, 1950-2000 Brian J.L Berry, James Wheeler, 2014-05-01 Urban Geography in America offers a comprehensive historiography of this major field Compiling the best essays from the flagship journal Urban Geography it shows the evolution of the field from the 1950s to 2000 as it shifted from data driven social science modeling in the 1960s to the more critical perspectives of the 1970s to postmodernism in the 1980s to feminism and globalization in the 1990s It covers all the major trends and figures and features some of the most important names in the field Ultimately this will be a necessary reference for all scholars in the field and all graduate students taking introductory courses and preparing for their comprehensive exams Forces of Nature Barry A. Vann, 2012-03-20 As long as the human species has existed men and women have had to contend with the unpredictable forces of nature Geographer Barry A Vann brings a unique perspective to this age old struggle in this illuminating overview of human population shifts and their precarious relationship with climate change and geography Vann takes us on a journey along the migration routes of the earliest modern humans and tells why our ancestors chose to settle down in places that can be best described as natural utopias In the religiously oriented worldview of ancient peoples such places took on a sacred aura of divine favor Similarly destructive events such as volcanic eruptions and earthquakes were interpreted as expressions of divine wrath Vann shows how the ancient texts of the Bible and the Qur'an offer glimpses of past climates that were distinctly different from the climate of our time He also discusses the rise of technology as a means of controlling the threatening features of the natural world Though technology has enabled humanity to cope with hostile climates it has also created a false sense of security Vann notes that population clusters are increasing in dangerous areas and that no technology can protect vulnerable groups from major category hurricanes tornadoes or earthquakes Finally he considers our current anxieties regarding global warming pointing out that this focus has obscured a good deal of historical and geological evidence for a return of another ice age The Forces of Nature offers a challenging perspective on the precarious balance between fragile human communities and their often threatening environments Human Geography Jerome Donald Fellmann, 2009 Human Geography Jerome Donald Fellmann, Audrey E. Geographers Hayden Lorimer,Charles W. J. Withers,2015-12-14 The thirtieth volume of Geographers Biobibliographical Studies adds significantly to the corpus of scholarship on geography s multiple histories and biographies with nine essays on figures from Britain France the USA and Spain Each was distinguished in his or her own scholarship and made distinctive contributions in specific fields as historical political or population geographers and in one case as a hydrologist geomorphologist The subjects also shared a commitment to the educational benefits of geography and of geographical research that was rooted in a vision of geography as socially illuminating and individually life changing Here is further rich testimony of the importance of geographers lives to the lived experience of geography in practice

Places of Special Virtue Alasdair Whittle,2017-02-20 This volume explores the landscape settings of megalithic chambered monuments in Wales Set against a broader theoretical discussion on the significance of the landscape the authors consider the role of visual landscapes in prehistory meanings attached to the landscape and the values and beliefs invested in it Wales is rich in Neolithic monuments but the general absence of certain classic monumental forms found in the rest of Britain and Ireland such as causewayed enclosures henges and cursus monuments seems to have marginalized the Welsh record from many wider discussions on the Neolithic Instead of seeing Wales as an area which lacks many of these classic components Cummings and Whittle argue that Wales has its own unique and individual Neolithic which is simply different from the Neolithic found further to the east It is suggested that this difference may relate to an essentially mobile existence with strong links back to the Mesolithic period The authors present three detailed case studies examining the settings of sites in southwest northwest and southeast Wales They outline the history of research for each region including the previous classification of the monuments and any excavations and describe the specific landscape settings of the monuments They assess the significance of a variety of landscape features which would have been visible from the monuments in particular emphasizing the mythological and symbolic significance of the sea rivers and mountains An illustrated inventory of sites completes the volume
