Social Media in Disaster Response Liza Potts, 2013-10-30 Social Media in Disaster Response focuses on how emerging social web tools provide researchers and practitioners with new opportunities to address disaster communication and information design for participatory cultures Both groups however currently lack research toolkits for tracing participant networks across systems there is little understanding of how to design not just for individual social web sites but how to design across multiple systems Given the volatile political and ecological climate we are currently living in the practicality of understanding how people communicate during disasters is important both for those researching solutions and for those putting that research into practice Social Media in Disaster Response addresses this situation by presenting the results of a large scale sociotechnical usability study on crisis communication in the vernacular related to recent natural and human made crisis this is an analysis of the way social web applications are transformed by participants into a critical information infrastructure in moments of crisis This book provides researchers with methods tools and examples for researching and analyzing these communication systems while providing practitioners with design methods and information about these participatory communities to assist them in influencing the design and structure of these communication systems      Usability Engineering in der Anwendungsentwicklung Brigitte Eller,2009-12-11 Brigitte Eller zeigt wie die sprachbasierte Vorgehensweise als interdisziplinäre Vermittlungsmethodologie im Sinne eines Usability Engineering umgesetzt werden kann

UsabilityandSoftwareEngineering From its beginning in the 1980 s the eld of human computer interaction HCI has beende nedasamultidisciplinaryarena BythisImeanthattherehas beenanexplicit recognition that distinct skills and perspectives are required to make the whole effort of designing usable computer systems work well Thus people with backgrounds in Computer Science CS and Software Engineering SE joined with people with ba grounds in various behavioral science disciplines e g cognitive and social psych ogy anthropology inaneffortwhereallperspectiveswereseenasesentialtocreating usable systems But while the eld of HCI brings individuals with many background disciplines together to discuss a common goal the development of useful usable satisfying systems the form of the collaboration remains unclear Are we striving to coordinate the varied activities in system development or are we seeking a richer collaborative framework In coordination Usability and SE skills can remain quite distinct and while the activities of each group might be critical to the success of a project we need only insure that critical results are provided at appropriate points in the development cycle Communication by one group to the other during an activity might be seen as only minimally necessary In collaboration there is a sense that each group can learn something about its own methods and processes through a close pa nership with the other Communication during the process of gathering information from target users of a system by usability professionals would not be seen as so thing that gets in the way of the essential work of software engineering professionals
