Economics and Political Implications of International Financial Reporting Standards Uchenna, Efobi, Nnadi, Matthias, Tanna, Sailesh, Iyoha, Francis, 2016-03-08

International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS) are internationally recognized financial reporting guidelines regulated by the International Accounting Standards Board (IASB) to ensure that uniformity exists in the global financial system. In addition to regulating financial reporting, the adoption of IFRS has been shown to impact the flow of foreign capital and trade.

Economics and Political Implications of International Financial Reporting Standards focuses on the consequences and determinants of the adoption of the International Financial Reporting Standard (IFRS), which has remained a top issue in International Accounting. This timely publication brings to the forefront issues related to the political and economic influences and impacts of IFRS. In addition to providing a platform for further research in this area, policy makers, academics, researchers, graduate level students, and professionals across the fields of management, economics, finance, international relations, and political science will find this publication pertinent to furthering their understanding of financial reporting at the global level.

The Solution Michael M. Stockdell, 2016-06-25

Our current political system puts too much power into the hands of the few and often produces results that don't work. The Solution proposes a plan that restricts the size and scope of the federal government while increasing the direct influence of the people. The goal is to make government simpler with full public accountability. The book is divided into four sections. Two sections describe the various reasons why big government programs don't work and refute the reasons often cited for why they should. Parts three and four propose my notion of a fix to the political system: first, a number of constitutional amendments aimed at making government function similar to what the founders intended and yet are more modern; and second, policy recommendations that repair and replace nonfunctional programs and deal with a number of existing political and social issues.
