Spies and Holy Wars Reeva S. Simon, 2010-11-15 Illuminating a powerful intersection between popular culture and global politics Spies and Holy Wars draws on a sampling of more than eight hundred British and American thrillers that are propelled by the theme of jihad an Islamic holy war or crusade against the West Published over the past century the books in this expansive study encompass spy novels and crime fiction illustrating new connections between these genres and Western imperialism Demonstrating the social implications of the popularity of such books Reeva Spector Simon covers how the Middle Eastern villain evolved from being the malleable victim before World War II to the international techno savvy figure in today's crime novels She explores the impact of James Bond pulp fiction and comic books and also analyzes the ways in which world events shaped the genre particularly in recent years Worldwide terrorism and economic domination prevail as the most common sources of narrative tension in these works while military tech novels restored the prestige of the American hero in the wake of post Vietnam skepticism Moving beyond stereotypes Simon examines the relationships between publishing trends political trends and popular culture at large giving voice to the previously unexamined truths that emerge from these provocative page turners

Gender Bending Detective Fiction Heather Duerre Humann, 2017-02-28 Since the middle of the last century views on gender norms have shifted dramatically Reflecting these changes storylines that involve cross dressing and transgender characters have frequently appeared in detective fiction characters who subvert the conventions of the genre and challenge reader expectations This examination of 20th and 21st century crime novels reveals what these narratives say about gender identity and gender expression and how they contributed to the evolution of detective fiction

Dictionary of Film Noir Andrew Spicer,2010-03-19 Film noir literally black cinema is the label customarily given to a group of black and white American films mostly crime thrillers made between 1940 and 1959 Today there is considerable dispute about what are the shared features that classify a noir film and therefore which films should be included in this category These problems are partly caused because film noir is a retrospective label that was not used in the 1940s or 1950s by the film industry as a production category and therefore its existence and features cannot be established through reference to trade documents The Historical Dictionary of Film Noir is a comprehensive guide that ranges from 1940 to present day neo noir It consists of a chronology an introductory essay a bibliography a filmography and over 400 cross referenced dictionary entries on every aspect of film noir and neo noir including key films personnel actors cinematographers composers directors producers set designers and writers themes issues influences visual style cycles of films e g amnesiac noirs the representation of the city and gender other forms comics graphic novels television and videogames and noir s presence in world cinema It is an essential reference work for all those interested in this important cultural phenomenon Firearms norms not observed by translators throughout the 1920s 1950s in two case studies The findings of the study suggest that the concepts of translation both affected and were affected by cultural processes in the society including ideological and poetological ones and that there was no uniform way of defining or carrying out translations during the period under study The findings also point at the segmentation of readership in early republican Turkey and conclude that the political and poetological factors governing the production and reception of translations varied for different segments of readers
