

Georeferencing Imagery in ArcGIS 10.2.x

Georeferencing is the process of aligning imagery (maps, air photos, etc.) with spatial data such as point, lines or polygons (for example, roads and water bodies). The process of georeferencing essentially defines the location of a raster file and assigns real-world coordinates to the image so that it may be analyzed with geographic data. In a GIS environment, raster data is georeferenced using a control layer such as a highly accurate road network, but any layer that contains known coordinates can be used as a point of reference.

This document provides guidance through the basic steps involved with georeferencing an aerial photograph in the ArcGIS 10.2.2 environment.

Step 1 Set up your work environment

Note: The following instructions assume that the raster images to be georeferenced have been scanned and loaded to your working directory.

1. Open ArcMap and create a new, blank map document.
2. Browse to Geoprocessing > Environments. Under Workspace, set the variables for Current Workspace and Scratch Workspace to the directory where you wish to save your results. It is a good idea to create an empty file geodatabase for this purpose. Further information about the file geodatabase format can be found here.

3. Open the data frame properties dialog (right-click on Layers in the table of contents and select Properties) and access the Coordinate System tab. Set the coordinate system for the map document by selecting an option from the Select a coordinate system section of the dialog.

Note: It is very important that the map's coordinate system is set prior to adding imagery to the map; if the coordinate system is not set, then the software will not apply coordinate system information to the georeferenced image.
