Determinants of Earnings Forecast Error, Earnings

Forecast Revision and Earnings Forecast Accuracy Sebastian Gell, 2012-03-26 Earnings forecasts are ubiquitous in today's financial markets. They are essential indicators of future firm performance and a starting point for firm valuation. Extremely inaccurate and overoptimistic forecasts during the most recent financial crisis have raised serious doubts regarding the reliability of such forecasts. This thesis therefore investigates new determinants of forecast errors and accuracy. In addition, new determinants of forecast revisions are examined. More specifically, the thesis answers the following questions: 1. How do analyst incentives lead to forecast errors? 2. How do changes in analyst incentives lead to forecast revisions? and 3. What factors drive differences in forecast accuracy?

Price and Product-Mix Decisions Under Different Cost Systems Philipp Plank, 2017-08-29 Philipp Plank analyses the question what drives the quality of cost systems and is the quality of cost systems directly and at best positively related to the firm's performance. In other words, is it worth investing in complex cost allocation systems or are there environmental and/or production settings in which less enhanced systems perform adequately? Using simulations, a benchmark firm (first best solution perfectly allocating cost to products) is compared to firms implementing heuristic cost allocation schemes (second best solution) to identify the profit gap resulting from decisions based on limited information. Into this discussion, the idea of cost stickiness is integrated, thereby indicating a new planning approach.
