International Trade in Services and Domestic Regulations

Panagiotis Delimatsis, 2007-12-27 In 2005 the WTO Appellate body ruled that the United States total prohibition on cross border gambling services was unlawful under the General Agreement on Trade in Services GATS The questions raised by the case whether and how a Government could block service provision on moral grounds went to the heart of key controversies surrounding international economic law How do you reconcile a liberal system of international trade in services with national governments desire to protect social values through service regulation How much control are the WTO members willing to transfer to the WTO How much regulatory diversity can the international trading system withstand This book provides a comprehensive analysis of the regulation of services under the WTO s GATS Agreement Through a thorough examination of the GATS negotiation history substantive provisions judicial interpretation and ongoing reform process the book presents a clear picture of how the multilateral trading system justifies and tolerates regulatory diversity In this respect the book focuses on the core general principles of necessity and transparency which would allow the assessment of the consistency with the GATS of domestic regulations in services at a horizontal cross sectoral level In addition the book reviews with a critical eye the ongoing GATS negotiations on the creation of rules on domestic regulations
