Cyber Crime Nash Haynes, 2018-11-07 Cyber Crime is an evil having its origin in the growing dependence on computers in modern life In a day and age when everything from microwave ovens and refrigerators to nuclear power plants is being run on computers Cyber Crime has assumed rather sinister implications Cyber Crime poses great challenges for law enforcement and for society in general To understand why this is true it is necessary to understand why and how cybercrime differs from traditional terrestrial crime Net crime refers to criminal use of the Internet Cyber crimes are essentially a combination of these two elements and can be best defined as e Offences that are committed against individuals or groups of individuals with a criminal motive to intentionally harm the reputation of the victim or cause physical or mental harm to the victim directly or indirectly using modern telecommunication networks such as the Internet Chat rooms e mails notice boards and groups and mobile phones SMS MMS e Since Cyber Crime is a newly specialized field growing in cyber laws there is absolutely no comprehensive law on Cyber Crime anywhere in the world This is precisely the reason why investigating agencies are finding cyberspace to be an extremely difficult terrain to handle This book explores technical legal and social issues related to Cyber Crime Cyber Crime is a broad term that includes offences where a computer may be the target crimes where a computer may be a tool used in the commission of an existing offence and crimes where a computer may play a subsidiary role such as offering evidence for the commission of an offence

Malware and cyber crime Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Science and Technology Committee, 2012-02-02 Malicious software designed to infect computers to steal bank details and identity information poses a growing threat in the UK as more people use the internet and an increasing proportion of economic activity takes place online The Science and Technology Committee say the Government must do more to help the public understand how to stay safe online It calls for a prolonged awareness raising campaign to increase public understanding of personal online security Eighty per cent of protection against cyber attack is routine IT hygiene yet currently there is no single first point of advice and help for consumers and much of the online information about internet security is often technical or jargon filled Television exposure is crucial to gain the widest possible exposure to the safety message and more should be done to promote and resource the existing Government website Get Safe Online Advice from Get Safe Online should be provided with every device capable of accessing the internet and all Government websites should link to the website and highlight the latest security updates The provision of Government services by the digital by default policy will increasingly require those in receipt of Government benefits and services to access these online The Committee raises concerns that the scheme will be of greater use in protecting the Government against welfare fraud than the individual user against crime The Government should investigate the potential for imposing statutory safety standards if the industry cannot demonstrate that voluntary self regulation can improve security
