relevant and assumes importance by fact that freedom of expression is most important human rights of the democracy besides which the society will be monochromatic but this freedom can't be unrestricted. One can enjoy/entertain its freedom up to that extent only until it doesn't violate others' freedom. A cartoonist expresses his attitude towards the various figures, characters and situations depicted in his figures and thus represents the interests of a society which are not always in harmony in the government. A cartoonist not only has to be creative but he also has to attempt to be educational. For the latter purpose, the cartoonist should conform to moral norms which might potentially be in contradiction with his style of expression. The authority struggles differently with cartoonists. In some countries, cartoonists are beaten, thrown in prison and even killed. In countries where authorities are unable to discreetly dispose of resenting cartoonists in such ways, other subtly coercive methods are applied.

Fenwick on Civil Liberties & Human Rights Helen Fenwick, Richard Edwards, 2016-11-25. More than merely describing the evolution of human rights and civil liberties law, this classic textbook provides students with detailed and thought-provoking coverage of the most crucial developments in the field, clearly explaining the law in context and practice. Updated throughout for this new edition, Fenwick on Civil Liberties and Human Rights considers a number of recent major changes in the law, in particular proposals to replace the Human Rights Act with a British Bill of Rights and the Counter Terrorism and Security Act 2015, whilst also contextualising the impact of reforms on hate speech and contempt due to advances in new media. Comprehensive and authoritative, this textbook offers an essential resource for students on human rights or civil liberties courses as well as a useful reference for students and scholars of UK Public Law.

European Human Rights Law Mark W. Janis, Richard S. Kay, Anthony Wilfred Bradley, 2008. The third edition of European Human Rights Law: Text and Materials has been substantially expanded to provide a complete review of the wide range of rights the Convention protects, with new chapters on the right to life, property, discrimination, religious freedom and education. The book introduces both the process and the substance of this increasingly important area of European law. A broad selection of extracts from essential cases and materials is accompanied by stimulating commentary that guides the reader through the legal rules and court system that have evolved in Strasbourg, how the court works and how European human rights law is enforced both at the national and international level. European human rights law is also placed into a useful comparative framework alongside human rights cases decided by courts in the United States, Canada and elsewhere. This third edition has been extensively updated to cover the major developments of recent years, including the reform of the European Court of Human Rights and the expansion of the system to central and eastern Europe.

the second Part allowing the student to appreciate the tension between human rights and civil liberties and their legal protection and to develop an understanding of the techniques used in domestic and international law to balance such liberties with other rights and interests

The Guarantees for Accused Persons Under Article 6 of the European Convention on Human Rights Stephanos Stavros, 2021-09-27 In recent times Article 6 of the European Convention on Human Rights which protects the right to a fair trial has been increasingly raised by applicants who allege its breach in proceedings involving criminal or quasi criminal charges The extensive case law emanating from Strasbourg that has thus been spawned has resulted in the formulation of detailed rules dictating the content of the guarantees afforded by Article 6 Indeed a pan European procedural standard for accused persons is beginning to emerge This book is the first to make an in depth analysis of the case law and goes on to compare the European Convention cases with decisions which have arisen from the interpretation of other international instruments The author's careful meticulous research reveals that Article 6 has been interpreted in such a way that the standards required for proceedings designated under national law as criminal are different than the standards applied to disciplinary and other administrative proceedings The book goes on to attempt to identify the judicial policy pursued by the European Court and Commission when construing Article 6 while proposing a fresh approach to the problems raised by the applications of the detailed guarantees of the provisions in proceedings of a widely varied nature Dr Stavros has been a member of the Athens Bar since 1987 He is currently employed as a legal expert by the Directorate of European Communities Affairs of the Greek Ministry of Foreign Affairs
