

Environmental impact assessment in Nigeria: regulatory background and procedural framework

Narry Echufu and E. Akpofure

ABSTRACT

As a consequence of the illegal dumping of toxic wastes in Koko, in the former Bendel State, in 1987, the Nigerian Government promulgated the Harmful Wastes Decree which provides the legal framework for the effective control of the disposal of toxic and hazardous waste into any environment within the confines of Nigeria. This was immediately followed by the creation of a regulatory body, the Federal Environmental Protection Agency (FEPA) in 1988. FEPA is charged with the overall responsibility of protecting and developing the Nigerian environment. To put this into action a National Policy on the Environment was developed. This is the main working document for the preservation and protection of the Nigerian environment. States and Local Government Councils were also encouraged to establish their own environmental regulatory bodies for the purpose of maintaining good environmental quality as it applies to their particular terrain.

The EIA Decree No. 86 of 1992 is an additional document with the same aim of protecting the Nigerian environment. It is particularly directed at regulating the industrialization process with due regard to the environment. By this Decree, no industrial plan/development/activity falling under the FEPA's mandatory list can be executed without prior consideration of the environmental consequences of such a proposed action, in the form of an environmental impact assessment.

The Department of Petroleum Resources (DPR), an arm of the Ministry of Petroleum Resources, recognizing the national importance of the oil and gas industry sector to the continued growth of the Nigerian economy and realizing that the continued exploitation, exploration and production of the oil resources has serious environmental impacts, also decided to set out comprehensive standards and guidelines to direct the execution of projects with proper consideration for the environment. The DPR Environmental Guidelines and Standards (EGAS) of 1991 for the petroleum industry is a comprehensive working document with serious consideration for the preservation and protection of the Niger Delta, and thus the Nigerian

Environmental Impact Assessment In Nigeria Regulatory:

The Legal and Regulatory Framework for Environmental Impact Assessments Mohamed Abdelwahab Bekhechi, Jean-Roger Mercier, 2002-01-01 An Environmental Impact Assessments EIA is a procedure for evaluating the impact of proposed activities on the environment In modern Africa EIAs are a growing reality and a matter of law in 22 sub Saharan African countries This volume examines various aspects of EIA legislation in these countries including definitions and prescribed activities public participation and consultation the review process and the quality of EIA reports monitoring and enforcement compatibility and transboundary issues It highlights the role and degree of public participation for the further development of EIA law and policy      Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA) Tayo Akeem Yusuf, 2017      A Directory of Impact Assessment Guidelines International Institute for Environment and Development, 1998      Law and Practice on Public Participation in Environmental Matters Uzuazo Etemire, 2015-07-20 Public participation has become a recurring theme and a topical issue in the field of international environmental law with many multilateral environmental instruments calling on states to guarantee effectively the concept in their laws and practices This book focuses on public participation in environmental governance in terms of public access to environmental information and public participation in environmental decision making processes Drawing on the body of international best practice principles in environmental law and taking a comparative stance Uzuazo Etemire takes Nigeria as a key case evaluating its procedural laws and practices in relation to public access to information and participation in decision making in environmental matters In working to clarify and deepen understanding of the current status of environmental public participation rights in Nigeria the book addresses key issues in environmental governance for developing and transitional countries and the potential for public participation to improve the state of the environment and public wellbeing This book will be of great interest to undergraduate students as further reading and post graduate students academics researchers relevant government agencies and departments policy makers and NGOs in the fields of international environmental law environmental justice environmental natural resource management development studies and international finance      The Balancing of Interests in Environmental Law in Africa Willemien Du Plessis, 2011 Now that economic development is starting to pick up in many countries in Africa the question arises how such development can be balanced with the need for adequate environmental protection This crucial issue inherent in the notion of sustainable development is addressed in this innovative and path breaking volume For the first time academics from seventeen African countries have joined forces to analyse the way in which economic and environmental interests are balanced in their legal systems The authors all use a common framework to improve the comparability of the country studies The different country related chapters do not only provide insights into the formally applicable legal rules law in the books but given that the book brings together academics aware of the practice in Africa they also describe the way in which environmental policy functions in practice law in action Many case studies with conceptual analyses are provided of pollution incidents and the way in which administrative agencies or courts have on those occasions balanced the interests between the economy society and the environment A critical comparative analysis by the editors points at tendencies towards convergence and points of divergence between the African countries Suggestions for policy reform are also formulated showing African countries how they can benefit from experiences in the US and Europe This thought provoking volume is a must for anyone academic policymaker or practitioner interested in sustainable development generally and in Africa in particular P 4 of cover

Telecommunications Law and Regulation in Nigeria Uchenna Jerome Orji, 2018-12-19 The Nigerian telecommunications industry has continued to grow in a phenomenal manner following market liberalization reforms that commenced in the 1990s As of 2017 the telecommunications industry was one of the fastest growing economic sectors in Nigeria and the fourth largest contributor to the country's Gross Domestic Product The telecommunications industry however remains a highly technical and naturally dynamic industry that has not been a usual area for legal research in developing countries such as Nigeria This book bridges that gap in knowledge by providing an analysis of the legal and policy instruments that regulate the industry It comprises eleven chapters that discuss the historical evolution of telecommunications and its regulation the development of the Nigerian telecommunications industry from 1886 to 2017 the legal basis for the regulation of the industry the licensing and duties of service providers the regulation of network infrastructure the protection of consumers the regulation of competition interconnection universal access and environmental protection and the resolution of industry disputes This book will be useful to policy makers legislators regulators lawyers law students investors operators and consumers as well as any person interested in the Nigerian telecommunications industry

The Nigerian Legal System Charles Mwalimu, 2005 Volume 1 on public law provides an introduction to the Nigerian legal system The various chapters deal with introduction and sources of law jurisprudence and Nigerian perspectives African customary law Islamic law comparative constitutionalism and Nigerian perspectives citizenship immigration and administrative law judicial system and legal profession criminal law evidence and civil procedure statutory marriage and divorce laws customary marriage and divorce marriage and divorce under Islamic law matters of children gender and law in Nigeria with emphasis on Islamic law Volume 2 has 25 chapters on private law that includes security of the environment and environmental law land and property administration commercial business and trade laws communication media and press laws transportation and carrier laws law enforcement armed forces and military laws investments and intellectual property

Corporate Environmental Accountability in Nigeria Felix Moses Edoho, 2023-10-18 This book examines the imperative role of global environmental governance and the need to incorporate corporate environmental accountability and mechanisms for enforcement to effectively address the global environmental crisis The author Felix Moses Edoho Sr examines the issues at the various global national and regional levels In Part I the book examines the issues at the global level and looks at the impact of transnational corporations TNCs and globalization on the global environmental crisis

Furthermore it also examines the efforts of the United Nations in initiating global environmental architecture to tackle the crisis Part II considers the issues at the national level and focuses on Nigeria The author explores Nigeria s regulatory and institutional framework for environmental governance and implementation Lastly at the regional level in Part III the discourse centers on how decades of oil exploration and production have unleashed monumental ecological tragedies in the Niger Delta region of Nigeria due to the lack of corporate environmental accountability This book will be of great interest to academics and students who are interested in broadening their knowledge of environmental governance and policy in developing countries It will also be of value to environmental regulatory agencies and public administrators development professionals and TNCs Environmental Impact Assessment for Farms ,2000 Institutions, Regulatory Styles, Society and Environmental Governance in China Carlos Wing-Hung Lo, Shui-Yan Tang, 2013-08-15 During the past three decades of rapid industrial growth China has suffered from devastating environmental degradation Most scholarly and popular publications have painted a rather pessimistic picture about the worrisome trend Yet a somewhat more optimistic view has emerged in the past decade given the Chinese government s increased commitment to fighting industrial pollution the public s increased concerns regarding the adverse effects of pollution and domestic and international civil society s increased involvement in promoting environmental protection in China Drawing on the authors extensive research on Guangdong Province and a few large cities in other provinces this book provides an in depth study on China s environmental governance and regulatory enforcement in the past two decades Section 1 examines various institutional constraints for environmental regulation enforcement at the local level and how governance reform efforts in the past decade have contributed to the lessening of those constraints Section 2 draws on data derived from surveys and interviews conducted in multiple cities and times it examines the dominant regulatory enforcement styles of local environmental protection bureaus and how these styles vary across different regions and over time Section 3 examines how various stakeholders the general public environmental groups government entities and corporations affect the environmental governance process Overall the book presents a cautiously optimistic view on the evolution of environmental governance in China While highlighting many political institutional social and economic constraints it also documents many changes that have taken place including reform efforts from within the government administrative system increasingly societal concerns and actions and changing attitudes among corporate executives potentially paving the way for more effective environmental governance in the future
