Falling Leaves, Watching the Tree Adeline Yen Mah, 2002 The author discusses various aspects of Chinese culture and traditions including Buddhism the I Ching Confucius and others and tells stories from her life as a child in China and later a doctor in England and America

British Asian Fiction Neil Murphy, Wai-chew Sim, 2008 In this outstanding collection of essays editors Neil Murphy and Wai chew Sim seek not so much to demarcate the field of British Asian fiction but to offer due acknowledgment of the artistic merit of the works of selected authors and simultaneously register their cultural significance This volume demonstrates in situ the virtues of commentary that engages in a substantial manner with formal and aesthetic considerations even as it implicates the discourses of alterity that dominate contemporary cultural criticism Additionally the essays delineate the complex subject positions explored by authors and texts and focus on the way writers negotiate the exigencies of their location within and between different social formations. If it is the case that British literature can no longer be discussed in monocultural terms because of the impact of the writers under consideration, it is also the case that the diverse trans-cultural positions they explore are often less specified than proclaimed. Addressing difference, commensurability, and form-related notions of truth/content, these essays enlarge our understanding of the range of British and affiliated identities as well as the cultural contexts from which they arose.

Working as academics and critics from Singapore: a useful vantage point

Murphy and Sim have extended the parameters of British Asian to include not just writers from South Asia as is traditionally the case, but writers whose parents or who themselves have migrated to Britain from other regions of Asia, for example Japan, Hong Kong, and Malaysia. This initiative has made it possible for professors Murphy and Sim to bring together first an interestingly varied group of authors among them those who came to prominence in the 1980s: Salman Rushdie, Timothy Mo, Kazuo Ishiguro, as well as their younger contemporaries Meera Syal, Romesh Gunasekera, Monica Ali, Hari Kunzru, Ooi Yang May, and second, a broad and diverse range of novels that span Timothy Mo's Sour Sweet (1982) and Tariq Ali's A Sultan in Palermo (2005), the fourth volume in his Islam quintet.

East Main Street, Shilpa Dave, Lei Lani Nishime, Tasha Oren, 2005-05. From henna tattoo kits available at your local mall to faux-Asian fashions, housewares, and fusion cuisine, from the new visibility of Asian film, music, video games, and anime to the current popularity of martial arts motifs in hip-hop, Asian influences have thoroughly saturated the U.S. cultural landscape and have now become an integral part of the vernacular of popular culture.
