ETHNO-FEDERALISM: CHALLENGES AND OPPORTUNITIES

ABSTRACT

The study analyses the role of federalism in solving the national and ethnic conflicts. From this point of view it describes the main types of modern federal state: mononational (e.g. USA, FRG), multi-ethnic (Switzerland, present-day Russia) and multinational forms (former socialist federations, present-day Bosnia-Herzegovina). Hereafter the study outlines the most important views which appeared in the modern political thinking about the role of federalism in solving the national and ethnic conflicts. It refers to the messianistic federalist ideologies, to the French republican tradition, and to the American liberal approach. Furthermore it describes the main characteristics of socialist federations, briefly analyses the causes of their disintegration. Finally the study sums up the most important stabilizing factors of ethno-federations.

A large number of politicians and political scientists continuously and repeatedly claim that one of the most important and effective means to solve the ethnic conflicts in multinational societies is federalism. At the same time we can see that there are very few genuine and historically lasting "success stories" among multinational federal states; most of them struggle with problems of stability, and some (not only Socialist ones) have

Ethno Federalism Challenges And Opportunities:

Federalism and Ethnic Conflict in Ethiopia Asnake Kefale, 2013-07-31 This book examines the impact of the federal restructuring of Ethiopia on ethnic conflicts The adoption of ethnic federalism in Ethiopia was closely related with the problem of creating a state structure that could be used as instrument of managing the complex ethno linguistic diversity of the country Ethiopia is a multinational country with about 85 ethno linguistic groups and since the 1960s it suffered from ethno regional conflicts The book considers multiple governance and state factors that could explain the difficulties Ethiopian federalism faces to realise its objectives These include lack of political pluralism and the use of ethnicity as the sole instrument of state organisation Federalism and Ethnic Conflict in Ethiopia will be of interest to students and scholars of federal studies ethnic conflict and regionalism

Conflict Areas in the Balkans Pinar Yürür, Arda Özkan, 2020-10-27 The situation in the Balkans such as the solution to the status of Kosovo is currently the largest international political problem in Europe with the potential to burst into a world crisis regarding the Eastern Western relations On the other hand a successful solution to the problem in the Balkans could serve as a model for solving the Muslim Christian tensions elsewhere in the world It is the intention of this book to contribute proposals for solutions to the problems of Balkans The starting principle for the solutions to be effective is that they should come in a natural way from the people below and should not be enforced by the political elites from above Based on self determination of nations as a starting principle they should encourage intra regional cooperation among the regional entities economic cultural sport as a basis for political social understanding and cooperation secondly accelerate their economic political and social development and thirdly as a final step enable the inclusion of the Balkan countries into the European Union

Review of International Affairs ,2005 Taking Ethno-Cultural Diversity Seriously in Constitutional Design Solomon A. The In-Between People Girma Bekele, 2011-03-29 In the midst of partial competing and often hostile forms of human solidarity David Bosch challenged the church to be the Alternative Community called to live in the in between of various opposing socio political economic and ecclesiastical polarities Girma Bekele explores and renews that call in the context of Ethiopia Acute poverty and the lingering question of the balance between ethnic distinctiveness and national unity together constitute a two edged challenge to Christian identity Constructive dialogue that fosters unity is intrinsic to effective response to the plight of the poor This means a turning away from institutional self preservation towards a contextually relevant mission that crosses all human made frontiers Taking Ethiopia as the immediate context Dr Bekele offers important insight to the church in the majority world and beyond

Diversity, Violence, and Recognition Elisabeth King, Cyrus Samii, 2020 When considering strategies to address violent conflict scholars and policymakers debate the wisdom of recognizing versus avoiding reference to ethnic identities in government institutions In Diversity Violence and Recognition Elisabeth King and Cyrus Samii examine the reasons that governments choose to recognize ethnic identities and the consequences of such choices for peace The authors introduce a theory on the merits and risks of recognizing ethnic groups in state institutions pointing to the crucial role of ethnic demographics Through a global quantitative analysis and in depth case studies of Burundi Rwanda and Ethiopia they find promise in recognition Countries that adopt recognition go on to experience less violence more economic vitality and more democratic politics but these effects depend on which ethnic group is in power King and Samii s findings are important for scholars studying peace democracy and development and practically relevant to policymakers attempting to make these concepts a reality

An Analysis of Africa's Unconstitutional Government Transitions Jibrin Ubale Yahaya, 2024-11-26 Over fifty years ago military takeovers in Africa exacerbated unconstitutional political transitions The African Union AU founded in 2001 has significantly impacted African law by addressing illegal government changes The AU has created a legal framework including targeted sanctions to ease these transitions Despite its poor design and implementation the AU is an important player in advancing democracy However the definition of unconstitutional changes is too narrow and sanctions are often unnecessary The book explores the rise of unconstitutional changes in African governments particularly in Mauritania Guinea Madagascar and Niger which challenge the African democratic project It explores the causes reactions and methods of government change including military takeovers presidential extensions and election manipulation The book also examines the limitations of institutional mechanisms and military intervention in Africa since the Cold War offering insights and suggestions for best way of transition of elected government with popular mandate by African peoples

The Last Post-Cold War Socialist Federation Semahagn Gashu Abebe, 2016-03-03 After the fall of the Berlin wall and the disintegration of the former USSR and Yugoslavia it has widely been assumed that socialist federations have become a thing of the past Ethiopia s ethnic federal system however is essentially a socialist federal system based on the notion of the right to self determination of nationalities and a Marxist Leninist organization of the state and party This book assesses the Ethiopian ethnic federal system from the perspective of the principles of socialist federations and other Marxist oriented policies pursued by the ruling Ethiopian Peoples Revolutionary Democratic Front EPRDF Exploring how the application of these ideological principles has impacted on the structure and function of the Ethiopian federal system the research examines the ways in which these ideological policies of the ruling party affect national consensus protection of human rights the rights of minority groups separation of power principles and the relationship between the federal and regional governments It also explores the extent to which ideological principles have had an impact on the democratization process rule of law and in building up institutions such as parliamentary democracy the judiciary the media and civil society organizations in the country Approaching the Ethiopian federal system from the perspective of the fundamental ideological principles of the party in power allows a deeper insight into the structure and function of the ethnic federal system Africa and Urban Anthropology Deborah Pellow, Suzanne Scheld, 2023-03-08 This volume offers valuable anthropological insight into urban Africa covering a range of cities across a continent that has become one of the fastest urbanizing geographic areas of the globe Consideration is given to the structures social formations and rhythms that constitute the definition of an African city town or urban space and to current concepts for thinking about African cities in the twenty first century The contributors examine topics including notions of belonging the effects of globalization colonialism and transnationalism on African urban life the cultural dimensions of infrastructure and public resources mobility labor issues spatial organization language and popular culture trends among other themes The book reflects on how the ethnography of urban Africa fits within anthropology and urban studies and on new theoretical concepts and methodologies that can be created through anthropological fieldwork in African cities It will be of particular interest to scholars and students from anthropology African studies and urban studies as well as sociology and geography Decentralization and Constitutionalism in Africa Charles M.

Fombad, Nico Steytler, 2019-09-10 This collection of essays assesses the efforts of African governments to constitutionalise decentralisation be it in the form of federalism local government or traditional authorities Since the end of the Cold War jurisdictions across Africa have witnessed an ostensible return to multi party democracy within the paradigm of constitutionalism and the rule of law Linked to the democratisation process many countries took steps to decentralize power by departing from the heavily centralized systems inherited from colonial regimes The centralization of power typically characterized by the personalization and concentration of power in the hands of leaders and privileged elites in capital cities mostly resulted in repressive regimes and fragile states As decentralisation is a response to these challenges this volume analyses the dynamic relationship between the efforts to implement decentralization and presence or absence of constitutionalism This volume examines a variety of forms and degrees of decentralization found across Africa It advances a new understanding of trends and patterns and facilitates the exchange of ideas among African governments and scholars about the critical role that decentralisation may play in democratization of and constitutionalism in Africa Opportunity, Identity, and Resources in Ethnic Mobilization Ahmed Abdel-Hafez Fawaz, 2017-06-15 Recent unrest and political upheaval in Iraq and Georgia have brought attention to the place of minority populations in both countries Using Iraqi Kurds and the Abkhaz of Georgia as case studies this book addresses how ethnic identities become politicized across boundaries by states and political entrepreneurs leading to mobilization of ethnic populations This book bridges Middle Eastern studies with Post Soviet studies exploring the commonalities of cases in these regions to draw out patterns in cases of ethnic mobilization It also provides a theoretical framework to examine the process of ethnic mobilization Building on this theoretical framework the book provides a detailed empirical analysis of the case studies of the Kurds in Iraq and the Abkhaz in Georgia Analysis of both cases shows several common variables in cases of ethnic mobilization including ethnic entrepreneurs political opportunity structure ethnic identity politicization and resource mobilization These variables form the environment in which ethnic mobilization occurs motivated by such factors as state policy towards ethnic groups and external intervention to support ethnic groups

The Multicultural Dilemma Michelle Hale Williams, 2013 This work seeks to explore the contemporary challenge of government in multicultural societies drawing together a wide range of contributors to examine how ethnic difference could better understood and mediated by modern nation states Divided into three sections the book centres round the notion that changing patterns of migration bring escalating obstacles to integration or assimilation In the first section contributors focus on the theory that immigrants are the actors that catalyze contemporary multicultural dilemmas within states with a particular focus on diaspora and how a diaspora community may differ in some ways from other kinds of immigrant community Section two identifies key factors in shaping ethnic identity before moving on to examine the state of the debate over whether identity can be changed or manipulated The contributors to this section provide valuable insights into the catalysts and causes of ethnic division and tension by showing factors in the development of ethnic identity In the third section the focus turns to strategies for mediating multicultural challenges and managing internal diversity in multicultural society offering structural and institutional solutions with evidence of application in specific cases and country contexts Offering a comprehensive overview of this pressing issue and drawing on a wide range of case studies this work will be of interest to students and scholars of migration political sociology race and ethnic studies

The Ethnopolitics of Ethnofederalism in Ethiopia Jan Erk, 2017-12-01 Ethiopia is the darling of development economists since 2005 the country's economic growth rate has consistently been over the 10% mark Ethiopia is also a regional superpower with political influence across East Africa and the Horn Furthermore the African Union has its headquarters in the capital Addis Ababa which further underscores the country's growing international profile On top of everything since 1995 Ethiopia has a federal constitution explicitly committed to granting political autonomy to all ethnic groups within the country Ethiopia's federalism has also direct relevance to the country's neighbours Eritrea Somalia Kenya South Sudan and Djibouti who have ethnic kin across the borders with Ethiopia Yet despite the generous promises to the country's ethnic groups stated in the constitution not everything is well As marked by the recent unrest throughout various regions of the country the federal constitution's promises and the reality do not always perfectly align. But there is a shortage of even-handed scholarly analyses of this complex country and in particular its unique federal system. Based on chapters focusing on different parts of the federal system, the collection takes stock of the last 20 years and distils lessons and insights for a broader international comparative readership. The chapters originally published in Ethnopolitics and Regional Federal Studies Emerging Federal Structures in the Post-Cold War Era Soeren Keil, Sabine Kropp, 2022-05-18. This book conceives federalism not as a static institutional architecture but as a dynamic formation always in flux. This may entail processes of federalization but in some cases also lead to de-federalization. It looks at emerging federal structures worldwide and analyses federal structures, their emergence, operation and categorization. The contributors highlight that the emergence of these federal structures has multiple facets, from the recognition of ethnic diversity to the use of federalism as a tool of conflict resolution. Identifying and categorizing processes of federalization and defederalization in a variety of cases, the book provides much-needed empirical and theoretical discussion on emerging federal structures and the changing nature of federalism in the post-Cold War era.

The Paradox of Federalism Jan Erk, Lawrence M. Anderson, 2013-09-13. The paradox of federalism is about whether self-rule accommodates or exacerbates ethnic divisions. A federal arrangement which formally recognizes ethno-linguistic diversity to help manage divisions can also pave the way for eventual disintegration. The case studies in this book cover a wide geographical basis: Canada, Scotland, Spain, Belgium, Bosnia, Kosovo, Russia, India, and Iraq, and seek to outline under what conditions federalism can deliver its promise of resolving ethnic conflict. The book aims to bridge those who study federalism and decentralization in the developed world and those who study the politics of ethnic divisions in the developing world. We also wanted to bridge the scholarship from the two sides of the Atlantic as well as the subfields of Comparative Politics, International Relations, and Constitutional Politics. Furthermore, the volume has a number of high-profile senior scholars with name recognition from both sides of the Atlantic. The scope of the volume is wide, historically, methodologically, and geographically, and has relevance for the applied side as well as the theoretical literature. Consequently, we believe this is a timely collection on the high-profile topic of Ethnic Conflict Resolution. This book was based on a special issue of Regional and Federal Studies.

Post-War Instability and Human Security in Nepal Purna Bahadur Karki, 2024-12-30. This book studies post-war instability in Nepal and its effect on human security. It looks at Nepal's Maoist People's War, the Nepali peace-building process, and political development in Nepal. Drawing on in-depth interviews, the book discusses multiple issues of the peace-building process, including education, health, economics, income, gender inequality, human rights, and the sociopolitical inclusion of marginal people and backward communities. The author also explores the relationship between peace-building and the broader concept of freedom, examining factors that affect Nepali determination. The book will be useful for students and researchers of politics, peace and conflict studies, sociology, development studies, strategic and security studies, contemporary history, international relations, Nepal studies, and South Asian studies. The Political Economy of Federalism in Nigeria Dele Babalola, 2018-12-29 This book uses the political economy approach to examine the relative failure of federalism in Nigeria. It shows the nexus between the political and the economic aspects of the country's federalism. The central feature of Nigeria's political economy is the relationship between oil resources and the state. The author argues that the inability of the federal government to distribute the oil wealth fairly amongst the component units contributes to the dysfunctional character of the federal system. This deficiency is rooted in the country's unbalanced political economy which promotes over dependency on oil and consequently an over centralised federal system. The book concludes that despite its complexities federalism has become the basis for the country's stability. Therefore, ethno-regional demands for true federalism will continue until the political elite reform the ailing federal system.

China's Multifaceted Identity: Unraveling the Mosaic of Ethnicity and Culture Pasquale De Marco, 2025-04-09 In a world increasingly defined by globalization and interconnectedness, understanding the complexities of ethnic and regional identities has become more crucial than ever. China, with its rich tapestry of cultures and ethnicities, offers a compelling case study for examining the interplay of diversity and unity. This book provides a comprehensive exploration of China's ethnic and regional dimensions, delving into the historical, cultural, and political factors that have shaped the nation's identity. Through in-depth analysis and engaging narratives, the book offers a nuanced understanding of China's diverse ethnic groups, their unique traditions, and their contributions to the nation's cultural heritage. Beyond ethnicity, the book also sheds light on the significant role of regionalism in China's development. It examines the economic disparities, cultural variations, and political dynamics that characterize China's different regions, highlighting the challenges and opportunities that arise from this diversity. Furthermore, the book delves into the complex relationship between the Han majority and ethnic minorities in China. It explores the historical patterns of interaction, the challenges of fostering inter-ethnic harmony, and the role of government policies in promoting equality and mutual respect. In addition to these core themes, the book also examines the rise of ethnic nationalism in China, a phenomenon with far-reaching implications for the nation's stability and unity. It analyzes the causes and consequences of ethnic nationalism, exploring the impact of globalization and the internet on ethnic identity and political mobilization. With a forward-looking perspective, the book concludes by examining the future of ethnicity in China. It considers the impact of demographic changes, education, and potential shifts in government policies on ethnic relations, offering a comprehensive assessment of the challenges and opportunities that lie ahead. This book is an essential resource for anyone seeking a deeper understanding of China's ethnic and regional complexities. It provides a comprehensive overview of the nation's diverse cultural heritage, regional dynamics, and the evolving relationship between the Han majority and ethnic minorities. Through its in-depth analysis and engaging narratives, the book offers valuable insights into the challenges and opportunities that China faces in navigating its complex ethnic and regional landscape.
