Nobel Prize in Literature: a case for India Professor AK Ghosh,2024-09-05 Indian sub continental writers of English fiction have always been confronted with onerous choices Inheritors of literary tradition riddled with regional and linguistic finitude the mere choice of a proper name hopelessly parochialize their stories Many critics wonder why such writers did not write in their regional languages the answer to which is that that would invite self exile from the common market of world literature Translations even the best of them remain surrogate It is therefore all the more satisfying that during the recent decades writers born on the subcontinent like Salman Rushdie Hanif Kureishi Vikram Seth Amitav Ghosh and others have leaped into mainstream English fiction and elicited critical acclaim Indian writers in English despite being largely confined to a small typical Indian backwater perhaps because of it have attracted a good deal of attention here and abroad They have brought to Indian literature a style and feel a conviction and maturity all its own We have started feeling like heading for a modern reconstituted Indian sensibility But after a long gap of Rabindranath Tagore s success we may ask ourselves as to why Indians cannot write great literature Perhaps Matthew Arnold s phrase lack of epochal significance applies to the literary works emerging from our soil Can we claim honestly that we have produced a single author who could match the great masters of Western literature A Flaubert A Faulkner Joyce A Tolstoy Madhusudhanan Nair Inde Mol Veekshith KH,2017-05-16 Indian Literature ,2009 Indian National Bibliography B.
