Being Bright Is Not Enough The Unwritten Rules Of Doctoral Study:

Being Bright is Not Enough Peggy Hawley,1993      Being Bright is Not Enough Peggy Hawley,2010 This third edition has been well revised and continues with the ideas expressed in the previous two editions The details and reactions in light of experiences of the intervening years have been updated and expanded This particularly interesting book is written from a student advocacy perspective intended to speak to non traditional students as well as those typical of past generations Specific topics include 1 how doctoral study differs from previous pursuits 2 choosing a dissertation topic 3 your chair your committee and you 4 writing the proposal 5 the dissertation 6 defense of the thesis and 7 spouses family and friends From the Preface OC Looking back upon my academic career one of the memories that brings me the most pleasure are the words students used to pass along to each other OCyIf you have a problem go see Peggy Hawley OCO My distress at seeing bright students drop out and my interest in social science research combined to provide the impetus for writing this book On a year long sabbatical leave I interviewed hundreds of doctoral students and dozens of professors across the nation Then as professor emeritus I finally found the time to put my thoughts into words OCO In making the unwritten rules of doctoral study more explicit the author has attempted to be insightful rather than scientific personal rather than objective and practical rather than theoretical This guide will therefore help to pave the way for those recipients who will pursue and capture academeOCO's highest award the terminal degree in a particular field of study      Attitudes Toward Interactivity in a Graduate Distance Education Program Brent Muirhead,1999-08 As distance education schools grow in popularity contemporary educators are raising important instructional questions about quality of these programs A vital question involves concerns about the level of interactivity or interaction between students and between teachers and students Interactivity is a challenging subject because there are few research studies that address the issue It is a dynamic entity that involves a number of important elements but the researcher stressed three vital elements communication participation and feedback The study highlights research results from a survey of students who were pursuing on line graduate degrees masters and doctoral Important distance education issues are discussed such as feedback from professors and the quality of academic dialog during a computer mediated class The text offers a relevant analysis of interactivity that should help distance educators and administrators in their quest to develop programs that meet the needs of today's adult learners

Happier as a Woman Martina Giselle Ramirez, Alicia Partnoy, 2019-10-08

Martina Ramirez first started wearing her mother's shoes in secret in second grade when everyone still knew her as Martin. Growing up in a conservative household as an adopted Mexican American in a racially segregated city she swore she would not be just another crime or teen pregnancy statistic. She lived up to that promise when Martina was named high school valedictorian, became a tenured professor at a prestigious university and had a family. It was only then, after she had become established in her life and career, that she was able to finally be her true self. Happier as a Woman is not just a story of one woman's transition. It is a story about relationships: those she fostered with herself, those that were hurt, those that were saved, and those that would not have existed if not for Martina's desire to be a mentor, to be the change. Martina made it her mission to pave the way for all of those that would come after her, from the women seeking to break through the glass ceiling to fellow victims of emotional abuse, regardless of who they appeared to be on the outside. As though all the emotions she had to bottle up in her youth have become more potent with age, they now tell a compelling journey of acceptance, self-discovery, and self-love. Martina's story is artfully told through letters, anecdotes, and powerful interviews conducted by and written alongside her renowned co-author, human rights advocate and memoirist Alicia Partnoy. Climbing the Ivory Tower Kathy English, Sara Casey, 2011-08-26. This book is about two women in their early fifties who decide to return to graduate school to work toward a Ph.D. in musicology. They don't know one another; they don't have any idea how taxing it will be, and they have been out of touch with recent scholarship. One of the women has five children, and the other has two, but all are frisky and imaginative kids who keep up their antics to their mothers' despair. Their tales of adjustment to academic life, their interaction with the professors and classmates, and their attempt to survive confrontations with their children are sometimes hilarious and sometimes tragic to say nothing of the medical obstacle that bars their path. Soziologie 1.2008 Georg Vobruba, 2008-02-11.
