The Black Musketeer Eric Martone, 2011-05-25 Alexandre Dumas author of The Three Musketeers The Count of Monte Cristo and The Man in the Iron Mask is the most famous French writer of the nineteenth century In 2002 his remains were transferred to the Panth on a mausoleum reserved for the greatest French citizens amidst much national hype during his bicentennial Contemporary France struggling with the legacies of colonialism and growing diversity has transformed Dumas grandson of a slave from St Domingue now Haiti into a symbol of the colonies and the larger francophone world in an attempt to integrate its immigrants and migrants from its former Caribbean African and Asian colonies to improve race relations and to promote French globality Such a reconception of Dumas has made him a major figure in debates on French identity and colonial history Ten years after Dumas's interment in the Panthéon the time is ripe to re-evaluate Dumas within this context of being a representative of la Francophonie The French re-evaluation of Dumas therefore invites a reassessment of his life works legacy and previous scholarship This interdisciplinary collection is the first major work to take up this task It is unique for being the first scholarly work to bring Dumas into the center of debates about French identity and France's relations with its former colonies For the purposes of this collection to analyze Dumas in a francophone context means to explore Dumas as a symbol of a French culture shaped by and inclusive of its former colonies and current overseas departments The seven entries in this collection which focus on providing new ways of interpreting The Three Musketeers The Man in the Iron Mask The Count of Monte Cristo and Georges are categorized into two broad groups The first group focuses on Dumas's relationship with the francophone colonial world during his lifetime which was characterized by the slave trade and provides a postcolonial re-examination of his work which was impacted profoundly by his status as an individual of black colonial descent in metropolitan France The second part of this collection which is centered broadly around Dumas's francophone legacy examines the way he has been remembered in the larger French speaking postcolonial world which includes metropolitan France in the past century to explore questions about French identity in an emerging global age

Fragmented Memories and Screening Nostalgia for the Cultural Revolution Jing Meng, 2020-08-19

Fragmented Memories and Screening Nostalgia for the Cultural Revolution argues that films and TV dramas about the Cultural Revolution made after China's accession to the WTO in 2001 tend to represent personal memories in a markedly sentimental nostalgic and fragmented manner This new trend is a significant departure from earlier films about the subject which are generally interpreted as national allegories not private expressions of grief regret or other personal feelings With China entering a postsocialist era the ideological conflation of socialism and global capitalism has generated enough cultural ambiguity to allow a space for the expression of personalized reminiscences of the past By presenting these personal memories in effect alternative narratives to official history on screen individuals now seem to have some agency in narrating and constructing history At the same time such autonomy can be easily undermined since the promotion of the sentiment of nostalgia is often subjected to commodification Sentimental treatments of the past may simply be a marketing strategy Underplaying political issues is also a safer way for films and TV dramas to secure public release in mainland China Meng concludes that the new mode of representing the past is shaped by the current sociopolitical conditions these personal memories and micro narratives can be understood as the defining ways of remembering in China's postsocialist era Fragmented Memories and Screening Nostalgia for the Cultural Revolution takes a comprehensive look at contemporary screen depictions of the Cultural Revolution The book convincingly ties close readings of the works analysed with broader social and cultural phenomena that already are hot topics of study and debate offering something original while also being closely engaged with existing scholarship Jason McGrath University of Minnesota Breaking through the tired dichotomy between personal and collective narratives individual memory and grand history this refreshing book sheds much light on film memories of the Cultural Revolution in the post socialist millennium In a limpid and engaging style Jing Meng probes memory s nostalgia and imbrication with the collective destiny and critiques the personal focus aligned with neoliberal economy and commodification Ban Wang Stanford University NOVELS FOR STUDENTS CENGAGE LEARNING.
