The Translator as Writer Susan Bassnett, Peter Bush, 2007-11-15 Over the last two decades interest in translation around the world has increased beyond any predictions International bestseller lists now contain large numbers of translated works and writers from Latin America Africa India and China have joined the lists of eminent bestselling European writers and those from the global English speaking world Despite this translators tend to be invisible as are the processes they follow and the strategies they employ when translating The Translator as Writer bridges the divide between those who study translation and those who produce translations through essays written by well known translators talking about their own work as distinctive creative literary practice The book emphasises this creativity arguing that translators are effectively writers or rewriters who produce works that can be read and enjoyed by an entirely new audience The aim of the book is to give a proper prominence to the role of translators and in so doing to move attention back to the act of translating away from more abstract speculation about what translation might involve

Reflexive Translation Studies Silvia Kadiu, 2019-04-08 In the past decades translation studies have increasingly focused on the ethical dimension of translational activity with an emphasis on reflexivity to assert the role of the researcher in highlighting issues of visibility creativity and ethics In Reflexive Translation Studies Silvia Kadiu investigates the viability of theories that seek to empower translation by making visible its transformative dimension for example by championing the visibility of the translating subject the translator's right to creativity the supremacy of human translation or an autonomous study of translation Inspired by Derrida's deconstructive thinking Kadiu presents practical ways of challenging theories that argue reflexivity is the only way of developing an ethical translation She questions the capacity of reflexivity to counteract the power relations at play in translation between minor and dominant languages for example and problematises affirmative claims about self knowledge by using translation itself as a process of critical reflection In exploring the interaction between form and content Reflexive Translation Studies promotes the need for an experimental multi sensory and intuitive practice which invites students scholars and practitioners alike to engage with theory productively and creatively through translation
