and purpose we never knew we had      Letters of Stone Steven Robins,2016-02-03 As a young boy growing up in Port Elizabeth in the 1960s and 1970s Steven Robins was haunted by an old postcard size photograph of three unknown women on a table in the dining room Only later did he learn that the women were his father s mother and sisters photographed in Berlin in 1937 before they were killed in the Holocaust Steven s father who had fled Nazi Germany before it was too late never spoke about the fate of his family who remained there Steven became obsessed with finding out what happened to the women but had little to go on In time he stumbled on official facts in museums in Washington DC and Berlin and later he discovered over a hundred letters sent to his father and uncle from the family in Berlin between 1936 and 1943 The women who before had been unnamed faces in a photograph could now tell their story to future generations Letters of Stone tracks Steven s journey of discovery about the lives and fates of the Robinski family It is also a book about geographical journeys to the Karoo town of Williston where his father s uncle settled in the late nineteenth century and became mayor to Berlin where Steven laid stumbling stones Stolpersteine in commemoration of his relatives to Auschwitz where his father s siblings perished Most of all this book is a poignant reconstruction of a family trapped in an increasingly terrifying and deadly Nazi state and of the immense pressure on Steven s father in faraway South Africa which forced him to retreat into silence

Grandfather? Prof. Joe Arthur, 2021-08-04 Joe's sister was born with a silver spoon in her mouth but not Joe. Joe's sister was afforded every opportunity but Joe got only adversity. Joe was routinely abused by his father but this is not an 'oh pity me' story. Rather it is the tale of how Joe's maternal grandfather shared his experiences, strength and certainties that helped Joe learn how to face life's challenges and grow into a strong and successful man. Between these covers are some of the challenges and obstacles that helped give might to Joe's life. As Joe shares this quest and the lessons his grandfather shared with him, you too will have the opportunity to grow and learn how Joe used these very tools to forge a meaningful and valuable life. Often when Joe shared these lessons, he would honor with gratitude the lessons from his mentor, guardian and protector by asking, 'Did I ever tell you about my grandfather?' For reasons found in this book, a portion of the proceeds from the sale of all Joe Arthur's writings go to the Association of Zoos and Aquariums, the Covenant House, the Native American Rights Fund, The NAACP, the USS Constitution Museum and the World Wildlife Fund. Access to Justice and Human Security Sindiso Mnisi

Weeks, 2017-11-22 For most people in rural South Africa, traditional justice mechanisms provide the only feasible means of accessing any form of justice. These mechanisms are popularly associated with restorative justice, reconciliation and harmony in rural communities. Yet this ethnographic study, grounded in the political economy of rural South Africa, reveals how historical conditions and contemporary pressures have strained these mechanisms' ability to deliver the high normative ideals with which they are notionally linked. In places such as Msinga, access to justice is made especially precarious by the reality that human insecurity—a composite of physical, social and material insecurity—is high for both ordinary people and the authorities who staff local justice forums. Cooperation is low between traditional justice mechanisms and the criminal and social justice mechanisms the state is meant to provide, and competition from purportedly more effective twilight institutions like vigilante associations is rife. Further contradictions are presented by profoundly gendered social relations premised on delicate social trust that is closely monitored by one's community and enforced through self-help measures like witchcraft accusations in a context in which violence is culturally and practically a highly plausible strategy for dispute management. These contextual considerations compel us to ask what justice we can reasonably speak of access to in such an insecure context and what solutions are viable under such volatile human conditions. The book concludes with a vision for access to justice in rural South Africa that takes seriously ordinary people's circumstances and traditional authorities' lived experiences as documented in this detailed study. The author proposes a cooperative governance model that would maximise the resources and capacity of both traditional and state justice apparatus for delivering the legal and social justice, namely peace and protection from violence as well as mitigation of poverty and destitution that rural people genuinely need. Resistance
 Shane Moran, 2021-04-19 In Resistance Sol Plaatje and South Africa, Shane Moran studies Sol Plaatje, the founding secretary of what was to become the African National Congress (ANC) and his work within the context of colonial politics and resistance. Arguing for a return to the study of one of the founders of anti-racism, Moran explores issues of land reform, human rights, and the legacy of colonialism. Through an in-depth analysis of Plaatje's resistance to racial domination, Moran examines the nature of the struggles that continue within and beyond South Africa today. In particular, Moran analyzes events from the beginning of the previous century that shaped post-1994 South Africa, such as the resolution of the ANC to expropriate land without compensation.

Cultural Nostalgias
 Merry Osemwegie, 2014 This is a narrative account of the lived experiences of an immigrant. In many ways, this book discusses a range of issues that transcend different sociocultural, philosophical, and political terrains. Paved with comical and simple narrative, the author located poignant and challenging issues within personal experiences of orphanhood, racism, race, and sex, acculturation, deculturation, immigration, and his nostalgic feelings. Reflectively, he recalled how his early years in Africa were filled with happy memories of his parents and siblings and his lifelong regret over his failure to adequately care for his father. From a child who hated education to someone with five degrees, he has had to face many challenges, including his unstoppable desire to acquire academic qualifications, which oftentimes offered him no significant professional and material gains in return. The author is living a life in the UK that millions of people would envy, and yet he is troubled by cultural nostalgias. For a man who did everything to leave Africa, he could neither come to terms with why he could not just move back to Africa where his heart is nor is he able to make up his mind about where he would like to be buried
