Pakistan: Strategy to promote climate smart agriculture practices Rana, Abdul Wajid, Gill, Sitara, 2025-03-28 Pakistan is a case of double injustice contributing a minuscule share of global greenhouse gases yet it is bearing the brunt of global climate change impacts It ranks among the top 10 countries vulnerable to climate change Eckstein et al 2021 The 2022 IPCC Report underlines the heightened vulnerabilities because of global warming and climate change leading to more floods The Asia Pacific Disaster Report 20221 Pakistan could lose more than 9 percent of its annual GDP due to climate change The Notre Dame Gain Matrix2 ranks Pakistan 5th most impacted country by climate change shocks and is positioned as the 36th least prepared nation to cope with climate changes The World Bank Group 2021 Besides Pakistan scores worst on the indicator of Agriculture Capacity3 at 0 939 Pakistan is highly vulnerable to climate changes because of its arid to semi arid environmental conditions Nasim et al 2018 Ullah et al 2019 Ghaffar et al 2022 Over the last two decades the country has been facing the challenges of rising temperature extreme heatwaves drought intense and erratic precipitation water stress glacial melting recurring flash floods and super floods in 2010 and 2022 The combination of reduced crop yields water scarcity and changing agricultural practices can lead to severe food insecurity and economic challenges for marginalized communities and more importantly for farmers In July August 2022 Pakistan faced unprecedented rainfall and riverine floods damaging cultivated crops livestock and the infrastructure Approximately 4 4 million acres of crops were damaged and nearly 1 million animals perished The total cost of damages and losses was estimated at 30 13 billion with agriculture accounting for 12 9 billion 43 percent of the total Economic Survey of Pakistan 2021 22

Emerging Challenges to Food Production and Security in Asia, Middle East, and Africa Mohamed Behnassi, Mirza Barjees Baig, Mahjoub El Haiba, Michael R. Reed, 2021-07-28 This book as a part of a series of CERES publications provides a multi regional and cross sectoral analysis of food and water security especially in the era of climate risks biodiversity loss pressure on scarce resources especially land and water increasing global population and changing dietary preferences It includes both conceptual research and empirically based studies which provides context specific analyses and recommendations based on a variety of case studies from Africa Middle East and Asia regarding the fostering of long term resilience of food and water security The core approach of the volume consists of assessing the structural drivers affecting the vulnerability of food and water security under the persistence of current trends identifying the best solutions and practices to enhance the climate resilience for food and water security and fostering climate adaptation and biodiversity protection for food and water security

Sustainable Plant Nutrition under Contaminated Environments Qaisar Mahmood, 2022-03-10 Global industrial growth has resulted in numerous pollutants being introduced into the environment It has additionally caused decreased water availability for agricultural activity in developing countries which in turn has compelled farmers to use wastewater irrigation In advanced agricultural systems farmers are adapting various strategies to achieve a higher yield and thus sustain crop productivity. Consequent to the introduction of contaminants in the environment, soil pollutants have become a critical issue. Selection of disease resistant high yielding crop varieties and extensive fertilizer applications are quite common among farming communities. This book provides insight into environmental pollutants with special reference to their interference with plant nutrition. It additionally discusses the physiological aspects of plant nutrition. This book enhances current knowledge of the effects of pollutants on plant growth and physiology.

STRENGTHENING SECTOR POLICIES FOR BETTER FOOD SECURITY AND NUTRITION RESULTS: Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2018-11-07. Extreme climate events are increasing in frequency and intensity, threatening the agriculture sectors and the livelihoods they support. By impacting on agro ecosystems, climate change and variability have socio economic implications on the livelihoods and food security and nutrition of the most vulnerable. On the other hand, the agriculture sectors are also significant greenhouse gas emitters. This note aims to serve as orientation material for policy advisors and policymakers confronted with the challenge of ensuring food security and nutrition in the face of climate change and extreme climate events.

Climate-Smart Food Dave Reay, 2019-07-01. This open access book asks just how climate smart our food really is. It follows an average day's worth of food and drink to see where it comes from, how far it travels, and the carbon price we all pay for it. From our breakfast tea and toast through breacktime chocolate bar to take away supper, Dave Reay explores the weather extremes the world's farmers are already dealing with and what new threats climate change will bring. Readers will encounter heat waves and hurricanes, wildfires and deadly toxins, as well as some truly climate smart solutions. In every case, there are responses that could cut emissions while boosting resilience and livelihoods. Ultimately, we are all in this together; our decisions on what food we buy and how we consume it send life changing ripples right through the global web that is our food supply. As we face a future of 10 billion mouths to feed in a rapidly changing climate, it's time to get to know our farmers and herders, our vintners and fisherfolk a whole lot better.

Climate Change, Cattle, and the International Legal Order Rebecca Williams, 2024-05-30. Livestock food systems need to be rapidly rethought to tackle the global climate crisis. This book examines how climate concerns for the livestock sector are governed in international law and addresses the sector's inclusion or lack thereof across the international governance of climate change, agriculture, forests, and trade. The book provides a wide ranging analysis of legal regimes at the international level that affect emissions from cattle and where relevant, livestock more broadly. On this basis, tensions, interactions, and common themes for livestock emissions mitigation across the international climate change, forestry, agricultural, and agri trade regime are identified. This showcases where productive synergies and damaging tensions have emerged across the cross cutting nature of livestock governance, enabling goals of fairer and more effective emissions mitigation for the sector to be achieved. In addition to addressing issues such as food security and public health, the book highlights the problem of affluence in reducing cattle emissions from meat consumption. This key insight is significant in terms of tackling future livestock emissions trajectories particularly in relation to securing climate justice within the agricultural sector and securing equitable and effective livestock solutions The book is a key text for all those with an interest in the legal governance of climate change and agriculture adding to the timely debate on the future sustainability of the global diet and the relationship between affluence and climate change

Agricultural and Climate Change Adaptation Law in Africa Habib Sani Usman, 2025-02-17 This book presents an analysis of climate change and agricultural laws in Kenya Nigeria and South Africa in order to determine whether they adequately addressed the concept of agricultural adaptation Agriculture is one of the sectors of the economy that is contributing to climate change and at the same time the sector is heavily impacted by climate change Therefore agricultural adaptation is required Focusing on three countries this book provides a novel comparative examination of how and to what extent the law promotes agriculture focused adaptation in these countries The role of the law in addressing issues such as water management strategies soil conservation methods and crop production methods is discussed This book identifies gaps in the regulatory frameworks for agricultural adaptation and highlights the lack of adaptive capacity of African agriculture due to weak or non existing legal frameworks It discusses ways to remedy these gaps through specific on farm adaptation strategies legislative amendments to consolidate all relevant national climate change related policies and laws with agricultural policies and laws that have relevant provisions on adaptation as medium term solutions and the development of a specific framework law for agriculture focused adaptation incorporating essential agricultural adaptation strategies could perhaps be enacted as long term solutions to the regulatory gaps This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of law climate change food and agriculture sustainable development and African studies

Evaluation of the project "Strengthening the adaptive capacity and resilience of rural communities using micro watershed approaches to climate change and variability to attain sustainable food security in Cambodia" Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations , 2021-01-29 Cambodia is among the Least Developed Countries that continue to struggle with serious environmental issues among which are climate change water resources and land degradation The project implemented from 2014 to 2020 contributed to build the adaptive capacity of rural communities and reduce their vulnerability to climate change through micro watershed management and climate resilient agriculture practices through interventions at national sub national and community levels It was designed to address barriers at all levels local to national stemming from lack of awareness knowledge understanding and capacity concerning climate change adaptation and the absence of alternative livelihoods particularly affecting rural women The evaluation found that the project activities made some important steps in contributing to reducing vulnerability and increasing resilience for climate change adaptation in the pilot communes While the project managed to implement many of the outputs a number of issues and delays limited the effectiveness on the ground of this innovative yet ambitious project
