Ecology of Biological Invasions of North America and Hawaii
Harold A. Mooney, James A. Drake, 2012-12-06 The diversity of the earth's climates superimposed upon a complex configuration of physical features has provided the conditions for the evolution of a remarkable array of living things which are linked together into complex ecosystems The kinds of organisms comprising the ecosystems of the world and the nature of their interactions have constantly changed through time due to coevolutionary interactions along with the effects of a continually changing physical environment In recent evolutionary time there has been a dramatic and ever accelerating rate of change in the configuration of these ecosystems because of the increasing influence of human beings These changes range from subtle modifications caused by anthropogenically induced alterations in atmospheric properties to the total destruction of ecosystems Many of these modifications have provided the fuel food and fiber which have allowed the expansion of human populations Unfortunately there have been many unanticipated changes which accompanied these modifications which have had effects detrimental to human welfare including substantial changes in water and air quality For example the use of high sulfur coal to produce energy in parts of North America is altering the properties of freshwater lakes and forests because of acidification

Meetings With Remarkable Trees Thomas Pakenham, 2019-12-05 Thomas Pakenham's beautifully illustrated bestselling book of tree portraits With this astonishing collection Thomas Pakenham produced a new kind of tree book The arrangement owes little to conventional botany The sixty trees are grouped according to their own strong personalities Natives Travellers Shrines Fantasies and Survivors From the ancient native trees many of which are huge and immeasurably old to the exotic newcomers from Europe the East and North America MEETINGS WITH REMARKABLE TREES captures the history and beauty of these entrancing living structures Common to all these trees is their power to inspire awe and wonder This is a lovingly researched book beautifully illustrated with colour photographs engravings and maps a moving testimonial to the Earth's largest and oldest living structures Trees of Vancouver Gerald B. Straley, 2011-11-01 Vancouver is famous for its trees. The range of vegetation in this green city is extraordinary. Native and cultivated trees, many of which are not found anywhere else in Canada, thrive in the mild wet winters and drier summers. Gerald Straley, a leading researcher and a popular science educator at the Botanical Garden at the University of British Columbia, knows Vancouver's woody green heritage well. In this comprehensive guide, the first of its kind, he draws attention to the great diversity of trees in the city, on its streets, in its parks, and in its public and private gardens. Trees of Vancouver is an invaluable guidebook for visitors and residents and an authoritative tool for horticulturists, landscape architects, naturalists, and the nursery industry. It provides detailed, easy-to-understand information on over 470 kinds of trees. Each entry contains particulars about the origins, general appearance, merits, problems, and uses in landscaping of individual species. To aid further in identification, entries specify locations where outstanding examples can be seen. The text is complemented by hundreds of the author's delicate drawings of the leaves, flowers, fruits, or other distinctive features of individual trees, and by colour plates of 86 trees. For the reader who wants to spend a pleasant day exploring and identifying specimens, there are detailed maps of several locations in the city where a wide variety of trees can be seen.

The Plant-Book D. J. Mabberley, 1997-06-19 A new edition of one of the most practical and authoritative botanical dictionaries available.

Woodland Habitats Mark Frater, Helen J. Read, 2005-07-12 Woodland habitats explores the history and ecology of British woodland and explains why they are such a valuable resource. It examines the wide range of different types of woodland habitats and the typical species that live within them. It offers a practical guide to all the key woodland issues, including conservation and management, coppicing, grazing in woodlands, fire breaks, recreation, management for game, pasture, woodland, and commercial forestry. Woodland Habitats also includes a guide to notable sites, with location maps and illustrations, suggested practical projects, and a full glossary of terms.

British Native Trees - Their Past and Present Uses Piers Warren, 2006-03 This unique book explores the past and present uses of products, wood, bark, fruit, sap, etc. of the 35 species of British native trees. This book is for smallholders, wood owners, tree surgeons, gardeners, and anyone who loves trees.

Gardening Horticulture Conifer Cold Hardiness F.J. Bigras, Stephen J. Colombo, 2013-03-14 Conifer Cold Hardiness provides an up-to-date synthesis by leading scientists in the study of the major physiological and environmental factors regulating cold hardiness of conifer tree species. This state-of-the-art reference comprehensively explains current understanding of conifer cold hardiness, ranging from the gene to the globe and from the highly applied to the very basic. Topics addressed encompass cold hardiness from the perspectives of ecology, ecophysiology, acclimation, and deacclimation, seedling production, and reforestation, the impacts of biotic and abiotic factors, and methods for studying and analyzing cold hardiness. The content is relevant to geneticists, ecologists, stress physiologists, environmental and global change scientists, pathologists, advanced nursery and silvicultural practitioners, and graduate students involved in plant biology, plant physiology, horticulture, and forestry with an interest in cold hardiness.
