QUESTION 1: Theory (7 marks)

1.1 Give four potential red flags an analyst can identify in a general accounting analysis. (4 marks)

- Unexplained changes in accounting when performance is poor.
- Unexplained transactions that boost profits.
- Abnormal increases in receivables relative to sales.
- Abnormal increases in inventory relative to sales.
- Increasing gap between accounting profit and cash flows.
- Increasing gap between accounting and tax profit.
- Use of financing mechanisms.
- Unexpected large asset write-offs.
- Large fourth quarter adjustments.
- Audit qualification or change in auditors.
- Poor internal governance systems.
- Related-party or entity transactions.

1.2 Briefly describe three sources of potential noise in accounting information. (3 marks)

- Noise from accounting rules/standards. For example, by mandating the expensing of R&D outlays the financial statements do not reflect the potential value of these activities.
- Management forecast errors. In making accrual adjustments, managers have to make predictions about the future. Ex-post errors are likely. For example, managers making estimates for pension accounting are required to make estimates on the future rate of return on pension plan assets. This is difficult, if not impossible.
- Management-induced bias. Earnings management (or manipulation) to achieve some reporting objective.
