Confessions of a Grieving Mother Sherry Anne Coombe, 2014-04-10 I did not cry The moment came when Heather died I did not shed a tear I felt numb like I was having an out of body experience and I was watching myself go through the motions There were things to do people to call it was not the time to begin to fall apart I had just joined an elite club of grieving mothers This was the club no one talked about or wanted to become a member of From that moment on my life was getting a makeover that I didn't ask for let alone consent to allowing it to happen It was beyond my control I was not given a choice This was and is my life now I am a grieving mother for the rest of my life America Toons In David Perlmutter, 2014-04-01 Animation has been part of television since the start of the medium but it has rarely received unbiased recognition from media scholars More often it has been ridiculed for supposedly poor technical quality accused of trafficking in violence aimed at children and neglected for indulging in vulgar behavior These accusations are often made categorically out of prejudice or ignorance with little attempt to understand the importance of each program on its own terms This book takes a serious look at the whole genre of television animation from the early themes and practices through the evolution of the art to the present day Examining the productions of individual studios and producers the author establishes a means of understanding their work in new ways at the same time discussing the ways in which the genre has often been unfairly marginalized by critics and how especially in recent years producers have both challenged and embraced this marginality as a vital part of their work By taking seriously something often thought to be frivolous the book provides a framework for understanding the persistent presence of television animation in the American media and how surprisingly influential it has been Bibliographien.
