

The background is a dark, monochromatic illustration. In the center, a person with short hair and a wide-eyed, open-mouthed expression of shock or fear is floating face-up. They are surrounded by a vast sea of Japanese yen banknotes, which are depicted with swirling, wavy lines to represent water. In the upper left corner, a bird, possibly a crow or raven, is shown in flight. The overall tone is ominous and surreal.

Horror Fiction in the Global South Ritwick Bhattacharjee, Saikat Ghosh, 2021-04-30 Horror Fiction in the Global South Cultures Narratives and Representations believes that the experiences of horror are not just individual but also simultaneously cultural Within this understanding literary productions become rather potent sites for the relation of such experiences both on the individual and the cultural front It's not coincidental then that either William Blatty's The Exorcist or Gabriel Garcia Marquez's One Hundred Years of Solitude become archetypes of the representations of the way horror affects individuals placed inside different cultures Such an affectation though is but a beginning of the ways in which the supernatural interacts with the human and gives rise to horror Considering that almost all aspects of what we now designate as the Global North and its concomitant the Global South political historical social economic cultural and so on function as different paradigms the experiences of horror and their telling in stories become functionally different as well Added to this are the variations that one nation or culture of the east has from another The present anthology of essays in such a scheme of things seeks to examine and demonstrate these cultural differences embedded in the impact that figures of horror and specters of the night have on the narrative imagination of storytellers from the Global South If horror has an everyday presence in the phenomenal reality that Southern cultures subscribe to it demands alternative phenomenology The anthology allows scholars and connoisseurs of Horror to explore theoretical possibilities that may help address precisely such a need

No Longer Human Junji Ito, 2019-12-17 Nothing can surpass the terror of the human psyche. Mine has been a life of much shame. I can't even guess myself what it must be to live the life of a human being. Plagued by a maddening anxiety, the terrible disconnect between his own concept of happiness and the joy of the rest of the world, Yozo Oba plays the clown in his dissolute life, holding up a mask for those around him as he spirals ever downward. Locked arm in arm with death, Osamu Dazai's immortal and supposedly autobiographical work of Japanese literature is perfectly adapted here into a manga by Junji Ito. The imagery wrenches open the text of the novel, one line at a time, to sublimate Yozo's mental landscape into something even more delicate and grotesque. This is the ultimate in art by Ito: proof that nothing can surpass the terror of the human psyche.
