Applied Evaluative Informetrics Henk F. Moed, 2017-09-08 This book presents an introduction to the field of applied evaluative informetrics dealing with the use of bibliometric or informetric indicators in research assessment. It sketches the field's history, recent achievements, and its potential and limits. The book dedicates special attention to the application context of quantitative research assessment. It describes research assessment as an evaluation science and distinguishes various assessment models in which the domain of informetrics and the policy sphere are disentangled analytically. It illustrates how external non-informetric factors influence indicator development and how the policy context impacts the setup of an assessment process. It also clarifies common misunderstandings in the interpretation of some often used statistics. Addressing the way forward, the book expresses the author's critical views on a series of fundamental problems in the current use of research performance indicators in research assessment. Highlighting the potential of informetric techniques, a series of new features is proposed that could be implemented in future assessment processes. It sketches a perspective on altmetrics and proposes new lines in longer term strategic indicator research. It is written for interested scholars from all domains of science and scholarship and especially for all those subjected to research assessment: research students at advanced master and PhD level, research managers, funders, and science policy officials, and to practitioners and students in the field. Scholarly

Publishing in Africa Solani Ngobeni, 2010 Sadly the same cannot be said about scholarly publishing which to all intents and purposes continues to remain the flotsam and jetsam of the African publishing landscape. Library Data Darby Orcutt, 2009-11-19 Numerical evidence is everywhere and how best to handle and leverage it is a growing concern in the academic world in general and the academic library world in particular. Libraries are not only storehouses and key contacts for library patrons in accessing numbers but are also collectors and users of their own data which is integral to the functioning of the library itself. The essays in Library Data: Empowering Practice and Persuasion focus on interpreting and using library generated and outside data in support of data driven practice and data strengthened persuasion. The collection includes such topics as how to make data presentations appealing and effective, applying capital budgeting models to libraries, and using data for evaluation and improvement of collections and services. Articles also cover specialized scenarios including reference collection development, serial acquisitions, institutional repositories, web site design, interlibrary loan, and bibliographic instruction. Adapting to E-Books William Miller, Rita Pellen, 2013-09-13 This book provides models for acquisitions policies and reports on several surveys of faculty and librarian attitudes toward e-books. It also discusses certain issues in acquiring, cataloguing, and collection development regarding this important new library resource. Atlantis Rising Magazine Issue 130 - PUSHING BACK AGAINST TECH TYRANNY PDF Download atlantisrising.com, In This 88 page edition

Applications to Library Kole Lambert, A library computer system is the software used to catalog track circulation where appropriate and inventory a library s assets It is intended for home church private enterprise and other small to medium sized collections Larger libraries typically use an integrated library system to manage the more complex activities such as acquisitions interlibrary loan and licensing online resources With distributed software the customer can choose to self install or to have the system installed by the vendor on their own hardware The customer can be responsible for the operation and maintenance of the application and the data or the customer can choose to be supported by the vendor with an annual maintenance contract Some vendors charge for upgrades to the software Customers who subscribe to a web hosted service upload data to the vendors remote server through the Internet and may pay a periodic fee to access their data Modern libraries are constituted within and by a tradition of techniques and practices that represent a hundred years of codified professional knowledge This book provides a historical overview of this tradition that created a complex environment of expectation and misunderstanding for introducing library automation This book attempts to delineate and discuss the applications of the computer that have been behind the technological revolution of library science The aim of the book is to mainly enhance the readers understanding of the ways in which computers have heralded the invasion of technology into library science with special attention to the emergence of digital libraries which promise to make libraries and their information completely at the mercy of our fingertips Cyberhound's Guide to Companies on the Internet Gale Group, Wendy H.
