The Persistence of Gender Inequality Mary Evans, 2016-12-20 Despite centuries of campaigning women still earn less and have less power than men Equality remains a goal not yet reached In this incisive account of why this is the case Mary Evans argues that optimistic narratives of progress and emancipation have served to obscure long term structural inequalities between women and men structural inequalities which are not only about gender but also about general social inequality In widening the lenses on the persistence of gender inequality Evans shows how in contemporary debates about social inequality gender is often ignored implicitly side lining critical aspects of relations between women and men This engaging short book attempts to join up some of the dots in the ways that we think about both social and gender inequality and offers a new perspective on a problem that still demands society's full attention

Women's Work Jennifer Moore, 2025-03-11

When women have full socioeconomic citizenship as well as equitable and respectful partnerships with men transformative justice can be sustained in postconflict societies In Women's Work Jennifer Moore presents a reimagined theory of peacebuilding and transformative justice based on the experiences and insights of women farmers and microentrepreneurs who lived through protracted civil conflicts drawing on seven years of interviews with women activists across ten communities five in the Acholi region of Northern Uganda and five in the Moyamba and Koinadugu Districts of Sierra Leone Despite the important differences between the preconflict and conflict histories and demographics of the two countries Moore finds commonalities

in the practical yet visionary approaches to community life emerging from the core values daily activities and long range goals shared by rural cooperative members in both regions Collective survival communal healing and conflict resolution define the rhythm of these women s daily lives as they go about building peace piecemeal They reject punitive retribution models and demand instead a peacebuilding model that advocates for advances in material well being the acknowledgment of state accountability for community suffering and reconciliation and restoration of community networks But most important Moore amplifies these women s voices when they insist that legal equality for women and healthy partnerships between women and men are also essential components to enduring transformation of their societies Moore theorizes what peacebuilding look like if it were modeled on these women led matriarchically structured communities that proved not only to be effective at holding governments accountable but also to have the capacity to feed their people and revitalize their local economies Women s Work shows that when women have full socioeconomic citizenship as well as equitable and respectful partnerships with men transformative justice can be sustained through the arts of collective livelihood violence free conflict management and celebration

Women as Foreign Policy Leaders Sylvia Bashevkin, 2018-08-02 What difference does gender make to foreign diplomacy What do we know about women s participation as decision makers in international affairs Is it fair to assume as many observers do that female elites will mirror the relatively pacifist preferences of women in the general public as well as the claims of progressive feminist movements And of particular importance to this book what consequences follow from the appointment of firsts to these posts Inspired by recent work in the field of feminist diplomatic history this book offers the first comparative examination of women s presence in senior national security positions in the United States executive branch Sylvia Bashevkin looks at four high profile appointees in the United States since 1980 Jeane Kirkpatrick during the Reagan years Madeleine Albright in the Clinton era Condoleezza Rice during the George W Bush presidency and Hillary Rodham Clinton in the first Obama mandate Bashevkin explores the extent to which each of these women was able to fully participate in a domain long dominated by men focusing in particular on the extent to which each shaped foreign policy in meaningful ways She looks particularly at two specific phenomena first the influence of female decision makers notably their ability to make measurable difference to the understanding and practice of national security policy and second leaders actions with respect to matters of war and women s rights The track records of these four women reveal not just a consistent willingness to pursue muscular aggressive approaches to international relations but also widely divergent views about feminism Women as Foreign Policy Leaders shows how Kirkpatrick Albright Rice and Clinton staked out their presence on the international scene and provided a crucial antidote to the silencing of women s voices in global politics
