Dynamics Of Language Contact English And Immigrant Languages Cambridge Approaches To Language Contact:

Dynamics of Language Contact Michael G. Clyne, 2003-03-20 The past decade has seen an unprecedented growth in the study of language contact associated partly with the linguistic effects of globalization and increased migration all over the world Written by a leading expert in the field this much needed account brings together disparate findings to examine the dynamics of contact between languages in an immigrant context Using data from a wide range of languages including German Dutch Hungarian Italian Spanish Croatian and Vietnamese Michael Clyne discusses the dynamics of their contact with English Clyne analyzes how and why these languages change in an immigration country like Australia and asks why some languages survive longer than others The book contains useful comparisons between immigrant vintages generations and between bilinguals and trilinguals An outstanding contribution to the study of language contact this book will be welcomed by students and researchers in linguistics bilingualism the sociology of language and education

Language Contact and Contact Languages Peter Siemund, Noemi Kintana, 2008 This new volume on language contact and contact languages presents cutting edge research by distinguished scholars in the field as well as by highly talented newcomers It has two principal aims to analyze language contact from different perspectives notably those of language typology diachronic linguistics language acquisition and translation studies and to describe explain and elaborate on universal constraints on language contact The individual chapters offer systematic comparisons of a wealth of contact situations and the book as a whole makes a valuable contribution to deepening our understanding of contact induced language change With its broad approach this work will be welcomed by scholars of many different persuasions

Language Contact and Bilingualism René Appel, Pieter Muysken, 2005 What happens sociologically linguistically educationally politically when more than one language is in regular use in a community How do speakers handle these languages simultaneously and what influence does this language contact have on the languages involved Although most people in the world use more than one language in everyday life the approach to the study of language has usually been that monolingualism is the norm The recent interest in bilingualism and language contact has led to a number of new approaches based on research in communities in many different parts of the world This book draws together this diverse research looking at examples from many different situations to present the topic in any easily accessible form Language contact is looked at from four distinct perspectives The authors consider bilingual societies bilingual speakers language use in the bilingual community finally language itself do languages change when in contact with each other Can they borrow rules of grammar or just words How can new languages emerge from language contact The result is a clear concise synthesis offering a much needed overview of this lively area of language study

Mufwene, Anna María Escobar, 2022-06-30 Language contact the linguistic and social outcomes of two or more languages coming into contact with each other has been pervasive in human history However where histories of language contact are comparable experiences of migrant populations have been only similar not identical Given this how does language contact work With contributions from an international team of scholars this Handbook the first in a two volume set delves into this question from multiple perspectives and provides state of the art research on population movement and language contact and change It begins with an overview of how language contact as a research area has evolved since the late 19th century The chapters then cover various processes and theoretical issues associated with population movement and language contact worldwide It is essential reading for anybody interested in the dynamics of social interactions in diverse contact settings and how the changing ecologies influence the linguistic outcomes Kontaktdeutsch Csaba Földes, 2005 Linguistic Ecology and Language Contact Ralph Ludwig, Steve Pagel, Peter Mühlhäusler, 2019 This book revisits and updates the concept of linguistic ecology outlining applications to a variety of contact situations worldwide Language Contact. Volume 1 Jeroen Darquennes, Joseph C. Salmons, Wim Vandenbussche, 2019-08-19 Language Contact An International Handbook offers a comprehensive overview of current topics in research on language contact Broadly conceived it stands out for its international approach to language contact complementing the theoretical state of the art with examples from traditionally eclipsed areas and languages Next to a thorough introductory overview of the ground breaking methodological and theoretical approaches that shaped the discipline ample attention goes to the new and innovative insights on language contact in the 21st century Combining concise introductory contributions with in depth treatment of the most relevant case studies in the field the handbook speaks to both junior and established scholars The Cambridge Handbook of Endangered Languages Peter K. Austin, Julia Sallabank, 2011-03-24 It is generally agreed that about 7 000 languages are spoken across the world today and at least half may no longer be spoken by the end of this century This state of the art Handbook examines the reasons behind this dramatic loss of linguistic diversity why it matters and what can be done to document and support endangered languages The volume is relevant not only to researchers in language endangerment language shift and language death but to anyone interested in the languages and cultures of the world It is accessible both to specialists and non specialists researchers will find cutting edge contributions from acknowledged experts in their fields while students activists and other interested readers will find a wealth of readable yet thorough and up to date information Marginal Linguistic Identities Dieter Hubert Stern, Dieter Stern, Christian Voss, 2006 The present conference volume is an attempt to extend the scope of Eastern European linguistics by bringing together contributions from the fields of sociolinguistics and social anthropology hitherto neglected in the study of Eastern European languages The collection of papers focusses primarily on cultural and linguistic hybridity in contexts of marginalization Special attention is given to the language identity nexus All analyses are based on field research covering the spectrum from largescale questionnaire elicitation to participant observation This reflects the editors concern and hope for a renewed appreciation of field work by Slavic scholars The volume is structured thematically dealing withas diverse topics as cultural hybridity linguistic identity in borderland communities language death and genesis code mixing as well as dialect shift under conditions of sociopolitical upheaval Among the languages treated are Kashubian Banat Bul garian Aegean Macedonian Slovene non standard and contact varieties of Russian Karelian Russian Old settlers Russian Russian lexifier pidgins and Russian foreigner talk mixed lects Surzhyk and Trasianka and standard dialect continua in Ex Yugoslavia

Stability and Divergence in Language Contact Kurt Braunmüller,Steffen Höder,Karoline Kühn,2014-11-15 Convergence i e the increase of inter systemic similarities is usually considered the default development in language contact situations This volume focuses on the other logical possibilities of diachronic development namely stability and divergence two well attested but under researched phenomena The contributions investigate the sociolinguistic and structural factors and mechanisms that lead to or at least reinforce both types of non convergence despite of language contact The contributions cover a wide range of language contact situations including standard and non standard varieties

Language Variation and Contact-Induced Change Jeremy King,Sandro Sessarego,2018-03-15 This collection of original contributions dealing with Hispanic contact linguistics covers an array of Spanish dialects distributed across North South and Central America the Caribbean the Iberian Peninsula and the Bosphorus It deals with both native and non native varieties of the language and includes both synchronic and diachronic studies The volume addresses and challenges current theoretical assumptions on the nature of language variation and contact induced change through empirically based linguistic research The sustained contact between Spanish and other languages in different parts of the world has given rise to a wide number of changes in the language which are driven by a concomitance of different linguistic and social processes This collection of articles provides new insight into such phenomena across the Spanish speaking world

Wheatley,2013-11-15 This volume further complicates and advances the contemporary perspective on language endangerment by examining the outcomes of the most commonly cited responses to language endangerment i e language documentation language revitalization and training The present collection takes stock of many complex and pressing issues such as the assessment of the degree of language endangerment the contribution of linguistic scholarship to language revitalization programs the creation of successful language reclamation programs the emergence of languages that arise as a result of revitalization efforts after interrupted transmission the ethics of fieldwork and the training of field linguists and language educators The volume s case studies provide detailed personal accounts of fieldworkers and language activists who are grappling with issues of language documentation and revitalization in the concrete physical and socio cultural settings of native speaker communities in different regions of the world Constructions in Contact 2 Hans C. Boas,Steffen

Höder,2021-06-15 The last few years have seen a steadily increasing interest in constructional approaches to language contact This volume builds on previous constructionist work in particular Diasystematic Construction Grammar DCxG and the volume Constructions in Contact 2018 and extends its methodology and insights in three major ways First it presents new constructional research on a wide range of language contact scenarios including Afrikaans American Sign Language English French Malayalam Norwegian Spanish Welsh as well as contact scenarios that involve typologically different languages Second it also addresses other types of scenarios that do not fall into the classic language contact category such as multilingual practices and language acquisition as emerging multilingualism Third it aims to integrate constructionist views on language contact and multilingualism with other approaches that focus on structural social and cognitive aspects The volume demonstrates that Construction Grammar is a framework particularly well suited for analyzing a wide variety of language contact phenomena from a usage based perspective Cognitive Contact Linguistics Eline Zenner,Ad

Backus,Esme Winter-Froemel,2018-11-19 This volume serves to illustrate the promising insights to be gained when cross fertilizing Cognitive Linguistics and contact linguistics which each hold crucial ingredients to an encompassing study of contact induced variation and change Combining the study of the individual mind with the study of shared context bridging research on experience and perspective with research on variation and change and tackling the methodological complexities that this empirical approach to mental categorization entails help us determine how the meaningful units that make up language are categorized and structured in the bi and multilingual mind and by extension in any human mind Together the ten papers in this volume reveal the complexities of the interaction between usage meaning and mind in contact induced variation and change which we hope will inspire future research exploring the possibilities of the cross fertilization we have labeled Cognitive Contact Linguistics Language Management in Contact Situations Jiří Nekvapil,Tamah

Sherman,2009 The authors of this volume analyze language contact situations emerging in East and Central Europe Australia and Japan The individual chapters focus on language problems which appear in concrete interactions between speakers of various languages The objective of the book is to demonstrate the capacity of the language management framework on the basis of highly diversified empirical material and thus aid in the solving of similar language problems which arise in different types of intercultural contact The chapters contribute to the forming of a new approach to the processes underlying linguistic diversity covering both its micro and macro aspects Ecological Perspectives on Language Endangerment and Loss Salikoko S. Mufwene, 2025-07-01 This book discusses various issues arising from the dominant discourse on language endangerment and loss in linguistics Are the terms mother tongue heritage language and ancestral language interchangeable Does a child receiving formal education in a mother tongue different from that of his or her parents lose a culture that he or she should otherwise inherit Is a language separate from the culture in which its speakers evolve and it is being practiced Thus is a population shifting to a dominant language necessarily abandoning its traditional culture ipso facto or is it also reshaping it along with that associated with the new language into a new mixed culture Are cultures intended to be static Must speakers of particular languages be wedded to them in the same way they are to their genes What can we learn about language shift language vitality and human adaptiveness from the protracted history of mankind These and a host of other issues regarding the intertwining of colonization globalization language and culture are discussed in this book inviting linguists and other interested scholars to be critical participants in the current debate
