Sustainable and Responsible Entrepreneurship and Key Drivers of Performance Popescu, Cristina Raluca Gh., Verma, Rahul, 2021-06-25 Today's entrepreneurial practices operate in a continuously challenging highly dynamic and everchanging environment. In these times of change, it is important to examine up-to-date theoretical infrastructure on the most powerful and representative approaches to sustainable and responsible entrepreneurship. Sustainable and Responsible Entrepreneurship and Key Drivers of Performance covers an updated view of the newest trends, novel practices, and latest tendencies concerning sustainable and responsible entrepreneurship in a world dominated by insecurity and dramatic economic, political, and managerial changes. The book presents theoretical infrastructure on approaches to sustainable and responsible entrepreneurship as well as empirical results that make a tremendous contribution to the analysis of organizations' performance, key drivers. Elaborating on topics such as greening economy, intellectual capital, knowledge management, sustainable entrepreneurial ecosystems, and social responsibility, this text is essential for entrepreneurs, managers, executives, academicians, scientists, researchers, students, practitioners, and policymakers worldwide. Achieving sustainable cultivation of cassava Volume 1 Dr. Clair H. Hershey, 2017-07-31 Discusses the growing importance of cassava as a global crop. Reviews trends and challenges in cassava cultivation in Asia, Africa, and Latin America. Summarises current best practice in cassava agronomy, including seed systems, soil and nutrient management, crop rotations, and intercropping, and postharvest management. Root, Tuber and Banana Food System Innovations Graham Thiele, Michael Friedmann, Hugo Campos, Vivian Polar, Jeffery W. Bentley, 2022-04-06 This open access book describes recent innovations in food systems based on root, tuber, and banana crops in developing countries. These innovations respond to many of the challenges facing these vital crops, linked to their vegetative seed and bulky and perishable produce. The innovations create value, food jobs, and new sources of income while improving the wellbeing and quality of life of their users. Women are often key players in the production, processing, and marketing of roots, tubers, and bananas, so successful innovation needs to consider gender. These crops and their value chains have long been neglected by research and development; hence, this book contributes to filling the gap. The book features many outcomes of the CGIAR Research Program in Roots, Tubers, and Banana (RTB), which operated from 2012 to 2021, encompassing many tropical countries, academic and industry partners, multiple crops, and major initiatives. It describes the successful innovation model developed by RTB that brings together diverse partners and organizations to create value for the end users and to generate positive economic and social outcomes. RTB has accelerated the scaling of innovations to reach many end users cost effectively. Though most of the book's examples and insights are from Africa, they can be applied worldwide. The book will be useful for decision makers designing policies to scale up agricultural solutions for researchers and extension specialists seeking practical ideas and for scholars of innovation.

Dudenhoefer, D.,Durrourx-Malpartida, V.,2014-07-01 The stories presented in this report illustrate how improved collaboration among RTB centers is making a real difference This includes harnessing the potential of genomics to accelerate the development of improved RTB varieties facilitating collaborative responses to critical crop diseases and improving postharvest options During its second year the CGIAR Research Program on Roots Tubers and Bananas RTB expanded its geographic reach and its network of partners while launching a series of collaborative initiatives aimed at resolving the most serious constraints faced by smallholder farmers growing RTB crops While this work was initiated within a framework of seven disciplinary themes RTB started a process to transition from an output focused research agenda to one based on outcomes and impacts

Cassava R. J. Hillocks,J. M. Thresh,Anthony Bellotti,2002 Cassava is a major tropical tuber crop found throughout the tropics India Oceania Africa and Latin America Hitherto there has been no single text covering all aspects of cassava biology production and utilization This book fills that gap representing the first comprehensive research level overview of this main staple crop Chapters are written by leading experts in this field from all continents The book is suitable for those working and researching in cassava in both developed and developing countries as well as advanced students

Sustainable Feed Ingredients and Additives for Aquaculture Farming Ndakalimwe Naftal Gabriel,Kenneth Prudence Abasubong,Victoria Ndinelago Erasmus,Manoj Tukaram Kamble,2024-09-18 This book describes sustainable aquaculture ingredients and additives uncovered in Africa and Asia It also discusses current aquaculture research practices on alternative protein carbohydrate lipid mineral vitamin and feed additives It further demonstrates how aquaculture practices could be a feasible and cost effective venture capable of producing products in an environmentally sustainable manner The aquaculture industry is suffering from scarcity of sustainable feedstuffs particularly protein and oil components which play an important role in the nutritional requirements of many aquaculture species The availability of components such as fish meal fish oil and other synthetic feed additives has rendered aquaculture operations unsustainable particularly in terms of cost Therefore the quest to replace such unsustainable components is developing in Africa and Asia This book helps aquaculture farmers researchers the aquafeed industry investors students lawmakers and other stakeholders in the aquaculture field to comprehend scientific based sustainable feed ingredients and additives in aquaculture from an African and Asian viewpoint

Proven Successes in Agricultural Development David J. Spielman,Rajul Pandya-Lorch,2010-01-01 The world has made enormous progress in the past 50 years toward eliminating hunger and malnutrition While in 1960 roughly 30 percent of the world s population suffered from hunger and malnutrition today less than 20 percent doessome five billion people now have enough food to live healthy productive lives Agricultural development has contributed significantly to these gains by increasing food supplies reducing food prices and creating new income and employment opportunities for some of the world's poorest people This book examines where why and how past interventions in agricultural development have succeeded It carefully reviews the policies programs and investments in agricultural development that have reduced hunger and poverty across Africa Asia and Latin America over the past half century The 19 successes included here are described in in depth case studies that synthesize the evidence on the intervention's impact on agricultural productivity and food security evaluate the rigor with which the evidence was collected and assess the tradeoffs inherent in each success Together these chapters provide evidence of what works in agricultural development

Agile Data-Oriented Research Tools to Support Smallholder Farm System Transformation James Hammond, Mark Van Wijk, Aniruddha Ghosh, Tim Pagella, Jacob Van Etten, 2023-05-09 Smallholder farming systems contribute a substantial quantity of the food consumed in many lower and middle income countries and contribute to the national and local economies Despite the importance of smallholder farming a transformation is needed in order to deliver food security and decent incomes for the farmers themselves and at the national level This transformation must also be sustainable in terms of environmental impacts and social equity in order to be successful in the long term The pressures of population growth climate change and land fragmentation compound the problem Addressing these overlapping issues is a big challenge One obstacle is the lack of good quality granular data linking these issues together Household surveys are the workhorse method for gathering such data but there are well known problems that prevent household survey data from building up a big picture and delivering insights beyond the geographical boundary of each individual study Such obstacles include the lack of access to datasets differences in survey design and respondent biases Agile data oriented research tools can help to overcome these challenges We use the term agile to imply

methods that do not attempt exhaustive measurements which are designed to be easy to use and which entail some degree of flexibility in terms of adaptation to local conditions and integration with other tools or methods. Often these methods also nudge the behavior of tool users towards best practices. In recent years various research tools and approaches have been published which fit within our definition of agile data oriented research tools. The domains these tools function in include monitoring and evaluation, intervention targeting, tailored information delivery, citizen science, credit scoring and user feedback collection, all with the overarching aim to improve data quality and access for those studying the sustainable development of smallholder farming systems. The goal of this Research Topic is to better define that niche, the ecosystem of tools and current practices, and to explore how such approaches can provide the underpinning knowledge required for the transformation of smallholder farming systems. One example of an agile data oriented research tool is the Rural Household Multi Indicator Survey (RHoMIS). It is a modular digital system for building household surveys addressing the common topics in smallholder development. It was purposefully designed to give a broad overview of the farm system whilst keeping survey duration to a minimum, to be user friendly in implementation and to be sufficiently flexible to function in a broad variety of locations and projects. Since 2015 it has been used by 30 organizations in 32 countries to interview over 34 000 households. The tool and database are open access and a community of practice is developing around the tool. We particularly welcome contributions that engage with the RHoMIS tool and data. However, we also describe the tool in order to provide an example of what is meant by an agile data oriented research tool and welcome contributions focusing on other tools or methodologies. We encourage the submission of manuscripts addressing the above topic and those which fit within one of the following three sub themes:

- i Perspectives or review articles which explore the niche, best practices or promising approaches in agile data oriented research tools for smallholder farm system transformation. Also technology and code articles that describe new tools are welcomed.
- ii Original research articles presenting analyses based on data derived from agile data oriented tools used at the project level. Examples include impact evaluations, adoption studies, targeting studies or adaptive management and should reflect on the additional benefit leveraged by the agile method applied.
- iii Original research articles that make use of the large amounts of data generated by such agile methods and/or link between agile data and other data sources. Examples include meta analyses of data from multiple studies, layering data collected from different agile tools or linking agile data to remote sensing or large scale modeling outputs.

IITA Research, 1996 China's Economic Statecraft: Co-optation, Cooperation And Coercion Mingjiang Li, 2017-03-16. This book aims to study China's economic statecraft in the contemporary era in a comprehensive manner. It attempts to explore China's approaches to using its economic trade investment and financial power for the pursuit of its political security and strategic interests at the regional and global levels. The volume addresses three major issue areas in particular. The first issue pertains to how Beijing has used its economic clout to protect what it perceives as its core interests in its external relations. Three cases are included: the Taiwan issue, human rights and territorial dispute in the South China Sea The second major area of inquiry focuses on how China has employed its economic power in its key bilateral relations including relations with Japan North Korea the United States and other states in the East Asian region The third issue concerns China's economic statecraft in the global context It addresses the impacts of China's economic power and policy on the transformation of the global financial structure developments in Africa the international intellectual property rights regime and China's food security relations with the outside world The Evolution of Economic Development in Africa Francis K. Mbroh, 2021-07-11 Within the theoretical framework of the trade growth and structural transformation growth nexuses the book examines the evolution of African goods and service trade in terms of value and share of global commerce relative to other regions during the period 1948-2017 It also identifies and discusses discernible changes in the composition and structure of African exports and imports between 1995 and 2015 and their implications for economic development in Africa The study attributes Africa's laggard trade performance during the period primarily to sub-optimal macroeconomic policies and lack of bold export development policies and initiatives among other factors It also offers an incisive discussion of several inhibitions to the structural transformation of African exports and imports including lack of finance globalization tariff and non-tariff measures in global markets The discussion of the evolution of African trade during the period 1948-2017 based on statistics and publications of international organizations including the UNCTAD the World Bank and the African Development Bank among others is the first of its kind in terms of scope and depth of review of African trade The analyses of cross-border trade during 1948-2017 and their implications for Africa's economic development prospects constitute a useful reference material for academics and students of African and development studies and African and international policymakers How the World Hunger Problem Was not Solved Christian Gerlach, 2024-02-14 The world food crisis 1972-1975 gave rise to new development concepts To eradicate world hunger small peasants were supposed to use modern inputs like high yielding seeds fertilizer pesticides and irrigation This would turn subsistence producers into business owners transform rural areas invigorate national economies and the crisis-stricken world economy and thus stabilize capitalism Together with an in-depth account of the world food crisis this book analyses how this global scheme largely failed It shows its diverse initiators their reasoning and motives its political breakthrough the degrees to which it was implemented globally and nationally in the following decades and its socioeconomic effects in rural areas Despite internationally coordinated policies and coercive means the scheme failed on all levels situation analysis design policies incapable institutions including big business implementation and peasants' responses Selective realization in certain regions and for certain crops and the appropriation of funds by local elites often aggravated inequality and hunger Case studies are about Bangladesh Indonesia Tanzania and Mali The book shows limits to global social engineering imperialism and state control It is aimed at students scholars activists and non-specialists interested in development and the world food problem The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a
