

Doing Business in the Philippines

The Philippines is the gateway to the vast flourishing markets of the ASEAN nations. Despite their long history dating back to the Spanish colonial period and their status as the largest, in terms of area, of the Netherlands' most successful export, the fact that Manila has become the largest metropolitan in southeast Asian gives importance to the Philippines. Many investors intend to explore the Philippines and realize its abundant natural resources, a developing infrastructure for regional growth, a flourishing tourism and service sector, access to capital & risk.

The Philippine economy withstood the recent global economic downturn better than any other ASEAN country. Apart from being heavily affected by international economic, the Philippines enjoys rampant domestic consumption, low dependence on exports and large amounts of remittances flowing into the country from the millions of Filipinos working abroad. With a stable banking system, a well performing stock market, a constantly expanding tourism and services industry and record high levels of international reserves, the prospects for the Philippine economy remain positive. Furthermore, the Asian Development Bank (ADB), which offers a broad range of business opportunities in the region is located in Manila. These indicators, in combination with a low-key rate of inflation as high as 8.5%, being taught in an online provides many business opportunities for Dutch entrepreneurs. This is particularly true for the sectors mentioned below.

Priority sectors

Transport & Infrastructure

While challenges remain in the area of public infrastructure, the increased public spending on infrastructure has led to less serious transportation impediments through better roads and more flights.

The next few years will see additional investments from the government and increasing private investments in the Philippine transport sector. The Philippines is also developing other facilities to be an international gateway to being an all-Asian region with domestic and international flights. Due to the growing importance in transport and logistics, business opportunities for Dutch companies can be explored for airport and port development, warehousing and express facilities for fast-food corporations and heavy industries (e.g. cold storage, freezing, post-harvest storage facilities).

Commerce

The Netherlands and the Philippines have strong and long-standing bilateral political and economic cooperation in the maritime sector. The importance is the "blue economy of the world" and is the primary source of wealth for the Dutch fleet. The country's strategic nature makes it a strategic hub for ports, shipping and maritime regulation within the Asia-Pacific region. Given the substantial economic increase expected for the Asian shipping sector, more and more Dutch shipping companies are seeking to expand their business presence in the Philippines instead of just partnering with local transport agencies. Similarly, both governments strongly tend the need to continue on Maritime Affairs (MARA), a high-level ministerial meeting to strengthen maritime cooperation.

Handbook on Water Security Claudia Pahl-Wostl, Anik Bhaduri, Joyeeta Gupta, 2016-01-29 Water security has received increasing attention in the scientific and public policy communities in recent years The Handbook on Water Security is a much needed resource that helps the reader navigate between the differing interpretations of water security It explains the various dimensions of the topic by approaching it both conceptually and thematically as well as in relation to experiences in different regions of the world The international contributors explore the various perspectives on water security to show that it has multiple meanings that cannot easily be reconciled Topics discussed include challenges from human security to consumerism how trade policies can help to achieve water security in a transboundary setting the potential of risk based governance arrangements and the ecology of water security Scholars and postgraduate students in the social sciences working on water related issues will find this book to be of substantial interest It will strongly appeal to policymakers and practitioners looking at the strengths and limitations of water security

Southeast Asian Personalities of Chinese Descent Leo Suryadinata, 2012 This is a bold project recording the lives of a particular group of Southeast Asians Most of the people whose biographies are included here have settled down in the ten countries that constitute the region Each of them has either self identified as Chinese or is comfortable to be known as someone of Chinese ancestry There are also those who were born in China or elsewhere who came here to work and do business including seeking help from others who have ethnic Chinese connections With the political and economic conditions of the region in a great state of flux for the past two centuries it is impossible to find consistency in the naming process Confucius had stressed that correct names make for the best relationships In this case Professor Leo Suryadinata has been pursuing for decades the elusive goal of finding the right name to give to the large numbers of people who have in one way or another made their homes in or made some difference to Southeast Asia I believe that when he and his colleagues selected the biographies to be included here they have taken a big step towards the rectification of identities for many leading personalities In so doing he has done us all a great service Professor Wang Gungwu National University of Singapore

Perception of Energy Experts on the Adoption of Energy Efficient Technology Ir. Dr. THIRUMALAICHELVAM SUBRAMANIAM, 2019-04-22 Barriers to commercial and industrial energy efficiency improvements in Klang Valley Malaysia are more pronounced due to the existence of factors such as weak policy and regulatory frameworks economic and financial constraints lack of information and other issues This research utilized a qualitative research methodology using a phenomenology approach aimed at enhancing the knowledge of commercial and industrial energy efficiency in Klang Valley Malaysia by investigating the barriers associated with the implementation of energy efficiency measure The eleven main themes and twenty eight sub themes identified from the study revealed that energy is poorly managed in the various commercial and industrial sectors and that there is an energy efficiency gap resulting from the low implementation of energy efficiency measures In addition the study revealed that the most important factors impeding the implementation of cost effective energy efficiency technologies in the organizations are principally economic and financial barriers such as lack of budget funding and access to capital The study also revealed that these economic and financial barriers are linked to the lack of adequate government framework for commercial and industrial energy efficiency The study also showed that market factors related to cost reductions resulting from lowered energy use and threats of rising energy prices are the most important drivers for adapting energy efficiency technologies To motivate energy efficiency there should be established standards guidelines roadmaps regulations and enforcement of regulation suitable for the local environment which at present has not been executed completely in Malaysia

Japan's Colonialism and Indonesia Muhammad Abdul Aziz,2012-12-06 The rise and fall of the Japanese empire constitutes one of the most dramatic episodes of modern history Within the short span of fifty years Japan grew out of political backwardness into a position of tremendous power Japan s rise to power challenged Europe s hegemony over Asia but paradoxically it was Japan s fall that caused the irreparable ruin of the colonial system over Eastern lands Japan went to war against the West under the battlecry of Asia s liberation from European colonialism In reality for forty years beginning with her first war against China she had striven to imitate this colonialism as she had endeavoured to imitate the political military and economic achievements of Europe A thorough understanding of the imitative character of the Japanese Empire might well have induced the leaders of the nation to side with the conservative trend of political thought in the Western world in order to maintain the existing world wide political system of which colonial rule was an accepted part They might have understood that an adventurous revolutionary policy was bound to result in grave dangers for their own state and most conservative structure Japan might have continued to grow and to expand if she had succeeded to play the role of the legitimate heir to Europe s decaying power in Asia By violently opposing that power she undermined the very foundations of her own rule outside the home islands

Forests for People Anne M Larson,Deborah Barry,Ganga Ram Dahal,2012-09-10 Who has rights to forests and forest resources In recent years governments in the South have transferred at least 200 million hectares of forests to communities living in and around them This book assesses the experience of what appears to be a new international trend that has substantially increased the share of the world's forests under community administration Based on research in over 30 communities in selected countries in Asia India Nepal Philippines Laos Indonesia Africa Burkina Faso Cameroon Ghana and Latin America Bolivia Brazil Guatemala Nicaragua it examines the process and outcomes of granting new rights assessing a variety of governance issues in implementation access to forest products and markets and outcomes for people and forests Forest tenure reforms have been highly varied ranging from the titling of indigenous territories to the granting of small land areas for forest regeneration or the right to a share in timber revenues While in many cases these rights have been significant new statutory rights do not automatically result in rights in practice and a variety of institutional weaknesses and policy distortions have limited the impacts of change Through the comparison of selected cases the chapters explore the nature of forest reform the extent and meaning of rights transferred or recognized and the role of authority and citizens networks in forest governance They also assess opportunities and obstacles associated with government regulations and markets for forest products and the effects across the cases on livelihoods forest condition and equity Published with CIFOR
