Dancing On Our Turtles Back By Leanne Simpson:

Dancing on Our Turtle's Back Leanne Simpson, 2011 By combining provocative prose with photo essay Time and the Suburbs explores the disappearance of cities in North America under the weight of suburban exurban and other forms of development that are changing the way we live and do politics Drawing on social theory from Henri Lefebvre and Guy Debord to Antonio Negri this book reconceptualizes the tasks facing activists and social movements This is both a provocative essay and introduction to important social theory for anyone interested in cities and urban development

Decolonizing Freedom Allison Weir, 2024 Freedom is celebrated as the definitive ideal of modern western civilization Yet in western thought and practice the freedom of some has typically been defined through opposition to the unfreedom of others These exclusions are not secondary to a prior concept of freedom but are constitutive exclusions that have shaped the ways in which western theorists define what freedom is Allison Weir draws on Indigenous political philosophies and practices of decolonization grounded in conceptions of relationality and resurgence in dialogue with western philosophies to reconstruct a tradition of relational freedom as a distinctive political conception of freedom a radically democratic mode of engagement and participation in social and political relations with an infinite range of strange and diverse beings perceived as free agents in interdependent relations in a shared world Through the work of Leanne Betasamosake Simpson John Borrows Glen Coulthard Audra Simpson Rauna Kuokkanen Joanne Barker Jodi Byrd James Tully and many others this book traces a tradition of colonial unknowing in western conceptions of freedom from Hobbes through republican and critical theories and explores a countertradition of relations between freedom and collective love exemplified in Leanne Betasamosake Simpson's love of land and Hannah Arendt's love of the world It considers Indigenous modes of world creation as performative affective embodied strategies of democratic life skilled modes of addressing diversity and conflict fear and hostility in practices of freedom that embrace polycentric knowledges and rooted dynamisms in contexts of complexity and constant change Weir argues that Indigenous women's struggles to belong to communities and participate in governance have engendered new theories of relational rights that combine politics of rights and resurgence and calls for a coalitional politics guided by queer and feminist Indigenous models of transformative resurgence Finally Weir proposes an approach to critical theory as a practice of self transformation through openness to the other oriented toward relational freedom

Decolonizing the Spirit in Education and Beyond Njoki Nathani Wane, Miglena S. Todorova, Kimberly L. Todd, 2019-12-14 This multidisciplinary collection probes ways in which emerging and established scholars perceive and theorize decolonization and resistance in their own fields of work from education to political and social studies to psychology medicine and beyond In this time of renewed global spiritual awakening indigenous communities are revisiting ways of knowing and evoking theories of resistance informed by communal theories of solidarity Using an intersectional lens chapter authors present or imagine modes of solidarity resistance and political action that subvert colonial and neocolonial formations Placing emphasis on the importance of theorizing the spirit a discourse that is deeply embedded in our unique cultures and ancestries this book is able to capture and better understand these moments and processes of spiritual emergence re emergence Global Warming and the Sweetness of Life Matt Hern, Am Johal, 2018-03-30 Seeking new definitions of ecology in the tar sands of northern Alberta and searching for the sweetness of life in the face of planetary crises Confounded by global warming and in search of an affirmative politics that links ecology with social change Matt Hern and Am Johal set off on a series of road trips to the tar sands of northern Alberta perhaps the world's largest industrial site dedicated to the dirty work of extracting oil from Alberta's vast reserves Traveling from culturally liberal self consciously green Vancouver and aware that our well meaning performances of recycling and climate justice marching are accompanied by constant driving flying heating and fossil fuel consumption Hern and Johal want to talk to people whose lives and fortunes depend on or are imperiled by extraction They are seeking new definitions of ecology built on a renovated politics of land Traveling with them is their friend Joe Sacco infamous journalist and cartoonist teller of complex stories from Gaza to Paris who contributes illustrations and insights and a chapter length comic about the contradictions of life in an oil town The epic scale of the ecological horror is captured through an series of stunning color photos by award winning aerial photographer Louis Helbig Seamlessly combining travelogue sophisticated political analysis and ecological theory speaking both to local residents and to leading scholars the authors propose a new understanding of ecology that links the domination of the other than human world to the domination of humans by humans They argue that any definition of ecology has to start with decolonization and that confronting global warming requires a politics that speaks to a different way of being in the world a reconstituted understanding of the sweetness of life Published with the help of funding from Furthermore a program of the J M Kaplan fund New Directions in Theorizing Qualitative Research Norman K. Denzin, James Salvo, 2020-03-09 The chapters in this volume collect together perspectives on Indigenous epistemologies These Indigenous ways of knowing pay particular attention to the relational aspects of language culture and place They are not identified as specific themes but as integrated parts of a philosophy for Indigenous epistemologies think within a relational framework so that all aspects are best understood from this perspective Indigenous ways of knowing have resisted colonization and oppression and as such Indigenous research perspectives exemplify a commitment to social justice one that recovers knowledges that have been silenced or subjugated When such knowledge is shared we can see how to challenge oppressive regimes We can see how to seek truth in a relational way that's attendant to being together Indigenous Research takes up issues of social justice in a way that is informed by Indigenous epistemologies an important practice in contemporary research particularly qualitative inquiry Prairie Rising Jaskiran K Dhillon, 2017-04-24 In 2016 Canada's newly elected federal government publically committed to reconciling the social and material deprivation of Indigenous communities across the country Does this outward shift in the Canadian state's approach to longstanding injustices facing Indigenous peoples reflect a transformation

with teeth or is it merely a reconstructed attempt at colonial Indigenous settler relations Prairie Rising provides a series of critical reflections about the changing face of settler colonialism in Canada through an ethnographic investigation of Indigenous state relations in the city of Saskatoon Jaskiran Dhillon uncovers how various groups including state agents youth workers and community organizations utilize participatory politics in order to intervene in the lives of Indigenous youth living under conditions of colonial occupation and marginality In doing so this accessibly written book sheds light on the changing forms of settler governance and the interlocking systems of education child welfare and criminal justice that sustain it Dhillon's nuanced and fine grained analysis exposes how the push for inclusionary governance ultimately reinstates colonial settler authority and raises startling questions about the federal Sovereignty and Contestation Keith Cherry, 2025-06-30

For centuries western political thought has addressed the problem of pluralism primarily through the prism of state sovereignty Sovereignty and Contestation explores how contemporary pluralism is shaped by concepts of state sovereignty and how particular practices of pluralism are challenging sovereignty in turn The book presents a unique comparison of Indigenous Settler relations in Canada with Union State relations in the European Union By placing Indigenous peoples alongside European nations as equal agents in a transnational field of action the book connects disparate literatures on sub state and supra state pluralism Using an interdisciplinary and practice centred approach Keith Cherry explores how political legal and economic practices co generate unique blends of sovereignty and pluralism in each setting offering an account of pluralism that significantly expands on traditional political science accounts Ultimately the book identifies two sets of practices that have played key roles facilitating pluralism in both Canada and Europe interpenetrating institutions and conditional authority claims Cherry considers the conditions under which these practices are most likely to emerge and to flourish He concludes that such practices are most successful where all parties can contest the terms and content of their relationships and where all parties need one another In doing so Sovereignty and Contestation highlights how contestability and mutual need provide novel criteria through which practices of pluralism can be assessed and developed Research Handbook on Intersectionality Mary Romero, 2023-03-02

Critical intersectional scholarship enhances researchers and scholar activists ability to open novel research frontiers This forward thinking Research Handbook demonstrates how to pursue fluid and innovative research approaches identify differences from traditional methodologies and overcome the common challenges faced when carrying out intersectional research Indigenous Child and Youth Care Cherylanne James, 2023-08-10

At its core Indigenous Child and Youth Care Weaving Two Heart Stories Together is about unity It seeks to create a heart to heart practice by bridging Indigenous ways of knowing with Western Child and Youth Care practices encouraging students to approach their work with a more open understanding of First Nations Métis and Inuit worldviews Author Cherylanne James guides students through self location by dismantling their pre existing biases regarding Indigenous Peoples understanding personal privilege and power educating themselves on Canadian and Indigenous history and contexts
