Database Systems Concepts 6e Knowledge-Based Intelligent Information and Engineering Systems Mircea Gh. Negoita, 2004-10-14 We were very pleased to once again extend to the delegates and we are pleased to this ay our friends the warmest of welcomes to the 8 International Conference on Knowledge Based Intelligent Information and Engineering Systems at Wellington stitute of Technology in Wellington New Zealand The KES conferences attract a wide range of interest The broad focus of the c ference series is the theory and applications of computational intelligence and em gent technologies Once purely a research field intelligent systems have advanced to the point where their abilities have been incorporated into many conventional applition areas The quest to encapsulate human knowledge and capabilities in domains such as reasoning problem solving sensory analysis and other complex areas has been avidly pursued This is because it has been demonstrated that these abilities have definite practical applications. The techniques long ago reached the point where they are being exploited to provide commercial advantages for companies and real beneficial effects on profits KES 2004 provided a valuable mechanism for delegates to obtain a profound view of the latest intelligent systems research into a range of gorithms tools and techniques KES 2004 also gave delegates the chance to come into contact with those applying intelligent systems in diverse commercial areas The combination of theory and practice represents a uniquely valuable opportunity for preciating the full spectrum of intelligent systems activity and the state of the art Perspectives for Digital Social Innovation to Reshape the European Welfare Systems F. Davide, A. Gaggioli, G. Misuraca, 2021-03-15 Social welfare is riddled with ingrained problems that have already defeated all standard approaches and reform calls for counterintuitive action Digital Social Innovation DSI is primarily about promoting grassroots initiatives to address localized societal problems and is not normally talked about in relation to welfare reform but perhaps social innovation initiatives with their localized and case based approach could help to solve the enormous structural problems faced by our welfare democracies today This book addresses the potential and implications of DSI for the reform of the European welfare state The 14 papers collected here focus on key issues such as the nature of social innovation and its effects scaling up to address structural problems and make systemic change new social risks and challenges the role of digital thinking and emerging technologies public governance approaches tolerance of institutions integrating innovation in the welfare system and the empowerment of marginalized citizens These topics are examined from an integrated and multi disciplinary perspective taking into consideration not only current EU debate on policy trends for social protection but also the nature of digital transformation and its effects on social change The book also highlights barriers to adoption as well as the potential limitations and failures of this emerging approach Digital social innovation is an emerging discipline that deserves more attention from policy makers and more resources from government Drawing on welfare studies political science sociology psychology law and computer science this book will be of interest to researchers practitioners and policy makers alike MANAGEMENT INFORMATION SYSTEMS S. Egenhofer, Robin Fegeas, Cliff Kottman, 2012-12-06 Geographic information systems have developed rapidly in the past decade and are now a major class of software with applications that include infrastructure maintenance resource management agriculture Earth science and planning But a lack of standards has led to a general inability for one GIS to interoperate with another It is difficult for one GIS to share data with another or for people trained on one system to adapt easily to the commands and user interface of another Failure to interoperate is a problem at many levels ranging from the purely technical to the semantic and the institutional Interoperating Geographic Information Systems is about efforts to improve the ability of GISs to interoperate and has been assembled through a collaboration between academic researchers and the software vendor community under the auspices of the US National Center for Geographic Information and Analysis and the Open GIS Consortium Inc It includes chapters on the basic principles and the various conceptual frameworks that the research community has developed to think about the problem Other chapters review a wide range of applications and the experiences of the authors in trying to achieve interoperability at a practical level Interoperability opens enormous potential for new ways of using GIS and new mechanisms for exchanging data and these are covered in chapters on information marketplaces with special reference to geographic information Institutional arrangements are also likely to be profoundly affected by the trend towards interoperable systems and nowhere is the impact of interoperability more likely to cause fundamental change than in education as educators address the needs of a new generation of GIS users with access to a new generation of tools The book concludes with a series of chapters on education and institutional change Interoperating Geographic Information Systems is suitable as a secondary text for graduate level courses in computer science geography spatial databases and interoperability and as a reference for researchers and practitioners in industry commerce and government Stream Data Processing: A Quality of Service Perspective Sharma Chakravarthy, Qingchun Jiang, 2009-04-09 In recent years a new class of applications has come to the forefront p marily due to the advancement in our ability to collect data from multitudes of devices and process them e ciently These include homeland security plications sensor pervasive computing applications various kinds of mo toring applications and even traditional applications belonging to nancial computer network management and telecommunication domains These plications need to process data continuously and as long as data is available from one or more sources. The sequence of data items continuously gen ated by sources is termed a data stream Because of the possible never ending nature of a data stream the amount of data to be processed is likely to be unbounded In addition timely detection of interesting changes or patterns or aggregations over incoming data is critical for many of these applications Furthermore the data arrival rates may uctuate over a period of time and may be bursty at times For most of these applications Quality of Service or QoS requirements such as response time memory usage and throughput are extremely important These application requirements make it infeasible to simply load the incoming data streams into a persistent store and process them e ectively using currently available database management techniques Lexicon of Online and Distance Learning Lawrence A. Tomei, 2009-11-16 Lexicon of Online and Distance Learning a desktop resource focuses specifically on distance education for researchers and practitioners It provides key information about all levels of education that is KD12 higher education proprietary education and corporate training allowing for comprehensive coverage of the discipline of distance education The book offers a comprehensive index of distance learning terms cross references to synonyms and when appropriate online web links to encourage further exploration Each lexicon entry is categorized by its root terminology general education technology instructional technology or distance education and provides the actual definition and complete exploration of the term along with specific references that include related books volumes and available manuscripts Content-Based Video Retrieval Milan Petkovic, Willem Jonker, 2013-06-29 The area of content based video retrieval is a very hot area both for research and for commercial applications In order to design effective video databases for applications such as digital libraries video production and a variety of Internet applications there is a great need to develop effective techniques for content based video retrieval One of the main issues in this area of research is how to bridge the semantic gap between low Ievel features extracted from a video such as color texture shape motion and others and semantics that describe video concept on a higher level In this book Dr Milan Petkovi6 and Prof Dr Willem Jonker have addressed this issue by developing and describing several innovative techniques to bridge the semantic gap The main contribution of their research which is the core of the book is the development of three techniques for bridging the semantic gap 1 a technique that uses the spatio temporal extension of the Cobra framework 2 a technique based on hidden Markov models and 3 a technique based on Bayesian belief networks To evaluate performance of these techniques the authors have conducted a number of experiments using real video data The book also discusses domains solutions versus general solution of the problem Petkovi6 and Jonker proposed a solution that allows a system to be applied in multiple domains with minimal adjustments They also designed and described a
