

UNION configuration and operation program

- Research operation programs. Safe load indicator (SLI), configuration program with auto-levelling system, operation program with telescoping sections, telescoping program with telescoping sections, full counterweight program, full counterweighting force indicator and wind speed indicator as optional features.
- Setting of the configuration program by convenient telescopic functions.
- Safe and reliable arrangement of the configuration and representation of all essential data on graphic functions on the touch screen.
- Full independent wind force test.
- Hydraulic relief device when telescoping the telescopic mast sections.
- Load capacity values for any boom intermediate length.
- Direct indicators for precise dimensioning of the mast.

UNION-insulated telescoping system

- Telescoping by single-stage hydraulic mast with hydraulic driving function (optional electric telescoping system).
- Telescoping performance can increase by convenient operation guide on the monitor, precise approach of the telescoping sections.
- Telescopic loads are displayed on the UNION's operating screen.
- Full-scale telescoping system with "automatic mode" for automatic telescoping to the required boom length.
- Two compact and light-weight telescoping systems, full extended load capacities, absolutely with long booms and large mast.
- Automatic monitoring in each position during telescoping and steering for the preservation of the structure's stability.

Variable steering concept with "active rear-axle steering"

Axis 1, 2 and 3 set up as "active rear-axle steering". 3 steering methods are selectable by four programs (P).

P1 Reverse steering

Axis 1 and 2 are steered automatically with hydraulic assistance by the steering action. Axis 3, 4 and 5 are steered "active" speed-dependent according to the steering of the main axis, and vice versa. When axis 3 is set to straight displacement and axis 1 is set to turn, axis 4 is set to straight displacement and axis 2 is set to turn. The change of the steering angle is consistent with the speed, results in a precise and stable steering track during higher speeds, low deviation in reverse and the manoeuvring is greatly improved.

P2 Attitudinal steering

Axis 3, 4 and 5, depending on the steering angle of axis 1 are steered by means of the steering wheel so that the intended turning path can be performed.

P3 Side steering

Axis 3, 4 and 5 are steered into the same direction as axis 1 and 2 by means of the steering wheel.

P4 Steering without oversteer

Axis 3, 4 and 5 are steered in accordance with axis 1 so that no oversteer occurs at the rear of the carrier frame area.

P5 Independent rear-axle steering

Axis 1 and 2 are steered by the steering action, axis 3, 4 and 5 are steered independently of the steering of axis 1 and 2 by independent control systems, thereby the steering of axis 1 is adapted to the required situation.

- It follows in the rear-axle steering three modes: it is effective and the rear axis are set to straight displacement by the steering wheel.
- Two independent hydraulic circuits with wheel and engine driven hydraulic pump, two maximum speeds, constant.
- Two independent control systems by steering with a hydraulic pressure-dependent suspension system.
- Enter into the mode of the "active rear-axle steering" by a button.
