principal in 1855 brought modern ideas of education to Montreal and he imparted to the emerging institution his own deep commitment to science The Molson Hall in 1862 the first Medical School on campus in 1872 the Redpath Museum in 1882 the Macdonald Physics Building the Redpath Library and the Macdonald Workman Engineering Building all in 1893 were the major external evidences of the great intellectual advances that had been made Equally the admission of women students in 1884 marked the immense social developments in Montreal society An early contribution to elementary teaching through the work of the McGill Normal School was followed by the institution of examinations for a far flung network of affiliated secondary schools and by the encouragement and supervision of local colleges By the time Dawson retired in 1893 McGill's influence was already reaching across the new Dominion of Canada and the university was ready to make the transition into the twentieth century

Alexander Ross,Terry Crowley,1999-09-01 How has the Ontario Agricultural College contributed to Canadian education What role has the college played in the development of agriculture since it was founded in 1874 This history of Canada's oldest agricultural college revolves around these two questions It shows that the college's mandate has changed in its attempt to serve both education and agriculture The Ontario Agricultural College was established to enshrine science in farming but it also became the testing and extension arm of the provincial ministry of agriculture Direct government control for ninety years provided financial resources not enjoyed by other post secondary schools but the results sometimes proved of greater benefit to agriculture than to education or science Swept into the University of Guelph when it was created in 1964 the college rethought its role It emerged as a centre for advanced scientific inquiry for global agricultural programs and for understanding rural societies The controversies surrounding these changes and the evolving nature of agriculture and science are brought out fully in this account of the past century and a quarter

The first publication of its type, it featured a broad mix of news, essays, poetry, parliamentary debates, book reviews, and antiquarian notes. For the genealogist, it is an absolute treasure house of useful data. From the beginning, the magazine published notices of births, deaths, and marriages, enabling people throughout the English-speaking world to keep abreast of friends and relatives at home and abroad. About 6,000 of these notices relate to persons in North America and the West Indies, and these have been extracted for this compilation. Among the many fascinating notices are those relating to the deaths of American Loyalists in England and to marriages and deaths in America of younger sons of the English gentry and nobility. The Medical Times and Gazette, 1879 The Navy List Great Britain.
