Learning and Expectations in Macroeconomics George W.

Evans, Seppo Honkapohja, 2012-01-06 A crucial challenge for economists is figuring out how people interpret the world and form expectations that will likely influence their economic activity Inflation asset prices exchange rates investment and consumption are just some of the economic variables that are largely explained by expectations Here George Evans and Seppo Honkapohja bring new explanatory power to a variety of expectation formation models by focusing on the learning factor Whereas the rational expectations paradigm offers the prevailing method to determining expectations it assumes very theoretical knowledge on the part of economic actors Evans and Honkapohja contribute to a growing body of research positing that households and firms learn by making forecasts using observed data updating their forecast rules over time in response to errors This book is the first systematic development of the new statistical learning approach Depending on the particular economic structure the economy may converge to a standard rational expectations or a rational bubble solution or exhibit persistent learning dynamics The learning approach also provides tools to assess the importance of new models with expectational indeterminacy in which expectations are an independent cause of macroeconomic fluctuations Moreover learning dynamics provide a theory for the evolution of expectations and selection between alternative equilibria with implications for business cycles asset price volatility and policy This book provides an authoritative treatment of this emerging field developing the analytical techniques in detail and using them to synthesize and extend existing research
