The Edge and the Center: Gated Communities and the Discourse of Urban Fear

Across America, middle-class and upper-middle-class gated communities are creating new forms of exclusion and residential segregation, exacerbating social cleavages that already exist (Hakely and Snyder 1997; Higley 1995; Lang and Danielson 1997; Marcuse 1997). While historically secured and gated communities were built in the United States to protect estates and to contain the leisure world of retirees, these urban and suburban developments now target a much broader market, including families with children (Guterson 1992; Lofland 1998). This retreat to secured enclaves with walls, gates, and guards materially and symbolically contradicts American ethos and values, threatens public access to open space, and creates yet another barrier to social interaction, bucking of social networks, as well as increased tolerance of diverse cultural/racial/social groups (Davis 1992; Devine 1996; Iltis 1995; Judd 1995; McKenzie 1994).

In this paper, I explore how the discourse of fear of violence and crime and the search for a secure community by those who live in gated communities in the United States legitimizes and racializes class-based exclusion strategies and residential segregation. I examine whether residents of cities experiencing increasing cultural diversity are fleeing neighborhoods because they have experienced a "loss of place" and therefore feel unsafe and insecure (Ahman and Low 1992). Some people are responding to this loss by clanking to buy into a defensive space, a walled and guarded community that they can call home. [gated communities, United States, urban fear]

Contemporary anthropological studies of the city focus predominantly on the center, producing ethnographies of culturally significant places such as markets, housing projects, gardens, plazas, convention centers, waterfront developments, and homeless shelters that articulate macro- and micro-urban processes (Low 1999). These studies illuminate both the material and metaphorical power of spatial analysis for theorizing the city. One problem, however, is the perpetuation of an uneasy relationship between suburban and urban studies. The historical division between "rural" and "urban" exacerbates this tendency by sorting researchers into separate disciplinary and methodological camps.

The shift to a spatial analysis of the city requires reconsidering this separation in that contradictions and conflicts at the center are often drawn more vividly at the edge.¹ So we find that the suburban "malling of America" is a spatial counterpart of economic restructuring and the de-industrialization of central cities (Zukin 1991); and the cultural diversity and racial tensions of the center are reflected in the segregation and social homogeneity of the suburbs (Massey and Denton 1988). The gated residential development is particularly intriguing, mirroring changes in social values that accompany rapid globalization. Understanding this spatial form, its historical and cultural context, and why residents choose to live there provides an important perspective on the central city that is often overlooked.

For a majority of Americans the distance from suburb to city, or from work to home, is maintained through a complex social discourse. Anti-urban sentiment is often expressed as fear of violence and crime that is said to pervade the city. Within gated communities, though, the intensity of the discourse of urban fear suggests other underlying societal explanations. In this study, I explore the complex interconnections between this discourse, loss of a sense of place, and increasing class separation. I suggest that adding walls, gates, and guards produces a landscape that encodes class relations and residential (race/class/ethnic/gender) segregation more permanently in the built environment (Low 1997). Understanding how this landscape is legitimated by a discourse of fear of crime and violence helps to uncover how this design form is materially and rhetorically created.

I use thematic content analysis to document the existence of urban fear in its many forms and its influence on residents' residential narratives. Critical discourse analysis provides a complementary methodology for decoding talk about urban fear as an acceptable, socially constructed discourse about class exclusion and racial/ethnic/cultural bias. The use of urban fear discourse reinforces residents' claims

The Edge and the Center Setha M. Low, 2006 Ärgerliche Räume und Räume der Ergötzlichkeit Sebastian Ernst, 2018-05-14

Ärgerliche Wirtshäuser, ergötzliche Höfe, empfindsame Kerker: Räume und Emotionen bilden emotionale Topografien, mit deren Hilfe sich die Akteure die Welt als Lebenswelt ordnen und aneignen. Der Autor untersucht den Zusammenhang zwischen Bewegung in frühneuzeitlichen Räumen und der emotionalen Bewegtheit der Akteure. Er kommt zu dem Schluss, dass Emotionen und Räume dabei nicht nur passiv erlebt, sondern aktiv vollzogen werden. Denn es handelt sich bei beiden um wechselseitig verbundene Handlungsanweisungen, die in Regeln, Topoi und Vorstellungen münden. Die sich ergebenden Verflechtungen nehmen verschiedene Formen an, die in kulturell sozial und individuell bedingten emotionalen Topografien kulminieren, also in Anordnungen von Räumen und zugehörigen Emotionen. In dieser Struktur liegen somit Erklärungen für das Verhalten der Akteure verborgen. From the joyfull harbor to the annoying pub and into the sentimental prison. To operate in these early modern spaces demands concurrently an emotional operation of the actors. Emotions and spaces are not only passively perceived but actively implemented. Both entities are reciprocally interconnected, handling instructions which are transformed into rules, topoi and concepts. The resulting interconnections assume various forms that culminate in culturally, socially and individually related emotional topographies. The culmination climaxes in formation of spaces and their respective emotions. With these interconnections, actors are enabled to construct, deploy and assume the world as their own lifeworld. This structure reveals explanations for the behavior of the actors.

Gated Communities Rowland Atkinson, Sarah Blandy, 2013-09-13

This informative volume gathers contemporary accounts of the growth, influences on and impacts of so-called gated communities, developments with walls, gates, guards and other forms of surveillance. While gated communities have become a common feature of the urban landscape in South Africa, Latin and North America, it is also clear that there is now significant interest in gated living in the European and East Asian urban context. The chapters in this book investigate issues and communities such as gated communities in the metropolitan area of Buenos Aires, Argentina, planning responses to gated communities in Canada, who segregates whom, The analysis of a gated community in Mendoza, Argentina, sprawl and social segregation in southern California. These illustrative chapters enable the reader to understand more about the social and economic forces that have led to gating, the ways in which gated communities are managed and their wider effects on both residents and those living outside the gates. This book was previously published as a special issue of the journal Housing Studies.

Die US-amerikanische Stadt im Wandel Barbara Hahn, 2025-01-31

Die US-amerikanische Stadt ist einem steten Wandel unterworfen. Im Osten und Mittleren Westen sind die meisten Städte als Handelsorte an Wasserwegen gegründet worden. Zu Zeiten der Industrialisierung erlebten sie einen Aufschwung und ihr Bevölkerungsmaximum erreichten sie Mitte des 20. Jahrhunderts, ehe aufgrund von Suburbanisierung und Deindustrialisierung ein Bedeutungsrückgang einsetzte. Überall zeigten sich Spuren des Verfalls und die Prognosen für die Zukunft waren denkbar schlecht. Wie Barbara Hahn in ihrem Buch zeigt, scheint dieser Trend mittlerweile gebrochen. Es geht wieder aufwärts mit der US-amerikanischen Stadt. Einigen der früheren Industriestädte ist ein Strukturwandel gelungen. Im Süden und Westen des Landes haben sich die Städte zu neuen Wachstumszentren entwickelt. Allerdings profitieren nicht alle Städte von dieser positiven Entwicklung und viele schrumpfen weiter in erschreckendem Ausmaß. Wie die Autorin betont, sind unabhängig von Lage und Entwicklungsstand in allen Städten ähnliche Prozesse wie Neoliberalisierung, Deregulierung, Privatisierung und Gentrifizierung zu beobachten. Aufgrund der Vielzahl an didaktisch aufgearbeiteten Grafiken eignet sich das Buch für Studierende, Wissenschaftler und interessierte Laien als Lektüre. Die Charakteristika der US-amerikanischen Stadt, die anhand aktueller Beispiele herausgearbeitet sind, veranschaulichen ebenso wie die illustrativen Fotos auch dem interessierten Leser den Wandel der US-amerikanischen Stadt.

Hegelianische Sozialstaatlichkeit Joshua Folkerts, 2024-02-22 In diesem Buch wird erstens Hegels ideengeschichtlicher Beitrag zur Genese von Sozialstaatstheorien herausgearbeitet und zweitens seine politische Theorie für die politiktheoretische Modellierung von Sozialstaatlichkeit fruchtbar gemacht. Mit Hegel lässt sich ein Mittelweg zwischen vor allem ökonomisch orientierter Sozialpolitik und vor allem anerkennungs-fokussierter Identitätspolitik einschlagen, der weder mangelnde Anerkennung nur als Epiphänomen ökonomischer Verhältnisse versteht noch freiheitsbeschränkende Armut durch die Einforderung von Respekt für prekäre Lebenslagen normalisiert. Im genuin modernen Konflikt des Auseinandertretens von Gesellschaft und Staat von sich selbst verwirklichendem Individuum auf dem Markt und der Gemeinschaft zeichnet sich eine neue zentrale Funktion des Staats ab. Die Garantie der Freiheit für seine Bürger. Der Sozialstaat als Mittel dieser staatlichen Freiheitsgarantie erfüllt somit nicht nur eine bedeutende Rolle in der Versöhnung von Individuum und Gemeinschaft, sondern bildet hierdurch zugleich ein zentrales Legitimationselement des modernen Staats.

Nachbarschaft, Räume, Emotionen Sandra Evans, Schamma Schahadat, 2014-03-15 Kann Nachbarschaft geplant, organisiert oder gar erzwungen werden? Welche Rechte, welche Verantwortung haben die Nachbarn und wie wird der ideale Nachbar definiert? Wo liegt der Unterschied zwischen Nachbarschaft und Gemeinschaft? Dieses Buch richtet den Blick auf den räumlichen und emotionalen Zustand des Nachbar-Seins. Nachbarschaft kann Nähe und Intimität zum räumlich nächsten erzeugen, birgt aber auch die Gefahr von Unstimmigkeiten und Konflikten. Der interdisziplinäre Band untersucht verschiedene Entwürfe und Realisierungen von Nachbarschaft. Die Beiträge richten den Blick auf unterschiedliche Formate: auf die sowjetische Kommunalwohnung, die amerikanische gated community, auf den Klosterbau, aber auch auf gute und schlechte Nachbarschaften in der Literatur. Mit Beiträgen u.a. von Zygmunt Bauman und Slavoj Žižek und mit zwei Texten von Wladimir Kaminer.

T.C. Boyle's "The Tortilla Curtain": Urban Conditions, Racism, and Ecological Disaster in Fortress Los Angeles Laura Schomaker, 2015-02-01 Los Angeles is famous for its sunny weather for the Hollywood film studios and for being the residence of the rich and beautiful And although or precisely because all this is more illusion than reality the city frequently serves as setting for various pieces of fiction However Los Angeles does not only play a huge role in the media but since lately also in the realm of urban studies Having long been a kind of outsider in the field it is now regarded as a prototypical example for urban development by the L A School In this context its image is less sunny and positive but reveals a deep rooted racism against Latin American immigrants in combination with a fortress mentality on the part of its white population as well as a unique urban ecology in which natural catastrophes seem to be regular occurrences This paper intends to outline the significance of Los Angeles in urban studies and trace the thereby acquired findings in a fictional representation of the city T C Boyle s novel The Tortilla Curtain In the process it is shown how urban conditions racism and nature especially in the form of ecological disasters intersect and influence each other Global Elites A.

Pakistan: From the Rhetoric of Democracy to the Rise of Militancy Ravi Kalia, 2012-08-21 The essays in this volume address the central theme of Pakistan s enduring yet elusive quest for democracy The book charts Pakistan s struggle from its very inception at least in the political rhetoric provided by both civilian and military leaders for democracy liberalism freedom of expression inclusiveness of minorities and even secularism At the same time it demonstrates how in practice the country has continued to drift towards increasingly brittle authoritarianism religious extremism and intolerance of minorities both Muslim and non Muslim This chasm between animated political rhetoric and grim political reality has baffled the world as much as Pakistanis themselves In this volume scholars and practitioners of statecraft from around the world have sought to explain the dichotomy that exists between the rhetoric and the reality Crucial areas such as Pakistan s troubled status as a theocracy its relationship with the US the position of women and their quest for empowerment the Mujahir Qaumi movement the sharp class divide that has led to an elitist political culture and finally an erudite discussion of the popular topic Jinnah s vision of Pakistan are the focus of this book This volume will be of interest to scholars of history political science international relations sociology anthropology and urban planning policy makers and think tanks as well as the wider reading public curious about South Asia

Potchefstroom a small settler colonial city in South Africa It draws on the city s everyday practices and experiences to offer local bottom up insights into security beyond the state The book provides a comprehensive understanding of security beyond the state and how security workers and residents experience and perceive their own security practices their daily interactions with other security providers which influences power dynamics between those who express fear through various platforms and those deemed potential criminals It aids in re conceptualising violence and security governance in South Africa with a view to analysing the processes of crime prevention and management the changing nature of public and private spaces and how these spaces interact with state and local authorities In a rigorous exploration of the ways to tackle the complex problem of crime the book critiques an overreliance on security infrastructures such as social media gated barriers neighbourhood residents associations and private security companies It also looks at how crime is treated as an individual as
