Student Exploration: Equilibrium and Pressure

Prior Knowledge Questions (Do these BEFORE using the Gizmo.)

A typical scuba tank has a volume of 11 liters and can support a diver for one hour. An adult breathes about 3 liters of air with each breath.

1. How can an 11-liter tank give a diver enough oxygen for one hour?

The deeper you go the more pressure the diver's lungs are under that added means less air is required for respiration.

2. Why are diving cylinders made of thick, reinforced aluminum or steel?

Two withstand the pressure exerted by the water the deeper they go down

Gizmo Warm-up

Gases consist of billions of tiny particles in constant motion, colliding with each other and the walls of the container. The sum of all these collisions creates pressure on the walls of the container. In theory, any amount of gas can be squeezed into a container if the container is strong enough to withstand the gas pressure.

The Equilibrium and Pressure Gizmo shows a mixture of gases in a chamber. The lid of the chamber can move up or down.

1. Check that Reaction 1 is selected. Use the Moles  $\text{NO}_2$  slider to increase the number of  $\text{NO}_2$  molecules in the chamber. How does this affect the volume of the chamber?

As  $\text{NO}_2$  increases the volume of the fluid in the container increases so the volume of the chamber increases also and vice

2. Notice the weights on the lower right side of the Gizmo. Drag several of these weights to the lid. How does this affect the volume of the chamber?

added pressure decreases the volume of the chamber
