Exploring Materiality and Connectivity in Anthropology and Beyond Philipp Schorch, Martin Saxer, Marlen Elders, 2020-03-30 Exploring Materiality and Connectivity in Anthropology and Beyond provides a new look at the old anthropological concern with materiality and connectivity It understands materiality not as defined property of some thing nor does it take connectivity as merely a relation between discrete entities Somewhat akin to Heisenberg's uncertainty principle it sees materiality and connectivity as two interrelated modes in which an entity is or more precisely is becoming in the world The question thus is how these two modes of becoming relate and fold into each other Throughout the four year research process that led to this book the authors approached this question not just from a theoretical perspective taking the suggestion of thinking through things literally and methodologically seriously the first two workshops were dedicated to practical hands on exercises working with things From these workshops a series of installations emerged straddling the boundaries of art and academia These installations served as artistic academic interventions during the final symposium and are featured alongside the other academic contributions to this volume Throughout this process two main themes emerged and structure Part II Movement and Growth and Part III Dissolution and Traces of the present volume respectively Part I Conceptual Grounds consists of two chapters offering conceptual takes on things and ties one from anthropology and one from archaeology As interrelated modes of becoming materiality and connectivity make it necessary to coalesce things and ties into thing ties an insight toward which the chapters and interventions came from different sides and one in which the initial proposition of the editors still shines through Throughout the pages of this volume we invite the reader to travel beyond imaginaries of a universe of separate planets united by connections and to venture with us instead into the thicket of thing ties in which we live Biological Anthropology Craig Stanford, John S. Making in the Learning of Science Bernard Zubrowski, 2009-08-14 Mountaineers Rock Climbers and Science Educators Around the 1920s rock climbing separated from mountaineering to become a separate sport At that time European climbers developed new equipment and techniques enabling them to ascend mountain faces and to climb rocks which were considered unassailable up to that time American climbers went further by expanding and improving on the equipment They even developed a system of quantification where points were given for the degree of difficulty of an ascent This system focused primarily on the pitch of the mountain and it even calculated up to de mals to give a high degree of quantification Rock climbing became a technical system Csikszentmihaly 1976 observed that the sole interest of rock climbers at that time was to climb the rock Rock climbers were known to reach the top and not even glance around at the scenery The focus was on reaching the top of the rock In contrast mountaineers saw the whole mountain as a single unit of perc tion The ascent to them is a gestalt including the aesthetic historical personal and physical sensations Csikszentmihaly 1976 p 486 This is an example of two contrasting approaches to the same kind of landscape and of two different groups of people Interestingly in the US Europe and Japan a large segment of the early rock climbers were young mathematicians and theoretical physicists while the mountaineers were a more varied lot
