Inness,2001-08-07 Meatloaf fried chicken Jell O cake because foods are so very common we rarely think about them much in depth The authors of Cooking Lessons however believe that food is deserving of our critical scrutiny and that such analysis yields many important lessons about American society and its values This book explores the relationship between food and gender Contributors draw from diverse sources both contemporary and historical and look at women from various cultural backgrounds including Hispanic traditional southern White and African American Each chapter focuses on a certain food teasing out its cultural meanings and showing its effect on women s identity and lives For example food has often offered women a traditional way to gain power and influence in their households and larger communities For women without access to other forms of creative expression preparing a superior cake or batch of fried chicken was a traditional way to display their talent in an acceptable venue On the other hand foods and the stereotypes attached to them have also been used to keep women and men too from different races ethnicities and social classes in their place Literacy Assessment and Intervention for Classroom Teachers Beverly DeVries,2017-07-05

The fourth edition of this comprehensive resource helps future and practicing teachers recognize and assess literacy problems while providing practical effective intervention strategies to help every student succeed The author thoroughly explores the major components of literacy providing an overview of pertinent research suggested methods and tools for diagnosis and assessment intervention strategies and activities and technology applications to increase students skills Discussions throughout focus on the needs of English learners offering appropriate instructional strategies and tailored teaching ideas to help both teachers and their students Several valuable appendices include assessment tools instructions and visuals for creating and implementing the book s more than 150 instructional strategies and activities and other resources Object Lessons Caren Holtzman,Lynn

Susholtz,2024-11-15 When Caren Holtzman and Lynn Susholtz look around a classroom they see a veritable goldmine of mathematical investigations involving number measurement size shape symmetry ratio and proportion They also think of the ways great artists have employed these concepts in their depictions of objects and space for example Picasso s use of geometric shapes in his Cubist still lifes or contemporary artist Tara Donovan's room-sized sculptures of everyday items. In their new book Object Lessons, Caren, a math educator, and Lynn, an artist and art educator, use a highly visual approach to show students and teachers the art in math and the math in art. Integrating visual arts into math experiences makes the lessons accessible, engaging, and meaningful for a wide range of students. In each chapter, the authors use everyday objects to create rigorous hands-on activities that address key mathematics standards and concepts. Each lesson provides an introduction to the featured object that explains how it connects to key mathematical concepts, a discussion of the artist's art styles and techniques, featured activities organized by grade level and math content area, the basic materials required to prepare and teach each lesson, a clear picture of what the lesson will look like in a classroom, and a list of resources. The book and its accompanying CD feature a wonderful gallery of images, including art photos and student work, and a collection of links to art education organizations, museums, and Web sites that focus on the work of forty major artists. The Cambridge Companion to Children's Literature M. O. Grenby, Andrea Immel, 2009-12-10 A wide-ranging introduction to an exciting and rapidly expanding field. Understanding the Worlds of Young Children Laurie Katz, Melissa Wilson, 2021-03-01

Children begin their literacy journeys from the moment of their birth as they begin to read the world around them. They embark on their journeys as they observe and react to the gestures and voices of their family members and hear and use the language in which they are immersed to communicate with others. Through their interactions with the sign systems surrounding them, they become socialized into the cultural practices of their communities and construct meaning in their lives. Children's entrance into formal education, where they begin to read the word, further connects them with literacies of other communities, both nationally and globally. Thus, the early years become a critical time to build and support current and future learning, where children develop into creative problem solvers, thoughtful communicators, and productive leaders and citizens of the next generation. This volume extends current knowledge of children's learning by exploring the importance of children's earliest years within the context of their families and communities and connecting those years with their formal education. Development is viewed through a child's perezhivanie, a concept by Vygotsky (1933, 1934, 1994) that expresses the unity of the individual's biological and cultural development. According to Vygotsky, development does not isolate the individual from her/his social context. Children are social beings from birth who acquire and make meanings of their world through their interactions with their families, friends, childcare providers, religious groups, and other community members. These interactions encompass the way children use language within children's ecosocial, physical, and social worlds, where development occurs. How these ecosocial worlds support each other or collide will impact children's literacy development. This unique contribution provides the reader with opportunities to: a) Recognize the importance of literacy practices as cultural and social within the context of the multiple worlds of young children; b) promote a continuity of children's ecosocial worlds into their formal education through concepts of perezhivanie; and c) envision an alternative framework for recognizing children's ecosocial worlds outside of the classroom and integrating aspects of those worlds to involve families in their child's formal education

Collective Identity and Cultural Resistance in Contemporary Chicana/o Autobiography Juan Velasco, 2016-07-28 The first book length study of this genre Collective Identity and Cultural Resistance in Contemporary Chicana/o Autobiography facilitates new understandings of how people and cultures are displaced and reinvent themselves Through the examination of visual arts and literature Juan Velasco analyzes the space for self expression that gave way to a new paradigm in contemporary Chicana/o autobiography By bringing together self representation with complex theoretical work around culture ethnicity race gender sex and nationality this work is at the crossroads of intersectional analysis and engages with scholarship on the creation of cross border communities the liberatory dimensions of cultural survival and the reclaiming of new art fashioned against the mechanisms of violence that Mexican Americans have endured

Children's Culture and the Avant-Garde Marilynn Strasser Olson, 2013-03-05 This volume explores the mutual influences between children's literature and the avant garde Olson places particular focus on fin de siècle Paris where the Avant garde was not unified in thought and there was room for modernism to overlap with children's literature and culture in the Golden Age The ideas explored by artists such as Florence Upton Henri Rousseau Sir William Nicholson Paula Modersohn Becker and Marc Chagall had been disseminated widely in cultural productions for children their work in turn influenced children's culture These artists turned to children's culture as a new way of seeing allied to a contemporary interest in international artistic styles Children's culture also has strong ties to decadence and to the grotesque the latter of which became a distinctively Modernist vision This book visits the qualities of the era that were defined as uniquely childlike the relation of childhood to high and low art and the relation of children's literature to fin de siècle artistic trends Topics of interest include the use of non European figures the Golliwogg approaches to religion and pedagogy to oppression and motherhood to Nature in a post Darwinian world and to vision in art and life Olson's unique focus covers new ground by concentrating not simply on children's literature but on how childhood experiences and culture figure in art

Handbook of Instructional Practices for Literacy Teacher-educators Joyce E. Many, 2001-01-01. This volume offers a unique glimpse into the teaching approaches and thinking of a wide range of well-known literacy researchers and the lessons they have learned from their own teaching lives. The contributors teach in a variety of universities, programs, and settings. Each shares an approach he or she has used in a course and introduces the syllabus for this course through personal reflections that give the reader a sense of the theories, prior experiences, and influential authors that have shaped their own thoughts and approaches. In addition to describing the nature of their students and the program in which the course is taught, many authors also share key issues with which they have grappled over the years while teaching their course; others discuss considerations that were relevant during the preparation of this particular syllabus or describe how it evolved in light of student input. The book is organized by areas within literacy education: reading, English language arts, literature, emergent literacy, content area literacy, literacy assessment, and instruction, literacy and technology, and inquiries into literacy theory and classroom practice. It is accompanied by an interactive Web site: <http://msit.gsu.edu/handbook>. This online resource provides additional information about the authors' courses, including complete syllabi, recommended readings, grading rubrics, and sample assignments. Readers are invited to respond and contribute their own syllabi and teaching experiences to the discourse generated by the volume.

Re-envisioning Family Engagement and Literacy in Early Childhood Classrooms Julia López-Robertson, Melissa Wells, 2023-07-21. Families are resources that are extremely powerful and important for young learners from minoritized backgrounds; yet such families are often overlooked, silenced, or ostracized. This book presents a much-needed framework for family and community engagement in the early childhood and elementary literacy classroom that embraces and foregrounds students' unique cultural backgrounds. This book spotlights the families of minoritized learners and the crucial role that they play in building dynamic and inspiring environments for learning. To re-envision the engagement of these families in the early childhood classroom, the book provides an accessible understanding of Yosso's theory of community cultural wealth. Covering key topics such as children's literature and digital tools, the book features strategies for implementing culturally responsive classroom practices to create positive home-school partnerships.

Each chapter highlights one type of capital in community cultural wealth aspirational linguistic familial social navigational and resistant and gives teachers guidance on working with and supporting the efforts of families both inside and outside of the classroom This book is an essential resource to inform current and future early childhood educators on how to gain deeper understandings of what families especially from Communities of Color already are doing for the education of their children and how best to support them
