Environment and Society in Ethiopia Girma Kebede, 2016-10-04 Ethiopia is facing environmental and poverty challenges and urgently needs effective management of its environmental resources Much of the Ethiopian landscape has been significantly altered and reshaped by centuries of human activities and three quarters of the rural population is living on degraded land Over the past two decades the country has seen rapid economic and population growth and unparalleled land use change This book explores the challenges of sustaining the resource base while fuelling the economy and providing for a growing population that is greatly dependent on natural resources for income and livelihoods Adopting a political ecology perspective this book comprehensively examines human impacts on the environment in Ethiopia defining the environment both in terms of the quantity and quality of renewable and non renewable natural resources With high levels of economic production and consumption also come unintended side effects waste discharges emissions of pollutants and industrial effluents These pollutants can degrade the quality of water air land and forests as well as harm the health of people animals and other living organisms if untreated or disposed of improperly This book demonstrates how the relationship between society and environment is inherently and delicately interwoven providing an account of Ethiopia's current environment and natural resource base and future considerations for environmentally sustainable development

The Grand Ethiopian Renaissance Dam and the Nile Basin Zeray Yihdego, Alistair Rieu-Clarke, Ana Elisa Cascão, 2017-10-31 The Grand Ethiopian Renaissance Dam GERD will not only be Africa's largest dam but it is also essential for future cooperation and development in the Nile River Basin and East African region. This book, after setting out basin level legal and policy successes and failures of managing and sharing Nile waters, articulates the opportunities and challenges surrounding the GERD through multiple disciplinary lenses. It sets out its possibilities as a basis for a new era of cooperation, its regional and global implications, the benefits of cooperation and coordination in dam filling and the need for participatory and transparent decision making. By applying law, political science and hydrology to sharing water resources in general and to large scale dam building, filling and operating in particular, it offers concrete qualitative and quantitative options that are essential to promote cooperation and coordination in utilising and preserving Nile waters. The book incorporates the economic dimension and draws on recent developments including the signing of a legally binding contract by Egypt, Ethiopia and Sudan to carry out an impact assessment study, the possibility that the GERD might be partially operational very soon, the completion of transmission lines from GERD to Addis Ababa and the announcement of Sudan to commence construction of transmission lines from GERD to its main cities. The implications of these are assessed and lessons learned for transboundary water cooperation and conflict management.
