Belayeth Hussain,2015-10-05 This book explores different applications of disciplinary and governing techniques of microfinance institutions MFIs for their clients While microcredits are repeatedly hailed as an effective measure of development policy empirical research arrives at different results The present study argues that MFIs

require a high level of disciplinary measures for an absolute level of financial success in terms of repayment. The study employs a comparative case study design covering two MFIs: BRAC and the Bangladesh Rural Development Board. This research has found that relationships of authority and obedience constitute through different instruments, tactics, techniques, and vocabulary of the MFI staff. The study results argue that MFIs target women as their principal subjects as a matter of convenience. The principal function of applying the strength of women's social capital, giving special attention to the customers and staff-client relations, is obtaining sensitive information about clients. Their detectable presence ensures regular repayment of the credit. The study has also revealed the nature of surveillance which covers not only the customer behavior but also the state of enterprises and investing plans.

Determinants of Loan Repayment Performance Among Borrowers of Microfinance Institutions Seyedmehrdad Mirpourian, 2015. This paper investigates the repayment behavior of borrowers of a nonprofit Indian microfinance institution, Indian Institute for Mother and Child, using a novel data set comprising approximately 20,000 installment records within the period April 2009–November 2012. Controlling for context variables, the influence of loan limit, loan size, and business activity on loan repayment is investigated. Empirical results show that the repayment rate improves as borrowers get closer to the loan limit, which is the maximum available loan. While no statistically significant difference across different types of business activities is identified, the main result hints at a relevant role played by motivational effects in fostering the probability to fully and timely repay a loan.

Borrowers' characteristics and their impact on repayment behaviour in Sri Lanka. An application of discriminant and logistic models Aruppillai Thayaparan, B. Sivatharshika, 2019-12-18. Document from the year 2019 in the subject Business economics, Investment and Finance course, ECONOMICS language English abstract. The main objective of the study is to identify the borrower characteristics that discriminate them into defaulters and non-defaulters and examine the determinants of loan repayment and their credit worthiness in microfinance institutions in Vavuniya district in Sri Lanka. In line with above general objective, this study has the following specific objectives: To identify the borrower characters, those classify them into defaulters and non-defaulters in the study area; To evaluate the impact of major demographic characters such as age, gender, levels of education, civil status, and family members of the borrowers that impact on their repayment performance and credit worthiness; To investigate how the farming characters like income, farm size, ownership of land, farming experience, and availability of non-farm income, as well as farmers' attributes such as purposes of loan, crop failure, weather conditions, and knowledge about loans, affect loan repayment and discriminate the borrowers into two groups in the study area. Financial institutions and banks have a major role in the financial sector as well as rural sector of an economy in terms of providing loans to the rural community in developing countries like Sri Lanka. The borrowers, especially farmers, are able to get the loans from the microfinance institutions to improve their living standard through agricultural activities and generate their income. Even the borrowers have chances to receive the loans, the microfinance institutions and banks are facing the problems to recover the loans from the borrowers Thus default rate among the borrowers has been increasing over time which is the difficult task to manage the banks and financial institutions There are a number of many factors particularly demographic and farming characters that affect the loan repayment rates There has not been any empirical research conducted regarding to repayment performance among the borrowers who get the loans from SANASA Thrift Credit and Cooperative Society TCCS banks in Vavuniya district Therefore this study tries to provide the relevant information for a better understanding on the determinants of loan repayment performance of the borrowers and the information will be useful for policy makers other lending institutions and stakeholders for their future decision making on granting the loans for their clients Financial
